Pulaski Faces Fade

New faces, old faces, several thousand faces returned to Pulaski in September 1965 to be the school. The new faces, at first reflecting fear and bewilderment, eventually blended into the Pulaski picture. Meanwhile, familiar faces renewed friendships and rebuilt enthusiasm. After the initial "fade in," students gradually came to fade from shade to shade. In fact, during their three-year role they faded through several phases of activity. Individual changes of character also affected the entire school picture, synthesizing Student Life, Underclassmen, Activities, Faculty, Sports, and Seniors.

With the advent of spring a third fading occurred. As June approached, seniors "faded out" of the Pulaski picture—not dimmed but enlightened for new spheres. Through words and pictures, this year's Cavalier Annual strives to illustrate this fading and acknowledge Pulaski's role in shaping the lives of young adults.

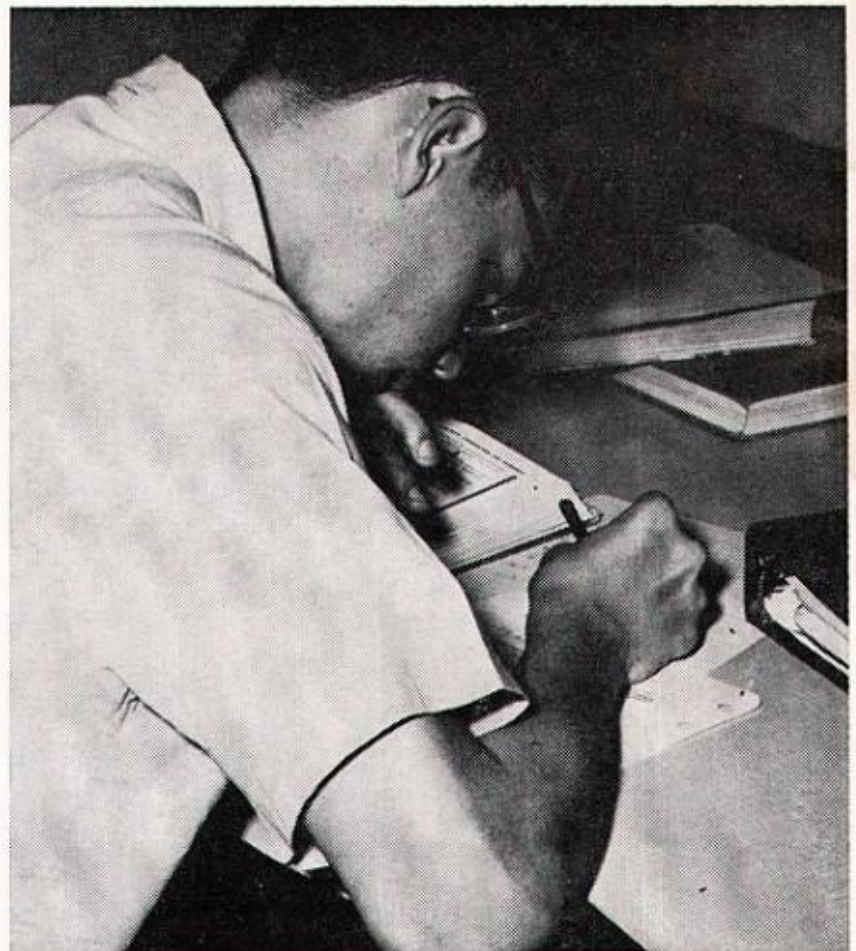

In, Fade Out

Faces Fade In

September marks the beginning of a new school year, bringing with it impatient orders from juniors for class rings.

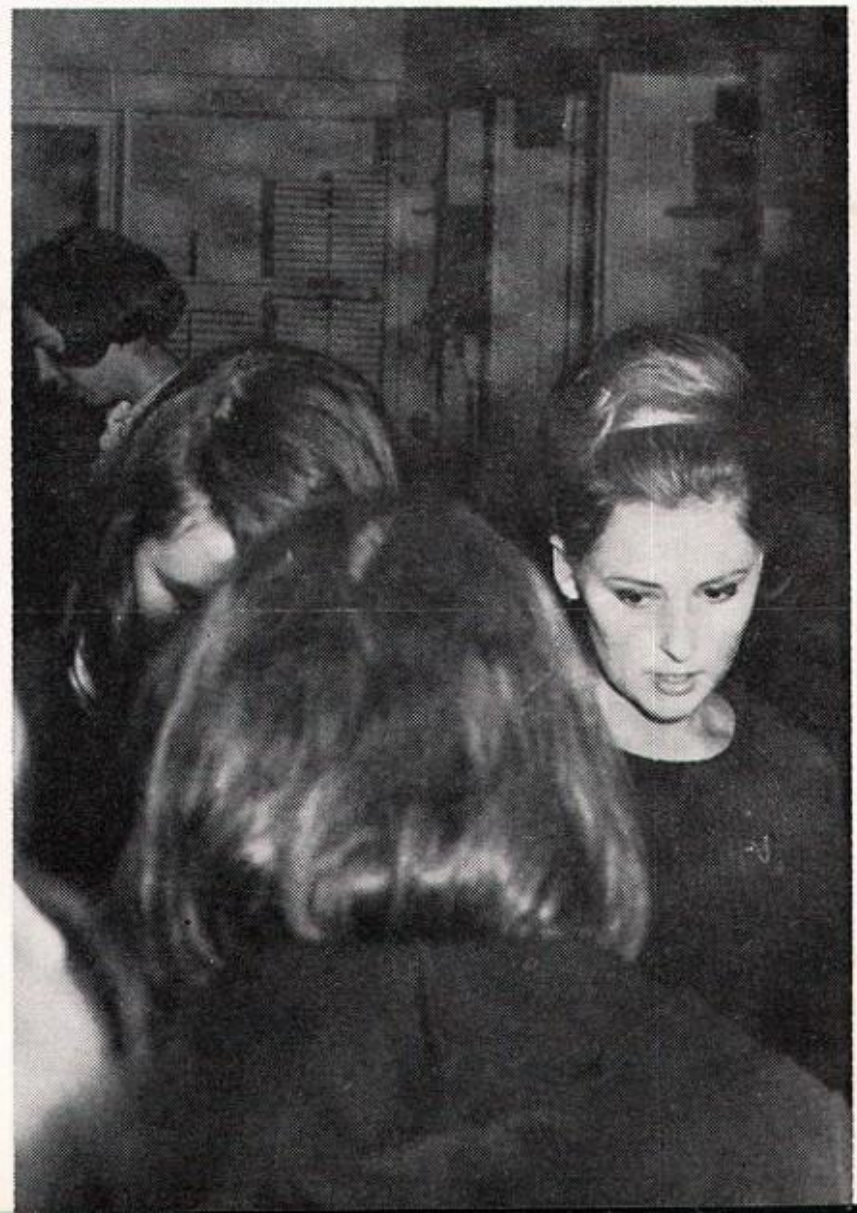

Pulaskians find that leisurely summer days come to an abrupt end as school opens, forcing them to hit their books once again.

The muffled sounds of classrooms echoed through the halls as a solitary sentry took advantage of a brief, quiet interlude.

Impatient Pulaskians "make like sardines" in squeezing close to the bookstore window with their orders, keeping clerks busy.

Newly elected Student Council representatives listened enthusiastically to a seemingly unending list of their duties.

First warm-ups in September produce a conglomeration of squeaks, screeches, sharps, and flats from the orchestra practice room.

Bargain minded Pulaski students flood the foyer with used and sometimes outdated books to sell to unwary sophomores.

Student Life Fades

Action is the key to youth. It is an accurate word to sum up the habits and spirit of students. Action abounds in all areas of school life, but nowhere is it more apparent than in the fads and social gatherings of Pulaskians.

Whether fads actually are an expression of deep-rooted rebellion or whether they are merely another means of having fun, they simultaneously reveal and create action. They vary greatly and change often. They are reflected in the speech, in the popular music, in the dress, and in the activities of students.

Vibrant Pulaskians display enthusiasm and pleasure as they fade through a whirl of social activities. From the first strains of the Kick-Off Dance to the final curtain of the Senior Class Play, Pulaskians are active in both planning and participation.

Into Year of Action

Student Life Is

A slow number provides an opportunity for couples to enjoy a bit of conversation at the Post Bucket Dance.

Would you believe "We like our team," and "Go Rams, beat Tech!" echoed from Ram-backers? Excited Pulaskians clad in crimson red and navy blue animated school spirit. From the enthusiastic cheers at the pep rally to the last strain of music at the dance, Homecoming activities highlighted the football season. Later, beating drums, twanging guitars, and lively dancing heightened the tempo at the Sadie Hawkins and Post Bucket Dances.

Holy beatniks! Cool music, bongo drums, sweat shirts, and sun glasses set the expresso mood for the Student Council Variety show. Expresso and rock was the theme of the Council's "Coffee 'n Roll" presentation.

The cast and crew of the Senior Class Play eagerly awaited the first "raise the curtain!" Alive with anticipation, the members presented the stirring play, "The Miracle Worker." Clamorous applause rewarded their efforts.

Pulaskians impatiently anticipated the Junior Prom on May 6. A panorama of colors and sounds filled the gaily decorated gymnasium and mellowed the atmosphere of an evening of splendor.

"Golly gee, Batman!" Would you believe fads were big at Pulaski? The latest in fads, from the "total look" to Maltese crosses, made the scene.

During half-time ceremonies at the homecoming game, girls on the court, escorted by lettermen, are presented with red roses.

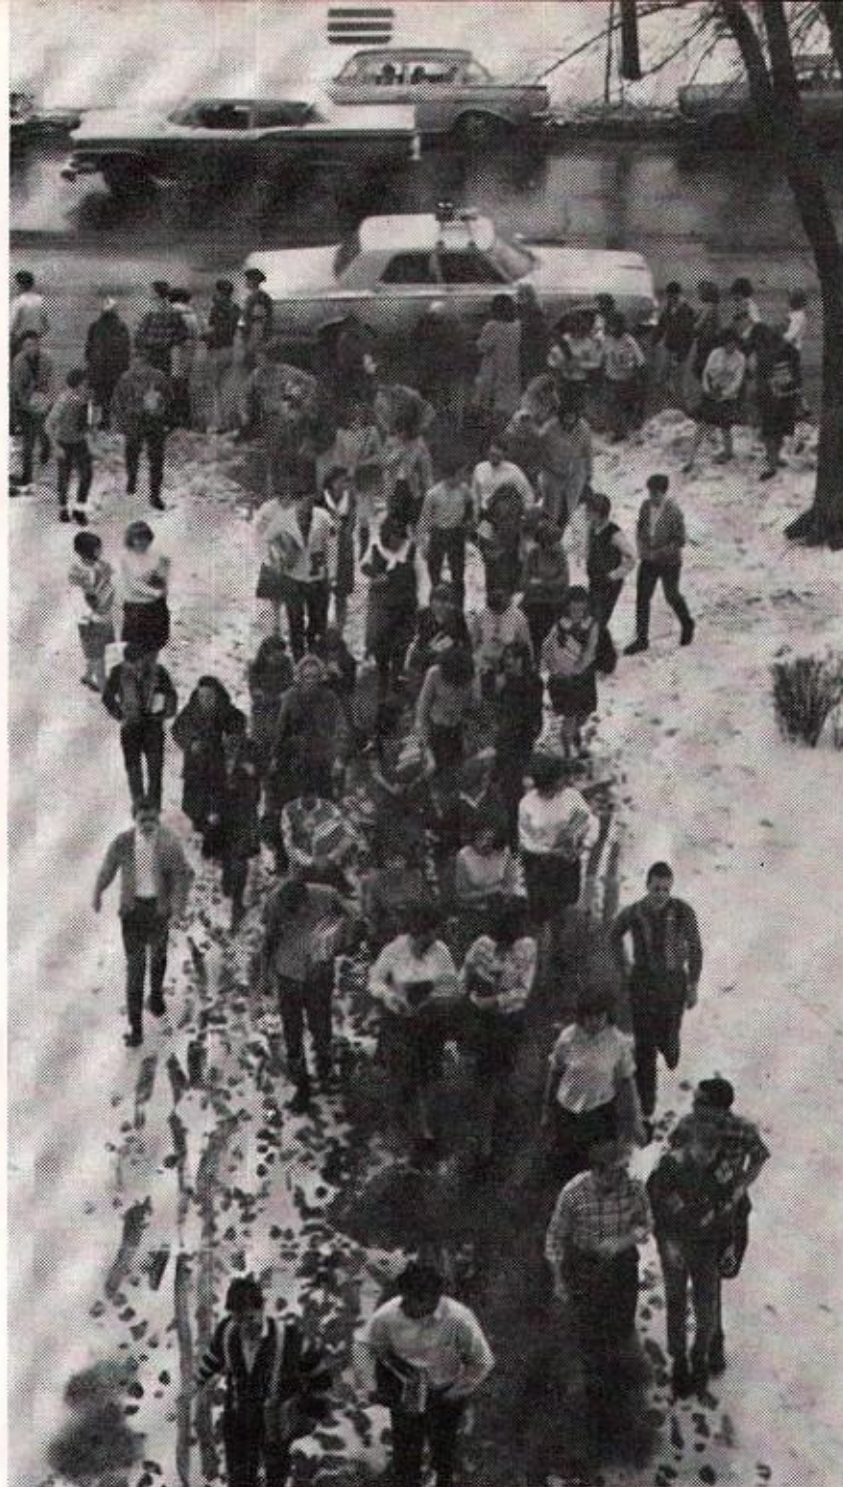

Perpetual Motion

While arguing a topic at a meeting of the Debate Club, Jeffrey Daines takes time to clarify a point.

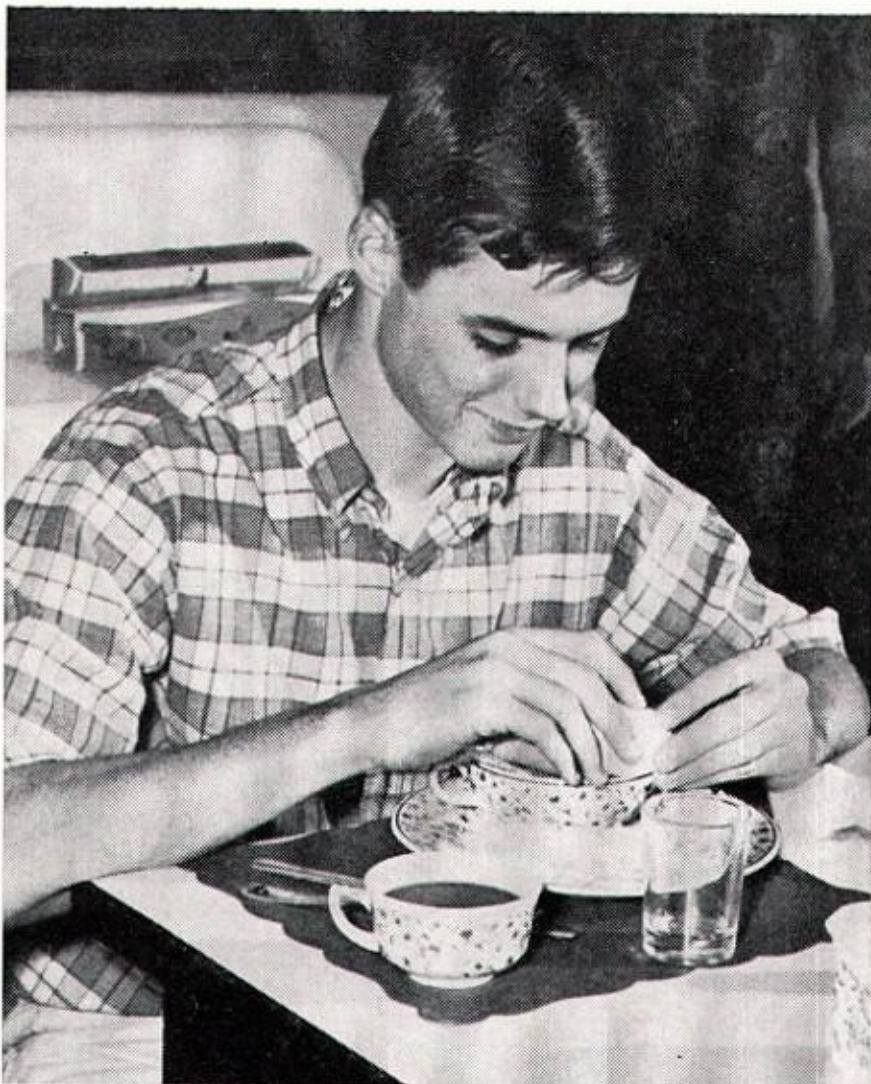

Members of the stage crew and a performer take a break for supper at a rehearsal for the Orchesis show.

Pulaskians saunter back into the building after catching a glimpse of America's space hero, Captain James A. Lovell.

A lace tablecloth, candles, and flowers create an island of grace and elegance amid the noise and confusion in the cafeteria.

It's hard to decide whether this player is trying to build up his courage for the game or for the pre-game breakfast.

Cheers and a first prize as the best homecoming float greeted the red and blue winner, "Jab the Heck Outa Tech."

Leading Pulaskians in school spirit, bouncy B-team cheerleaders proudly display their homecoming banner to loyal fans.

Homecoming Harvests Memories

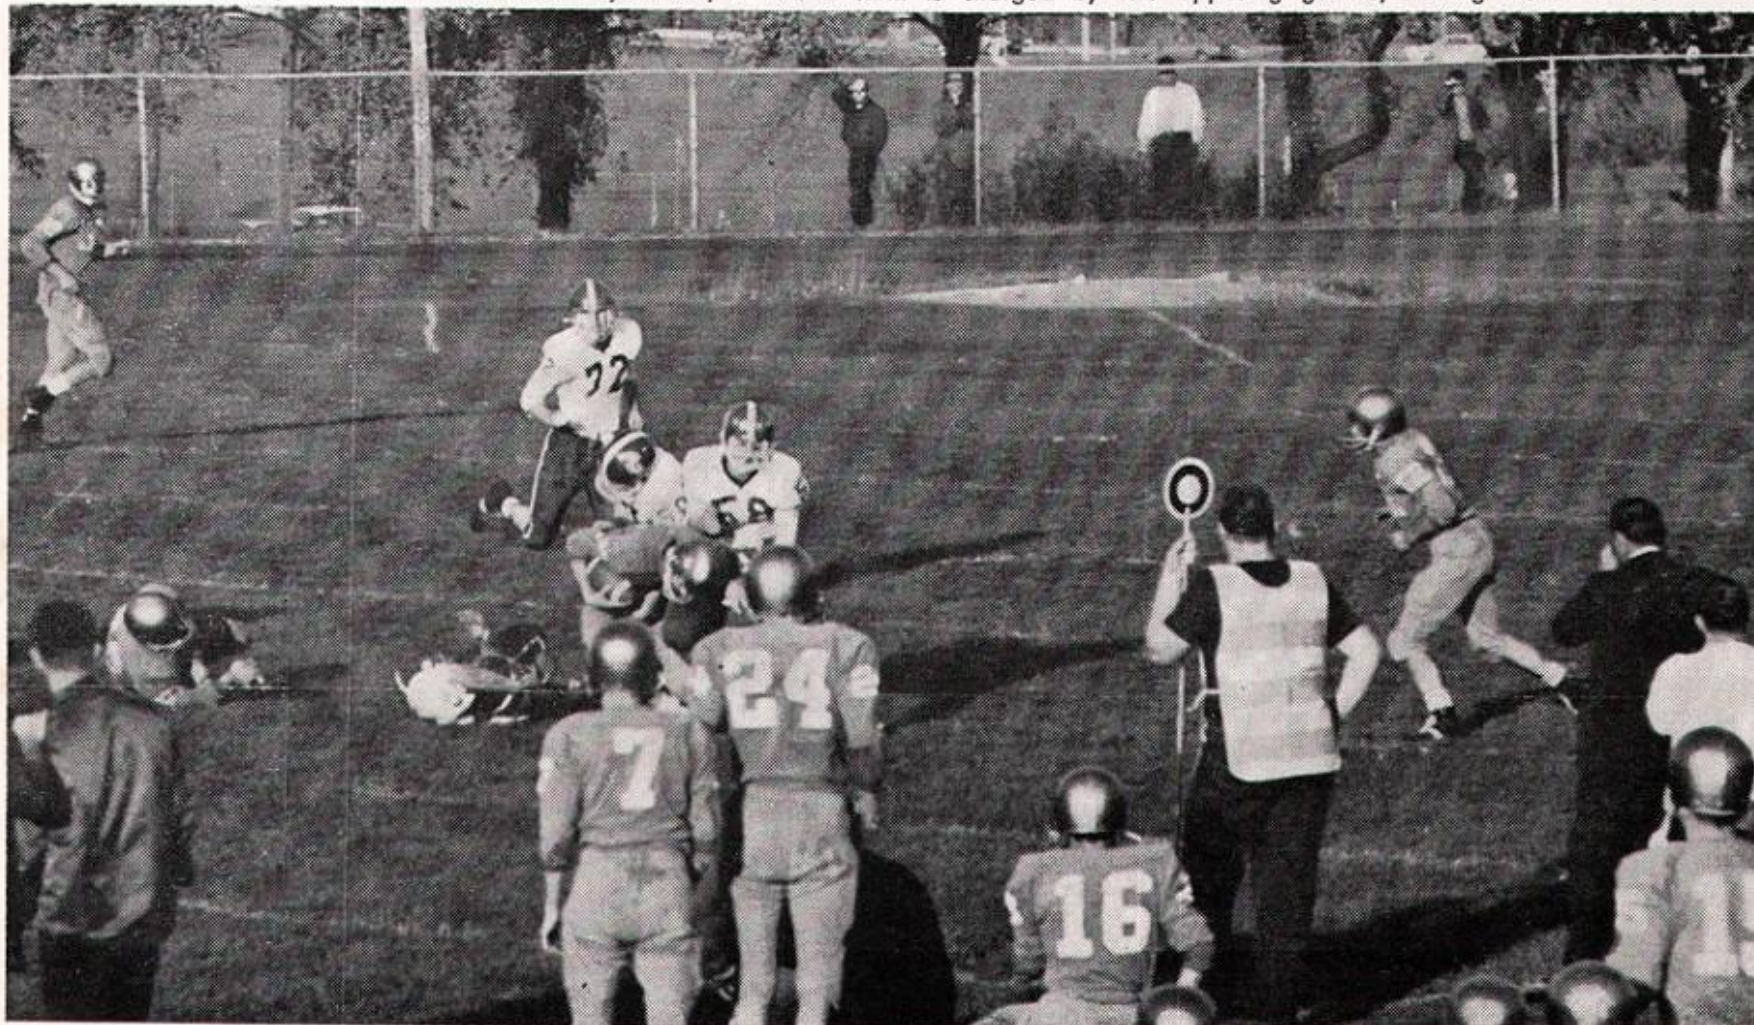

Fired with burning enthusiasm, Pulaski set out with vim, vigor, and vitality to make Homecoming 1965 better than ever. The kindling of this fire was begun on Friday afternoon by Mr. Harry Max at the pep rally, which was held in the gym and in the auditorium. The fire continued to grow in strength with the help of cheerleaders, mummied seniors, floats bearing slogans such as "Jab the Heck Outa Tech" and "Rocking the Trojans Asleep," and skits presented by the Booster Girls and Natate members.

Burning full force, the Ram football team fired on to the football field only to be extinguished by the Tech Trojans. The dousing was 39-0. Although spirits were dampened by the defeat, the spark was re-kindled at the homecoming dance with the presence of royalty. Loyal red and blue streamers camouflaged the gym to provide a festive setting for the royal couple, their court, and several hundred Pulaskians.

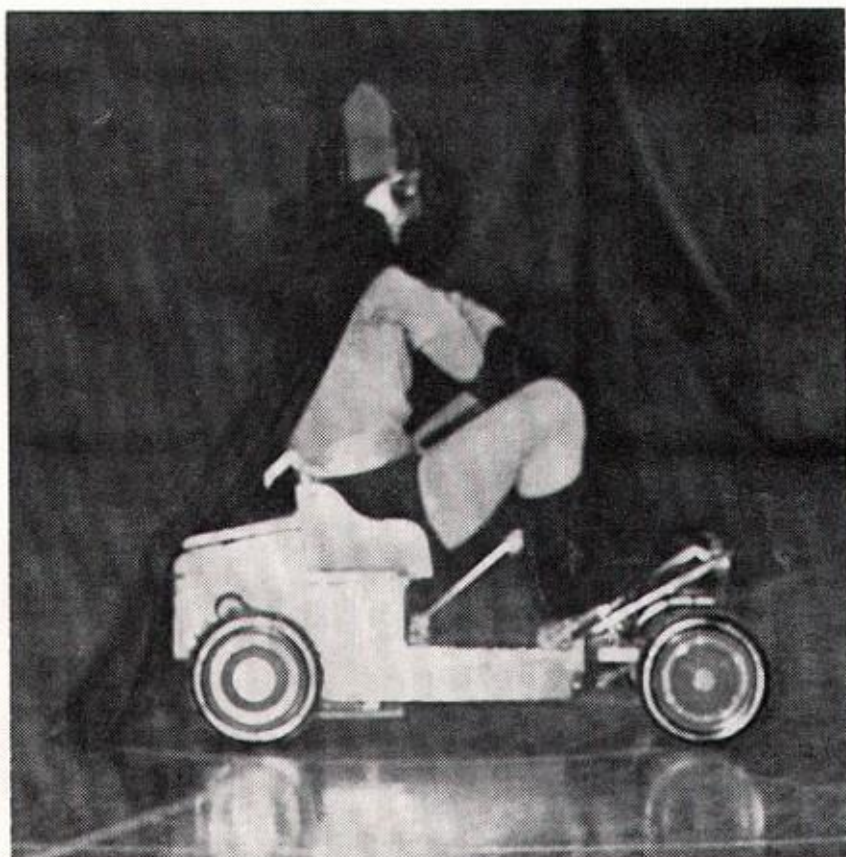

King Steve Nicholas and Queen Linda Ahl reigned over the 1965 festivities at the football game and the dance.

To the dismay of his teammates and loyal fans, a Pulaski Ram is charged by two opposing guards, halting his advance.

Jive, Espresso Add Spice to Life

Batman arrives at the Faculty-Lettermen basketball game to try to prevent a crime. It's a crime that the faculty always wins.

Energetic Pulaskians contributed bundles of energy in the form of time and enthusiasm to prepare for the dances and the variety show. The finished products were well attended. Faculty members and students got into the swing of things by planning the Kick-Off Dance soon after school began. The evening after the first football game, students hopped to live music and kindled school spirit. Females got the jump on males as the Sadie Hawkins Dance approached in November. The annual event was once again a swinging success.

In January, Pulaski was host to its traditional rival, Bay View. After an exciting basketball game, students from both schools danced and relaxed at the Post Bucket Dance.

Teachers made the scene at the Faculty-Lettermen Basketball game. After a brief skit that set students roaring, athletic faculty members banded together to chalk up another victory over Pulaski Lettermen. Preparations for a variety show began soon after the beginning of the second semester. A coffee house scene was chosen as setting for the espresso and rock theme. "Coffee and Roll," another "first" at Pulaski, drew a full house.

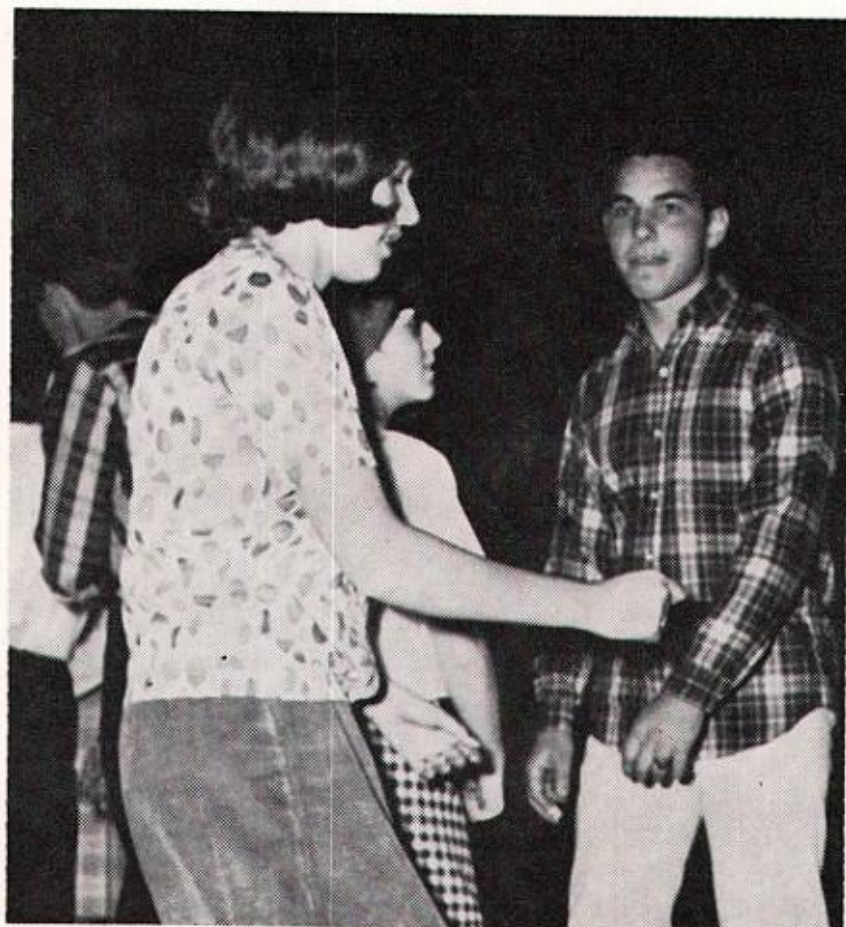

Laughter, the latest dances, and choice gossip are the ingredients that combine to make dances a big success.

At the variety show Marlene Bielawski presents a comedy routine based on the jokes and fashions of Phyllis Diller.

Lively enthusiasm is generated by Pulaskians dancing to the music of a band dressed appropriately for the Halloween Dance.

Behind the scenes, Student Council members Hank Smith, Judy Wendorf, and Diane Hendrickson, prepare for "Expresso 'n Rock."

Frugging, jerking, and a lot of other indescribable gyrations set the dance floor vibrating to the beat of a swingin' band.

Warm coffee and hot guitar licks made the scene as Dave Maciolek, Ken Arnold, and Duane Schallatz performed at the variety show.

Fads Mirror Passing Fancies

Holy clothes! This was the year of new fashion ideas. Fads swept Pulaski, bringing in new styles from head to toe.

Taking it from the top, triangle scarfs were big among the girls. Boys got into the act with leather hats designed in the English trend. Complying with Wisconsin's cold winters, sweaters, especially "poor boys," made a hit with everyone. Matching or accenting the wide array of sweaters, patterned or textured over-the-knee highs saved many a leg from frostbite on wintry mornings. Many students were "bootlegged" as shoes came up over the ankles. White "courrage" boots added to the "total look" for girls, while boys preferred darker versions for fancy footwear. Loafers gave that casual look to boys and girls alike.

Would you believe boys wore necklaces this year? Would you believe they wore Maltese crosses? Well, they did! Girls, on the other hand, were enchanted with the exciting ear baubles introduced this year.

Capes unfolded, but not on students. They were used chiefly to identify the newest of teen age idols — Batman! Golly gee, who's that guy in the groovy tights?

Wild, kooky, earrings of all shapes, sizes, and colors prove that the pierced ear look is really "in".

With the coming of warmer weather, Dean Schopp and Mary Goretzki welcome spring with matching shirts and medollions.

Fashion conscious Pulaskians step out in style wearing the latest fads in footwear: penny loafers and net stockings.

Who-o-o is the girl hiding behind the owl glasses? None other than senior Kaye Hinz playing a mysterious secret agent.

Totally unaware of being photographed, two hip Pulaskians, wearing the "total look," casually read an AFS notice.

April showers bring May flowers, and Judy Wendorf seems to have collected her share on her new spring suit.

Fashionable granny glasses were just the thing to shield monitor Diane Tischer's eyes from the glare of a shiny page.

"Miracle Worker" Stirs Emotions

William Gibson's The Miracle Worker was the choice of seniors for their traditional class play. The story is a moving portrayal of a teacher's efforts to help a blind and deaf girl realize the world around her. Linda Nadolny as Annie Sullivan and Elizabeth Tisdale as Helen Keller took the starring roles. The two evening performances on May 20 and 21 culminated three months of crammed rehearsal schedules. The cast spent two months memorizing lines and perfecting movements during after-school practice sessions. At the beginning of May the pace became more hectic when technical rehearsals began on stage. The production staff performed behind the scenes hunting for furniture, sewing costumes, and applying make-up for the production.

Members of the cast and crew attended a special Drama class conducted by Mrs. Pauline Stanwitt, director of the play. The class met daily to rehearse the play and to learn enunciation, projection, blocking, and other dramatic techniques.

Juniors Spend an Evening in Paris

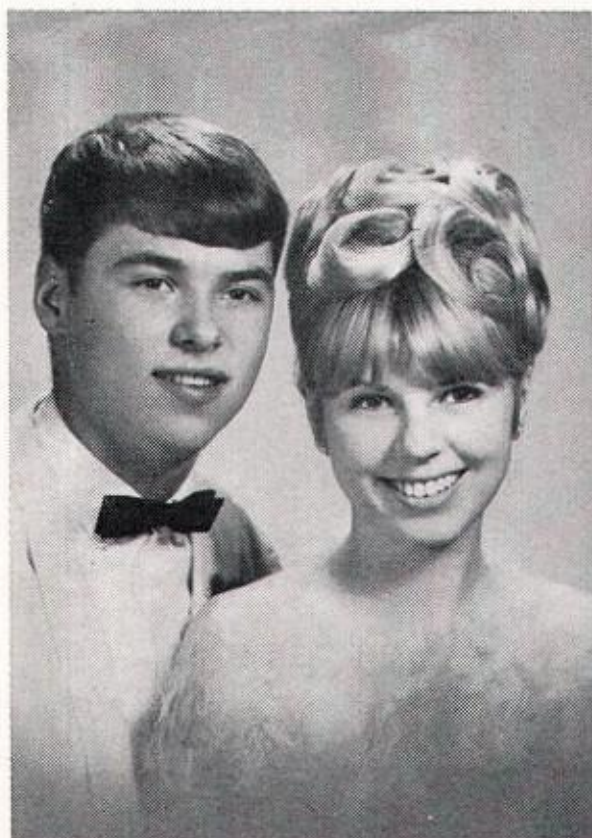

King Perfecto Rivera
Queen Katherine Flesch

"An Evening in Paris" was typified by a French cafe motif which transformed the gym into a powder blue evening of enchantment. A total transformation was accomplished by the Student Art League under the direction of Mr. Peter Boyajian. Initial plans were created by the Prom Planning Committee and its advisors, Miss Renee Gerdes and Mr. Kenneth Steffen. A sidewalk cafe and delightful arrays of flowers effected the transformation.

An air of excitement prevailed in the gym until at last King Frito Rivera and Queen Kathy Flesch were crowned. Splashes of spring'y color swished and swayed as couples enjoyed dancing to lovely music. An exciting motorcade shifted the action to food and entertainment at the post prom. In the wee hours of the morning, weary but dreamy-eyed students caught a few hours of sleep before embarking on early breakfasts and fun-filled picnics to round out the weekend.

Underclassmen Fade Into

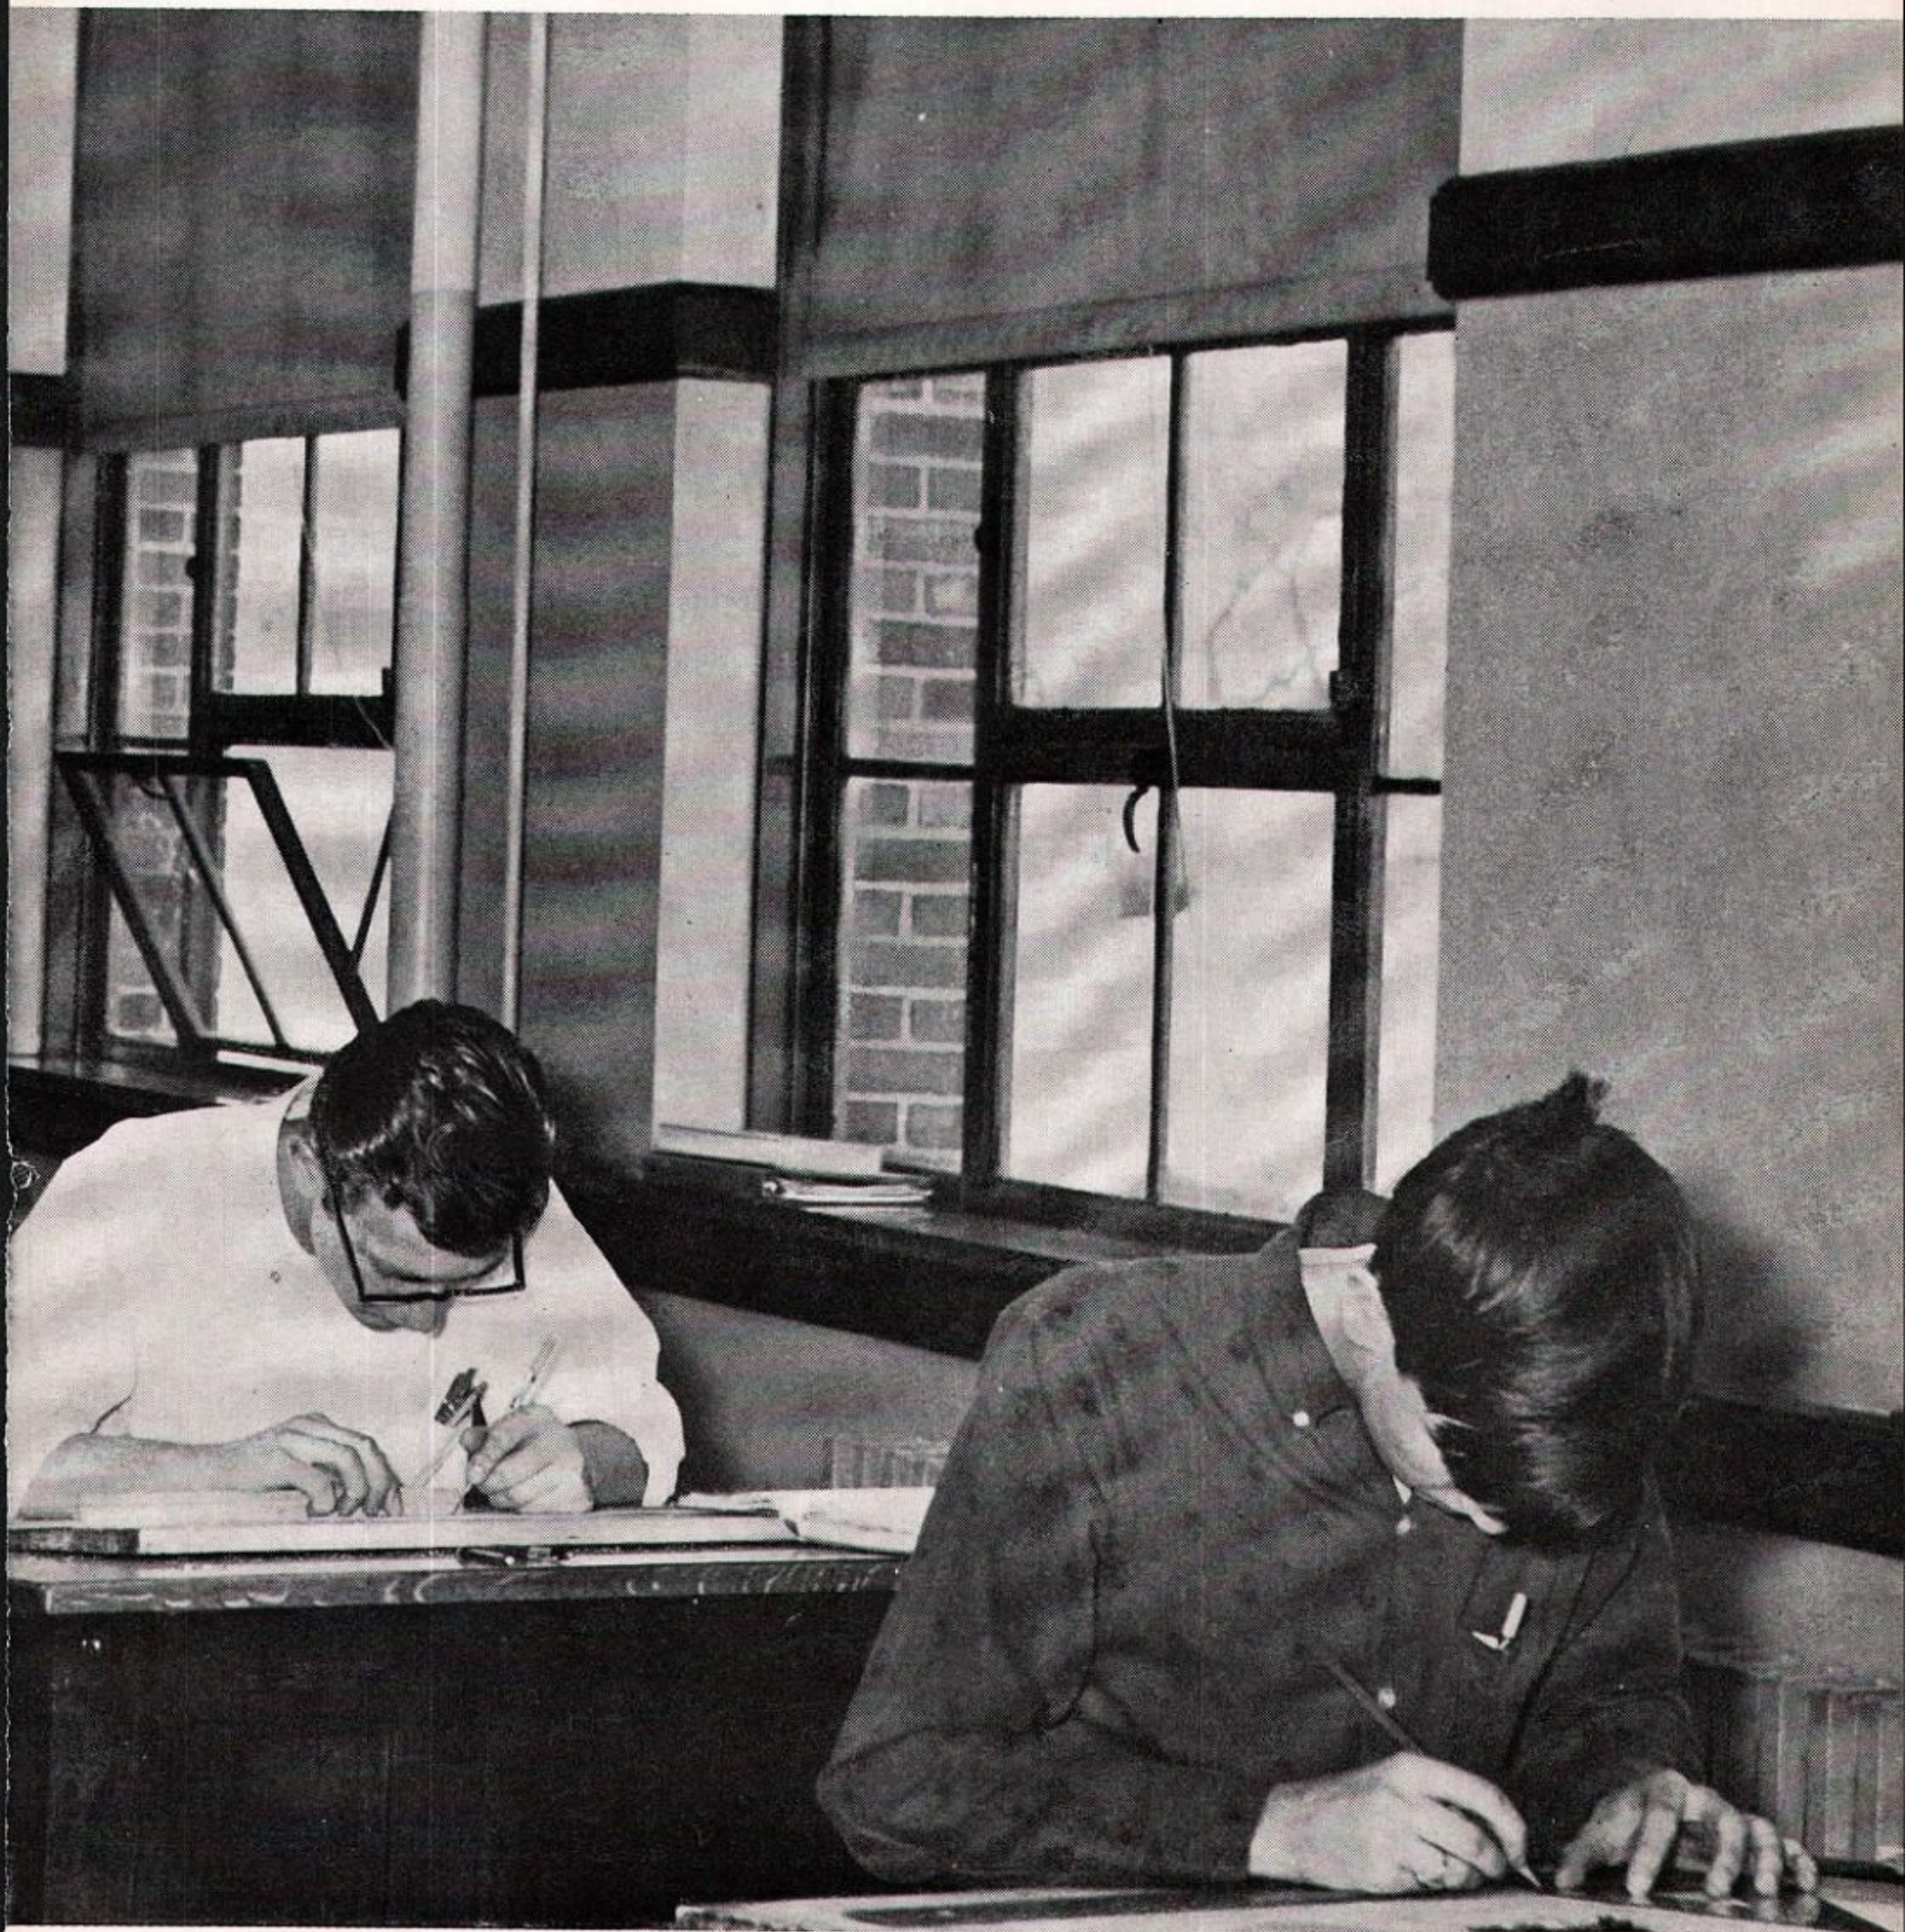

Every phase of school affects the growth of underclassmen. Each contact made in high school adds to their accumulation of knowledge and experiences.

Sophomores face the greatest change as they are transformed by the novelty of Pulaski. They must suddenly cope with greater freedom, responsibility, and more difficult decisions. Innumerable opportunities for extracurricular activities stimulate present interests and create new ones. Pulaski's size provides a vast supply of social contacts, each of which enriches the individual as he adds to his experience.

Having completed the initial introduction to high school, juniors begin to try their wings. By testing what they have learned and discovered thus far, juniors develop the necessary qualities for their role as future leaders in activities and sports. In all they do, underclassmen strive to imitate seniors, unconscious of the transition they are making from childhood to maturity as they fade through the first two years of high school.

Year Of Transition

Underclassmen Talk

While cleaning up after a chemistry lab, Donna Buchman mutters, "Just when we get to the messy part, my partner disappears."

No, Pulaski is not offering a class for pilots; these students are merely practicing their German in the language lab.

A metal shop student gazes sceptically at the hot kiln and wonders if he couldn't postpone this step of his project.

of Timely Events

Being in the majority, Pulaski's underclassmen exerted extra effort to achieve recognition. Where seniors showed their ability as leaders, underclassmen were followers, gaining valuable experience for their jobs as future leaders.

On the first days of school, confused sophomores were recognized as they walked around the building befuddled and bewildered. Getting lost in the halls was one of the many traits attributed to new sophomores, but after a few weeks, they became familiar faces in the expanse of Pulaski's corridors.

Juniors were the "happy mediums" between sophomores and seniors. Already experienced in high school life, juniors strove to attain the status of seniors. Being the middlemen, they were assured a part in most school functions. The highlight of their year was the prom. Since it was their show, the juniors elected members of the planning committee and the court for the prom.

Filled with anticipation, underclassmen followed in the footsteps of seniors down Pulaski's halls of tradition. At the end of the year, Pulaski's underclassmen filled the gaps left by departing graduates.

It's not that they're not making baskets as strong as they used to, it's just that Pulaskians are becoming more generous.

Activities Fade Into

Interest and ability find an outlet in extra-curricular activities. The quest for expression of ideas and for involvement in school life motivates Pulaskians to join specialized groups and clubs. Activities fade into action in fall and pass several phases of achievement before their goals are realized. For some, the goal is production of a show or concert for the enjoyment of an audience; for others, it is development of skills, or hobbies; for still others, it is a valuable service to the school. In achieving its goals, each organization adds to the life of the school and to the lives of the individuals involved.

Opportunities ranging from Student Art League to Paramedical Club encourage achievement through activity. At Pulaski these achievements are in the areas of physical agility, mental acuteness, artistic talent, special interest, and school service.

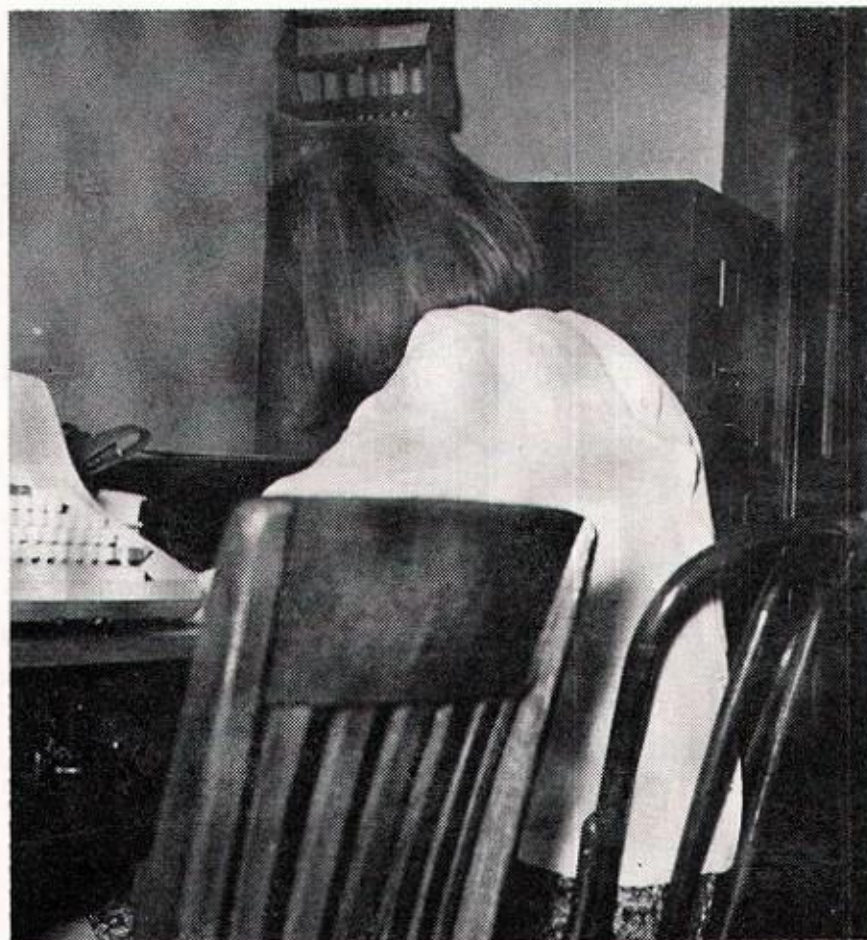

Year Of Achievement

Activities Keep Pulaski on the Go

Energetic Pulaskians put the "active" into activities. Full of go power, they showed that the modern generation is willing to devote many extra hours to develop school interests.

Pulaskians were seen in action all over the school. In the halls and cafeteria, Booster Girls sold pins, pennants, and tickets. On the football field, the band marched to the rhythm of their music. At games, cheerleaders helped to arouse team spirit. In the music rooms, students practiced to perfect the Orchestra and A Cappella Choir. Music was also used in the pool by Natate members to swim in synchronized patterns, and in the gym by Orchesis to devise dance numbers. Outside of room 312, the drill team worked on many precision formations. The Student Council met in the auditorium to make rules to govern all the students, while on the third floor, newspaper and annual staff members hunted for stories to write about. In various other rooms, the Chess Club maneuvered, the Stamp Club collected, and the Student Art League painted. On the whole, Pulaski was a center of bustling activity brought about by its never tiring students.

A weak "help" feebly rose from a pile of programs, Thanksgiving Day Baskets, bills from dance supplies, and warped records. There, five tired Student Service Council officers and one exhausted counselor, Mr. William Tiernan, rested after a long, hard year. From September to June the pace of their program of activities kept them on their toes. With the combined enthusiasm of a representative and an alternate from each homeroom, the Council staged "swingin" dances, "rousin" pep rallies, and boosted its ticket sales. It also organized the Thanksgiving Basket Drive, Vocation Day, College Day, car registration, and the lost and found service. This year's pet project was "Coffee and Roll," a fun-filled talent show held on March 20.

Besides bringing life into the daily lives of students, the Service Council was the voice of Pulaskians. Praises and criticisms of the student body were aired and suggestions for new "doin's" were heard at the weekly meetings.

Time Changes the Booster Girls

What's this!! Pulaski's honest Booster Girls spending their money from the sale of football tickets for candy?

This was the year of the Booster Rebellion. Led by Miss Edna Vanderbeck, their teacher advisor, the Booster Girls not only revised their uniforms but also their qualifications for membership in the club. The uniform, formerly a red blazer with the school emblem, was changed to a red vest worn with a white blouse and navy skirt. The new qualifications included membership in either the Girls Athletic Association, Orchesis, or Natate, and grades of "C" or better. The club, which had been restricted to senior girls, was opened to all Pulaski girls.

Although there were changes, the purpose of the Booster Girls, to promote school spirit, remained the same. Booster Girls brought their wares to the bustling cafeteria to bargain over the sale of football and dance tickets. They showed shakeroos and pins to prospective buyers and served at special school programs. The Booster Girls were busy this past year working as publicity agents for Pulaski High School.

Cheerleaders Burst into Action

This year's model of cheerleaders came equipped with all-new and all-different accessories. In place of the familiar vests and circular blue skirts, they donned pert crimson red sweaters, navy blue pleated skirts, and carried new, shakier shake-a-roos.

Pulaski's effervescent cheerleaders worked hard all year as they led the student body in school spirit. Under the direction of Mrs. Angeline Newman, they practiced diligently after school to perfect old cheers and to dream up new ones. Their vim and vigor was displayed at every football and basketball game, as they cheered the teams. They boosted morale through defeats as well as victories.

A cheerleading clinic was held in the spring for prospective cheerleaders. Here they were shown the fundamentals of cheerleading, taught various cheers, and given pointers by the present cheerleaders. Try-outs were held after which ten of the springiest and peppiest girls were chosen to be next year's cheerleaders.

Orchesis Gives Art Impressions

Showing off their enormous (?) muscles, two alley cats try to impress a member of the opposite sex in Feline Fantasy.

Orchesis danced and gyrated through another year as they interpreted everything from poetry to drums. This year's show, "Impressions of the Arts," depicted various forms of art. "Palette," "Op Art," "Sculpture," and "Witchcraft" were some of the numbers performed. Gymnasts returned this year as "Harlequins" to show that boys are also creative. Much time was spent selecting a theme, picking the numbers, choosing music, and practicing to prepare for the production which highlighted the year for every dancer.

Black jackets identified Orchesis members when they were not dancing. Each jacket proudly displayed the black and white club emblem. Mrs. Angeline Newman helped and guided the girls as they devised dance movements to use in creating compositions.

The club held a clinic in spring to teach the fundamentals of modern dance. Interested sophomores and juniors attended after-school sessions to receive group and individual assistance. Try outs were then held and the field of prospective members was narrowed until next year's club was chosen.

Natare Presents Oceans of Notions

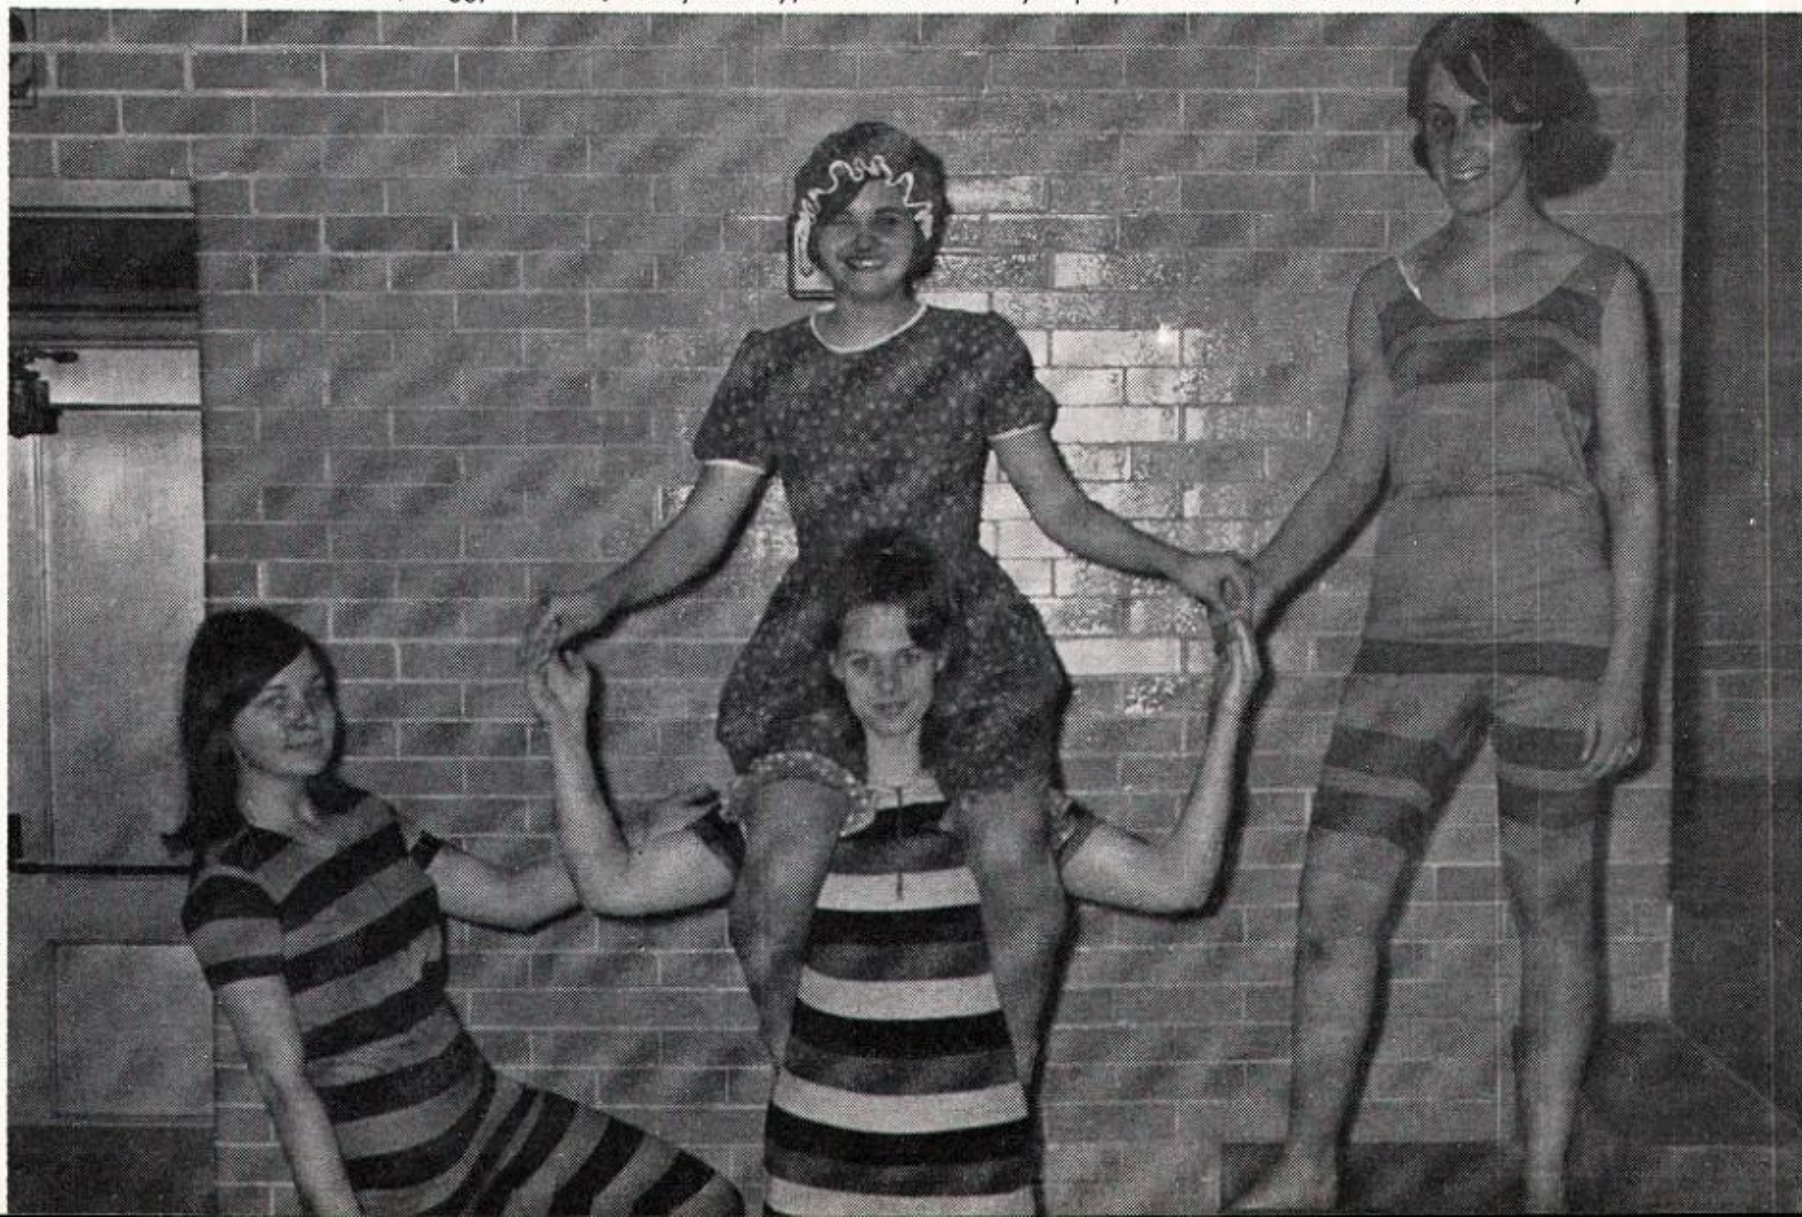

Natare officers, Mary Miskinis, Secretary; Barbara Radke, Vice-President; and Joanne Kuzdaz, President, pose as Seaweed.

"Natare-ites" are that group of Pulaskians who meet the qualification of part fish and part girl. On Thursdays, members of the water ballet club were recognized by their traditional white sweaters bearing deep blue emblems. The girls, working busily all year, prepared their annual synchronized swim program with a splash.

Under the direction of Miss Edna Vanderbeck, Natare chose the theme "Notions of the Ocean" for its annual production. Oceanic interpretations ranged from Sea Shells to Beach Party. The girls spent many strenuous hours practicing to add polish and precision to each number. Alphonse, the club's mascot, retained his traditional ring side seat on the diving board throughout the performance.

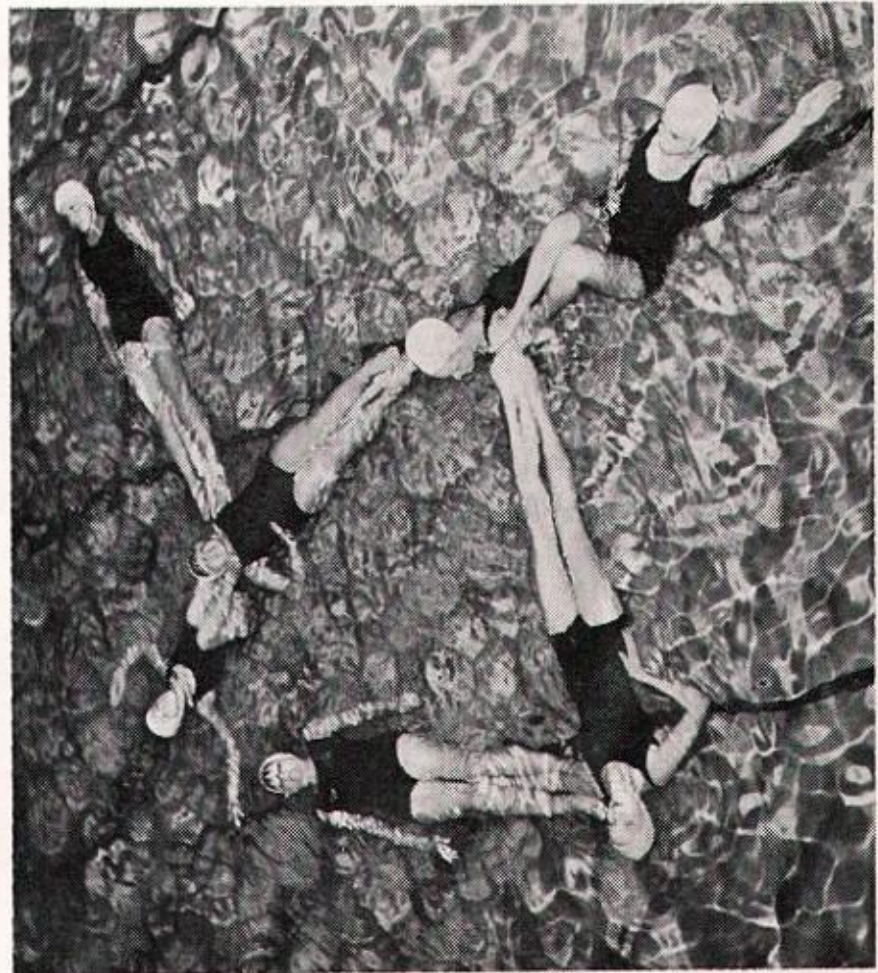

Natare conducted its clinic in the fall. After several weeks of training, tryouts were held for those interested in becoming aquamaids. Prospects demonstrated their fishlike skills as they eagerly tried to impress the important group of judges.

Cavalierettes Step With Precision

Rising to the call of their Sergeant at Arms, the Cavalierettes marched through another busy year as Pulaski's Drill Team. The girls boosted the morale of players and the school spirit of spectators as they performed at basketball games during half-time.

Under the guidance of Miss Jean Kopp and Mrs. Elizabeth Kienzle, the girls practiced a variety of formations, many of which they devised themselves. They drilled every Tuesday and Thursday, rain or shine, and sometimes before school to be sure of their routines. Cavalierettes not only had to be coordinated and willing to attend all the practices but also had to maintain grades of "C" or better.

To add spark to their appearance, the Cavalierettes dressed uniformly in navy skirts, red sweaters with the Pulaski emblem, and navy tams accented by red plumes. Marching in Pulaski's traditional colors, the Cavalierettes were living symbols of school spirit.

Annual Records Memories of Year

Faculty Editors Carlen Schenk and Anita Schultz studied last year's annual to determine what improvements could be made.

Flashbulbs ceased to flash and typewriters were silent in room 328, the headquarters of the Cavalier Annual, as a busy year ended for the editors and staff. Many hours were sacrificed during study halls, lunch periods, and before and after school in compiling the mass of information gathered during the 1965-66 school year.

With the help of Mr. Robert Stieber and Mr. Albert Jelinek, this year's editor-in-chief, Margaret Borkin and assistant editor, Cheryl Losey kept everyone hussling and bussling trying to meet those all-important deadlines. No one had a moment to waste. Photographers took pictures of all school activities, while Pulaski's future writers wrote copy, cutlines, and headlines. Later the editors combined both to produce this year's theme, "Pulaski Faces; Fade In — Fade Out."

Another important phase of annual production was the Cavalier Annual Business Staff. Under the direction of Mr. Eugene Wozny, members of the staff organized the sale and distribution of the annuals.

Reporters Go Where the Action Is

Recreating the sparkling lives of Pulaskians was the chief job of the Cavalier. Each issue of the newspaper contained provocative editorials, flash features, descriptive sports coverage, and news of school functions and student organizations.

Under the direction of Editor-in-chief Jim Bennett and advisor Mrs. Luella Pope, photographs and "hot lines" evolved from the minds of staff members. All Pulaskians were given the opportunity to exhibit their creativity on the "arts" page. Staff members contributed as advertising solicitors, proofreaders, layout artists, typists, feature and fashion editors, photographers, and reporters. Each staff member was given a "taste" of all phases of newspaper work. Besides doing regular work such as typing and reporting, girls became photographers and sports reporters. Meanwhile, boys became fashion commentators and typists. It was an exchange experiment to prove the ability of students to report in fields in which they would not normally participate.

Cheers Greet "Life With Mother"

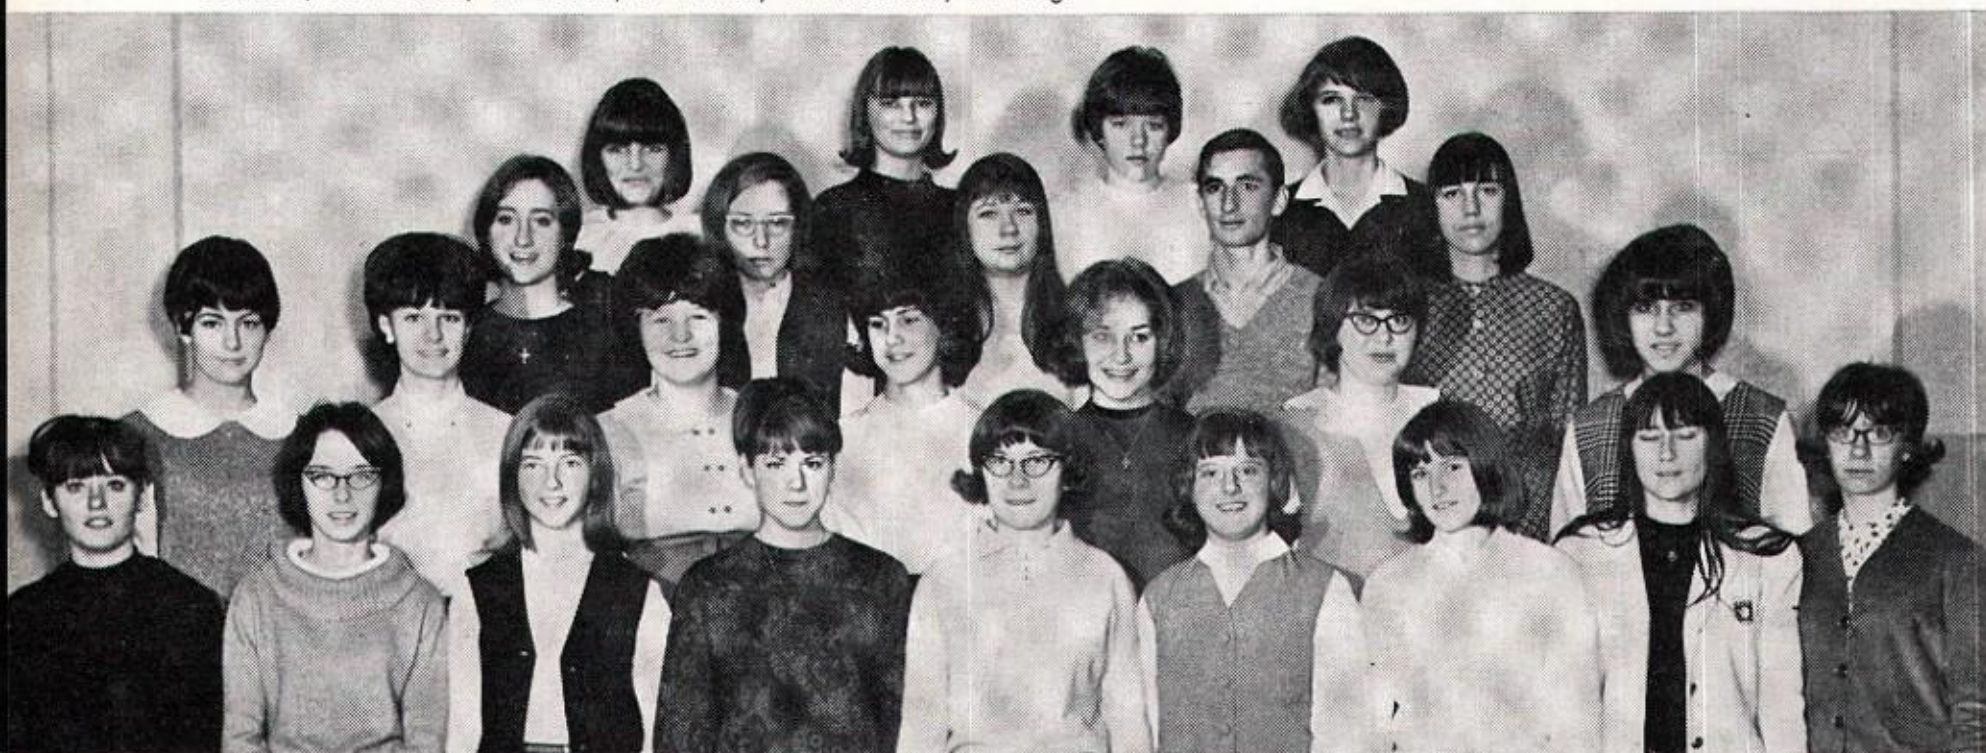

Linda Nadolny assists Steve Faytis in the inspection of Mary Emmer's arm in a scene from the play Life With Mother.

On January 21 and 22 the Blue Mask Players presented Life with Mother, a three act comedy by Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse. This delightful portrayal of American life in the late 1890's is a sequel to Life with Father, which the group presented two years ago. Mrs. Pauline Stanwitt directed the play, which featured Al Tyshynsky and Linda Nadolny in the lead roles of Father and Winnie.

Try-outs were held in fall for students interested in dramatics and willing to contribute time, energy, and concentration toward the success of the play. Besides the cast, many students worked behind the scenes on the production staff to provide effective background and costumes for the action of the play. Several months of rehearsals before, after, and during school hours served to perfect lines, gestures, and blocking and to achieve a professional performance. A dress rehearsal and two successive presentations of the play climaxed the long hours of hard work.

Band Scores With First Revue

Mr. DeVillers directs the band with great vigor and vitality as he sets a brisk tempo for a fast-moving number.

All types of music, from the Beatles to Mozart, occupied the band, which was conducted by Mr. Ronald DeVillers. A full rewarding year began with 7:15 practices every morning during football season. All the members of the marching band including drum majors, majorettes, and the color guard, worked hard to perfect opening and half-time performances. Awards were presented at the traditional Christmas party to deserving band members who had marched for two years.

"Firsts" prevailed throughout the year. Pulaski's band was invited by the Wisconsin Music Educators to play for Teachers' Convention. A band review, the first at Pulaski, was presented in January. It was a one-band show staged as a fight entitled "Old vs. New." Samples of music by strikingly different composers from several eras provided a tremendous range of entertainment. Another honor was the distinction of marching in the Lovell Day parade, honoring Milwaukee's astronaut.

Musicmen Master Mad Measures

Mr. Raccoli, like an engineer, perfects separately each section of the orchestra before combining them to work as one unit.

Members of Pulaski's Orchestra have rightly earned the title of "musicmen" this past year. Wherever there was a gathering and a need of a song, these ever-ready students were there too. They played at the January graduation ceremonies, at the honor day program, at various school programs, and at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Some highlights of the Christmas Program were "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Korsakov, a special series of numbers entitled "Gloria" in which the A Cappella Choir accompanied the Orchestra, and a finale of "Silent Night" in which the audience also took part.

Being prepared meant that Orchestra members had to spend many extra hours with their instruments. Encouraged by Mr. Arthur Raccoli, their conductor, they practiced until show time arrangements were perfected. This practice took place before school at early morning rehearsals, during school at regular class sessions, and at home where each member went over his part individually. Their serious effort was rewarded by the applause of the audience.

A Cappella Resounds With Melody

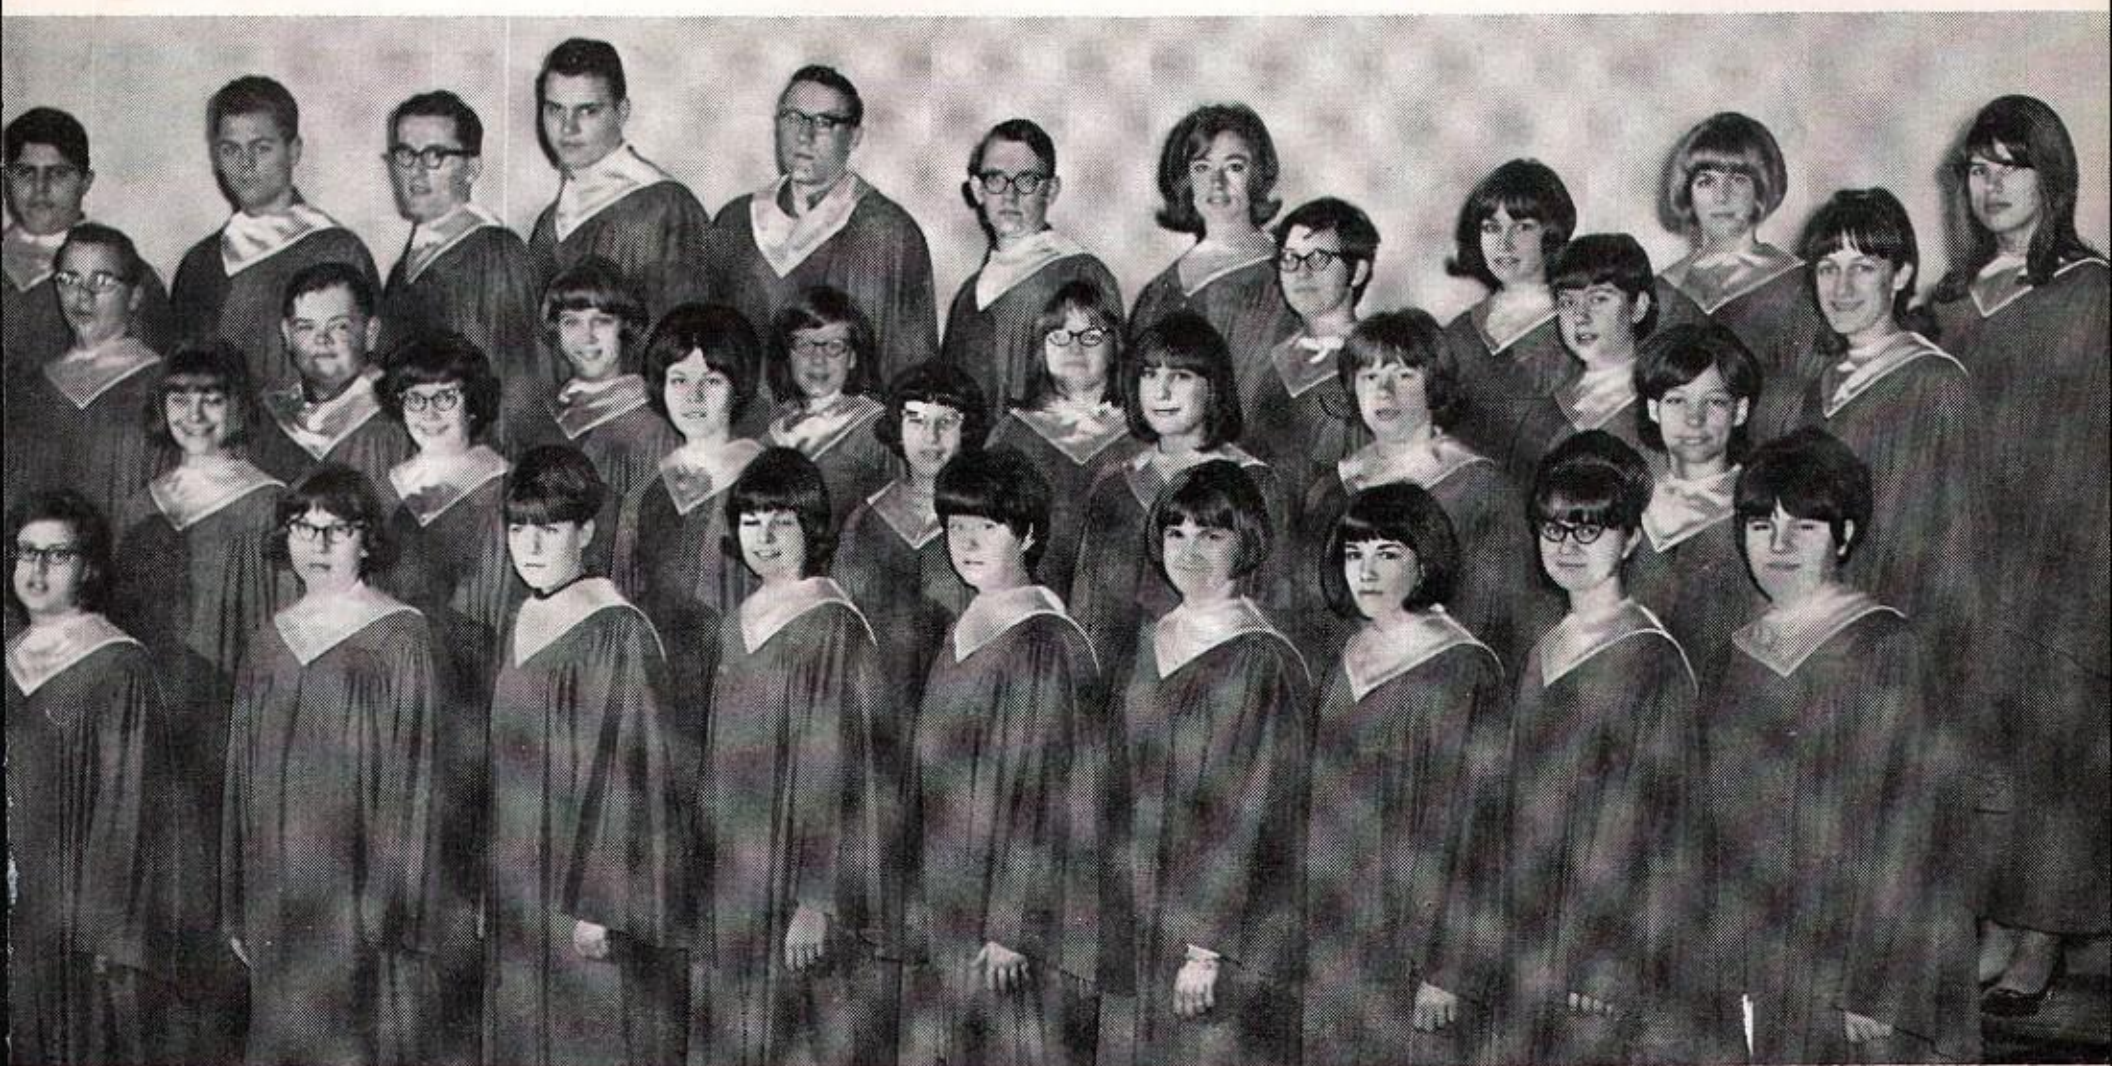

Tone, pitch, and rhythm challenged Pulaski's A Cappella Choir as they began a new singing year. About ninety select voices combined to make up the choir. Along with their director, Mr. Alfred Niefer, they worked hard at daily third hour rehearsals and early morning practice sessions to perfect their arrangements.

Brand new red stoles accented traditional blue robes when the choir performed at the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts. They also sang selections for the January graduation. An ensemble of choir members performed a service to their community by singing for the Elk's Club, and for the patients at County Hospital at Christmas time.

For the Christmas Concert the Choir sang three lively joyous selections: "Fanfare" by Shaw, "We Wish You the Merriest" by Brown, and "He is Born" arranged by Wagner. Accompanied by the Orchestra, the Choir sang a moving arrangement of Vivaldi's "Gloria" to complete the program.

Mr. Niefer conscientiously tries to direct the choir, read music, and keep time on the piano all at one time.

Girls Glee Sings Out in Harmony

Keeping his place with one hand and directing Girls' Glee members with the other, Mr. Raccoli has almost run out of hands.

Adding a cheery note to Pulaski's music agenda, Pulaski's Girls' Glee blended melodies as they participated in both the Christmas and Spring Concerts. For the Christmas Concert, the girls sang a host of songs, ranging from the traditional holiday favorites to a variety of new selections. The candle-light procession, a Girls' Glee tradition, was a highlight of the program. A background of soft, pastel formals set the stage for the Spring Concert. Voices echoed the exciting air of spring in the many and varied numbers the Girls' Glee chose for the performance.

Under the direction of Mr. Arthur Raccoli, Mr. Alfred Niefer, and Mr. Ronald DeVillers, the girls met throughout the day to perfect songs, to practice do-re-mi's, and to improve tone quality. The goal of many girls was a place in the A Cappella Choir. Mr. Alfred Niefer, director of the Choir, held auditions in the fall for interested prospective members.

Students Assist in Many Areas

Attendance monitors and Mrs. Evelyn Troglia managed the awesome task of keeping tabs on Pulaski's 3,000 students. They compiled expansive records of absences, tardiness, and period absences.

Mrs. Edith Yankee, librarian, and her library aides assisted students and teachers in locating books for reading and research. Shelves were stocked and students were notified of overdue books by active aides.

The stage crew under Mr. James Rieck did behind-the-scenes work with lighting and sound to create the "right" effect at various productions throughout the year.

Mr. Duane Allman's projectionists showed noon hour movies to students seeking entertainment in the midst of busy schedules.

The audio-visual crew, also under Mr. Allman, operated equipment for classes using films and records to supplement regular classroom study.

The clicking of adding machines and cash registers, shelves piled high with books, and innumerable school supplies set the scene for bookstore monitors who, with the help of Mr. Gable Nelson, kept Pulaski students supplied with everything from sweatshirts to physics books.

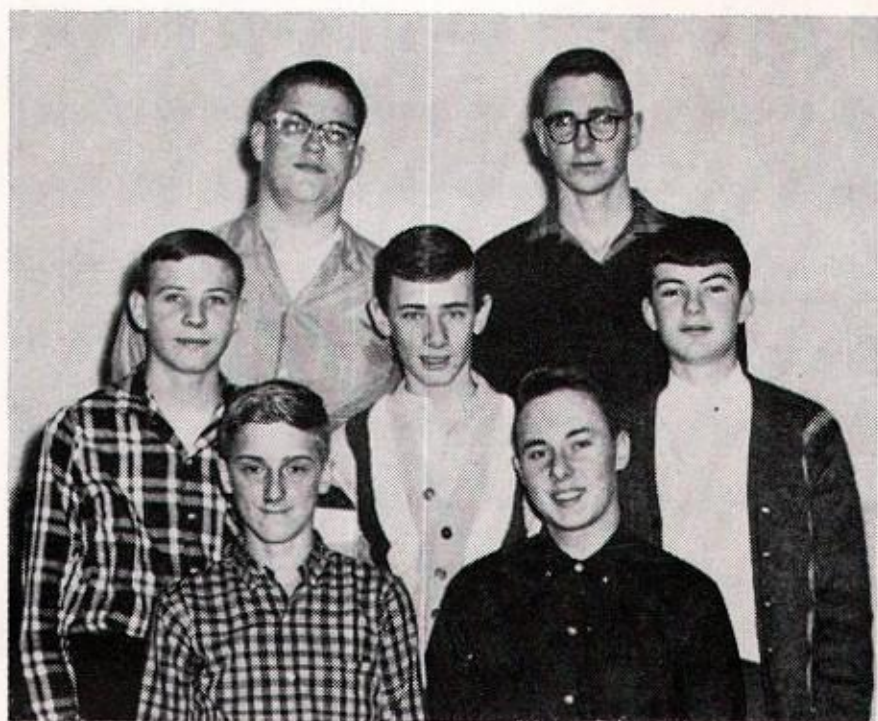

A happy P. A. Crew is busy preparing the equipment for another student-awakening installment of the morning announcements.

Cooperation Is Basis of Clubs

Successful, memorable graduations were the goals of the January and June Senior Planning Committees. Each committee, consisting of two representatives from each senior homeroom and the class officers, worked out details of baccalaureate services, senior banquets, and commencement exercises.

Bright, cheery voices of P. A. announcers interrupted homerooms every morning to inform students of coming attractions. Finalists of the spring tryouts were announced in fall. Faculty advisor Mr. William Tiernan and Student Assistant Cindy Black saw that there were two announcers each morning and that they were alternated at regular intervals.

Thirty-five active Red Cross enthusiasts met every Tuesday with Mrs. Pamela Bunning. This year sported many projects—a party for elderly men, filling boxes for Vietnamese children, making tray favors for St. Lukes Hospital, taking underprivileged children to the zoo, and collecting school supplies for children around the world.

Junior Red Cross workers display cheery smiles along with the tray favors they are planning to give to hospital patients.

Clubs Further Special Interests

Departing from the regular school routine, the Home Economics Club held a cheery party and sampled their "home brew."

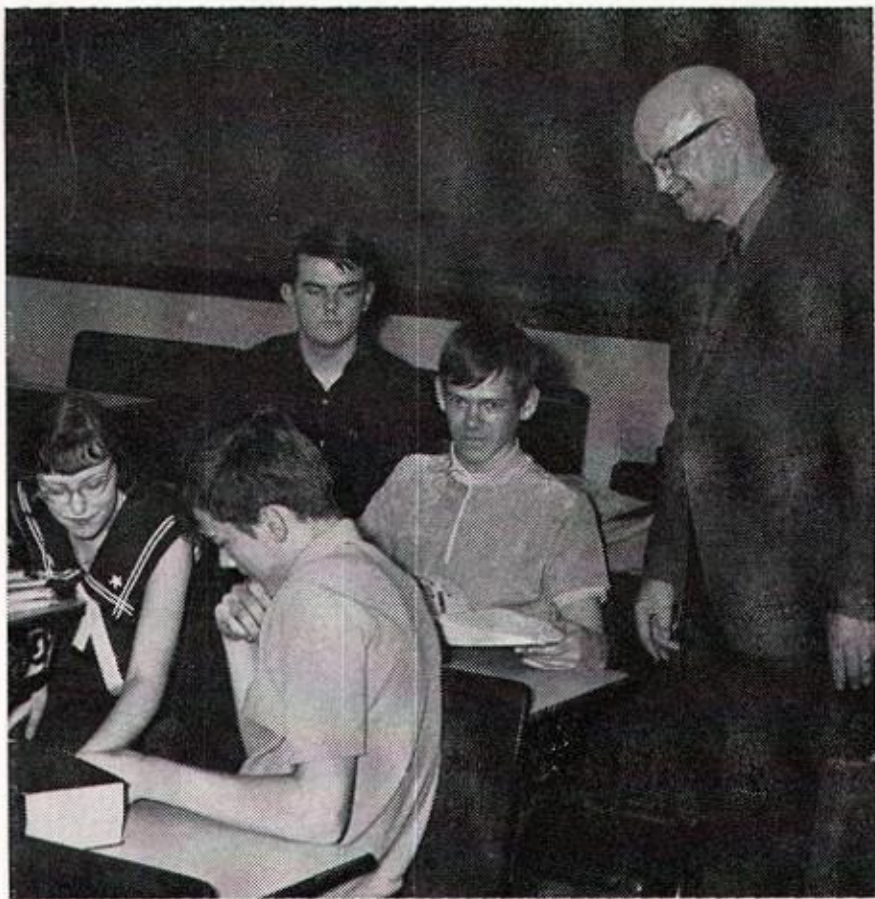

A newly-organized Home Economics Club sprouted forty members at its weekly meetings. Accompanied by its sponsors, Mrs. Florence Markwardt, Mrs. Therese Kueng and Mrs. Margaret Parcelle, the group visited the University of Wisconsin's Home Economics Department. They raised money with a Halloween cookie sale in the cafeteria, and organized a Christmas Tea.

One hundred juniors and seniors of Future Teachers of America held monthly meetings to learn about teaching as a future career. Miss Violet Asimont and Mrs. Susan Hackl supervised, as members assisted teachers and tutored students. They brightened Pulaski's holiday spirit with their annual Christmas holly sale and Valentine's Day candy sale.

Stamps — old, new, foreign, United States, identified, unidentified — kept members of Pulaski's Stamp Club busy every Friday afternoon. Mr. Raymond Shaw helped them to identify their stamps and made rare stamps available for their viewing.

"Stary-eyed" Astronomy Club members held bi-weekly meetings with Mr. Duane Allman. Together they read books, peered through telescopes, and participated in field trips.

Twice every week a strange clicking noise escaped from Mr. Vernon Fabishak's room. The sounds were emitted by the nimble fingers of the members of the Radio Club who were busy learning how to use Morse Code. With a knowledge of the code these students will be able to obtain their novice licenses to operate a ham radio.

With Mr. Shaw looking on, Stamp Club members peer at intriguing stamps from far away places.

Radio Club members stood waiting impatiently to decode a series of dots and dashes . . . probably sent from Batman!

Mr. Allman helps Astronomy Club members try to make heads or tails of a somewhat bewildering chart of the heavens.

Participation Increases Students' Skill

The game is chess — the object is checkmate — and two Pulaskians concentrate on achieving this objective during a practice game.

Specializing in behind-the-scenes work, the ten member Student Art League produced posters to promote a host of school activities ranging from football games to the junior prom. With the help of Mr. Peter Boyajian, talent and time were utilized in the creation of a 200-foot mural on the history of art.

Members of the Fish and Wildlife Club strived to achieve the conservation of nature's gifts to man. Under the direction of Mr. Thomas Pyzyk and Mr. Glenn Kanitz, the club took various field trips and viewed films on hunting and gun safety.

Intellectual exercise resulted from Tuesday sessions of the Debate Club. Miss Jaclyn Gorsuch met with the fifteen members who conducted debates on current issues throughout the year.

Every Wednesday the members of Pulaski's Chess Club met to play and discuss the various phases of the game of chess. After practicing among themselves, the members of the club participated in the city chess tournament at Hawthorne Glenn.

Peculiar odors and an occasional "boom" characterized Friday meetings of the Science Club. Mr. Vernon Fabishak supervised experiments performed by these future scientists of America.

Smiling with satisfaction, Mr. Fabishak has convinced these three members of the Science Club that chemistry can be fun.

"Basically," explains Mr. Pyzyk to the Fish and Wildlife Club, "never point a gun at anyone unless you plan to shoot him."

Debate Club meetings often turn into heated discussions of opposing opinions as members debate current issues.

Faculty Fades Into

Just as our world is constantly changing, education, and more specifically school life, is modified to meet change. Pulaski's faculty members strive to employ new methods, discoveries, and ideas in their teaching. They initiate the changes necessary to keep Pulaski in tune with society's advances.

Faculty members fade into each year refreshed, inspired, and anxious to teach and guide their students. Numerous innovations in the various departments are introduced by well-informed guidance counselors, teachers, and administrators. Virtually all changes in the many phases of school life are brought about with the help of the faculty. While students may suggest changes, the faculty is responsible for their modification for application. Through continual revision of the substance and quality of Pulaski's curriculum, faculty members aspire to instill in students the desire for improvement not only of the individual but of society in general.

Year of Change

Teachers Open World of Knowledge

"There's more to the mirror than meets the eye," explains Mr. Brussock to a group of reflective physics students.

Educating, supervising, and guiding students through their high school years kept Pulaski's faculty busy. The lives of teachers were complicated by homework assignments, test papers, IBM cards, student records, and report card grades. Besides their regular classroom duties, many teachers assumed the added tasks of supervising students in study halls and in the cafeteria. Teachers gave special help to students having trouble with a particular subject and to those showing special interest.

Teachers used their experience, skill, and knowledge in specific fields to accomplish their most important duty: educating students and preparing them to be well-informed, useful citizens. The guidance department provided students with information and direction as they looked to the future. Homeroom teachers kept students' records and helped them plan a course of study for their years at Pulaski. Many teachers helped students to express special talents and interests through extra-curricular activities. The faculty provided advice and guidance for the student body in all areas of school life.

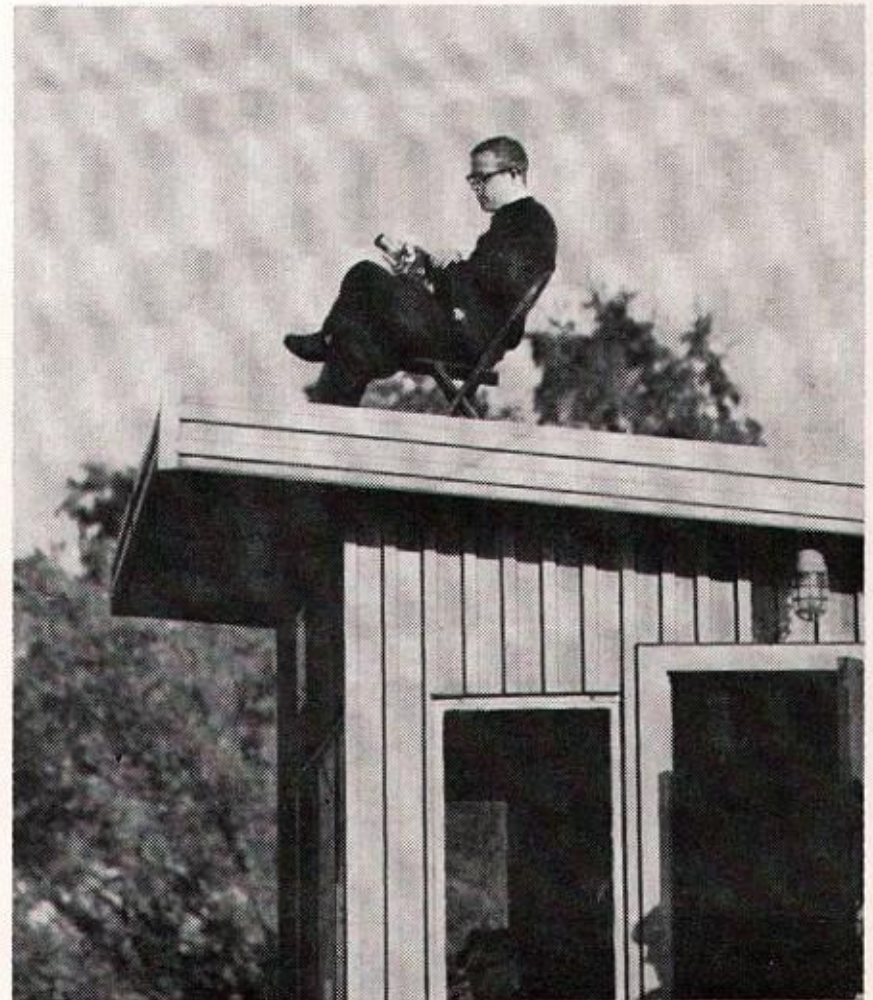

On Conference Day, Mrs. Pederson and an interested parent discuss ways to help a student get the most out of his courses.

Marquette University's student teachers of Pulaski, Miss Jean Griffins, Miss Donna Voight, Miss Dorothy Derwinski, and Miss Judith Perhay, extended thanks to the faculty for a semester of valuable teaching experiences.

English, that "foreign" language, presented a problem to many Pulaskians. Faculty members in the English Department struggled to impress students with the importance of proper grammar. They guided their classes through grammatical escapades and adventures in literature. Sophomores will never forget the famed Silas Marner, one segment of their general literature course. Juniors had their Scarlet Letter of American literature fame, while Seniors struggled with Gulliver's Travels and Macbeth in English literature. Troublesome themes and terrifying research papers kept teachers and students busy. Specialized courses permitted students to study a favorite phase of writing. Creative writing and advanced composition concentrated on precision of expression.

The Speech Department developed speaking capability. Speech classes concentrated on enunciation, projection, and poise. A dramatics class taught basic dramatic skills and produced the Senior Class Play.

"Arts" Inspire Creative Students

With the mad swoosh of a paintbrush and an untamed splash of enamel, color was added to Pulaski High. Hue-hounded students were encouraged to apply their creative interests in the areas of painting, sculpture, mosaics, ceramics, and graphics. A mural, the masterpiece of students and faculty alike, was displayed in the art rooms. Over 200 feet long, it depicted the history of art.

Among the audible arts, music decked the halls with fun and folly. Members of the Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs joined in the merriment, while members of A Capella choir, music appreciation classes, band, and orchestra explored the more serious aspects of melody. For the first time, the Pulaski Band presented its own "one-band" show. Several concerts struck high notes during the year, among them the traditional winter and spring programs.

Dressed in traditional Pulaski style, Mr. DeVillers helps band members tune up in preparation for a performance.

Math Measures Up 100 Per Cent

Modern math challenged the Mathematics Department this year. New books and new teaching methods added spice to factoring, graphing, triangles, and sine curves. Mr. Edward Zielinski commented that students adapted well to the revised program.

The latest in x and y variables made the scene in algebra classes. Functions of x bewildered many students. Plane and solid geometry were united to form a revolutionary geometry course. Triangles, circles, and parallelograms competed with pyramids, spheres, and cubes for primary status. Advanced math enthusiasts struggled with logarithms, permutations, and "high-powered" equations. Advanced math also encompassed trigonometry. Sines and cosines of weird angles mystified trigonometry scholars. Advanced students manipulated slippery sliderules in an attempt to simplify involved problems. The realm of numbers and figures was unveiled to young mathematicians in an attempt to produce precise reasoning.

Sciences Satisfy

"My frog croaked . . . Oh, the smell of that formaldehyde . . . Golly gee, it's a bat, man!" Biology classes, busily studying plants and animals, brought such exclamations from classroom cut-ups. Faculty members assisted students in learning the parts and functions of biological organisms from the simplest minute cell to the most complex organism.

Scientifically-minded juniors studied the elements, sometimes getting a "bang" out of experiments. Diligently mixing chemicals, students performed colorful and odorful experiments.

When pupils heard bells ringing, chances are a physics class on sound was in session. Teachers stressed the study of machines, light waves, and electricity. The addition of new ripple tanks made the study of wave-motion possible. Through these activities faculty members led students to an understanding of the world around them.

Mrs. Katherine Adamski
U. S. History

Around the world in eighty hours of classroom study could have been the theme of Pulaski's Social Studies Department. Interested students had a variety of "tours" to choose from. In world geography, instructors guided classroom travelers in their study of the natural features of the globe. United States History classes revisited the past, learning how personalities and events of the past influenced our nation's development. Students of modern history examined the development of other nations. Seniors enrolled in sociology studied human groups, their forms, institutions and functions. Economics classes discovered how resources are managed to satisfy the wants and needs of society. The Constitution and workings of our National Government were unfolded to American Government students. Instructors utilized movies, maps, special reports, and discussion of current events as supplements in developing the concepts of each course.

Business Ed. Is Key to Experience

Sounds of clicking, clacking typewriters, ringing cash registers, scratching pens, and babbling dictaphones resounded rhythmically through the halls near Business Education classrooms. Typing and shorthand developed efficient stenographers. Advanced students gained practical experience with adding machines, comptometers and other office machines in office practice classes. College-bound students took advantage of notehand classes to facilitate easy note making. Business arithmetic, business law, and bookkeeping gave students a chance to acquaint themselves with varied skills.

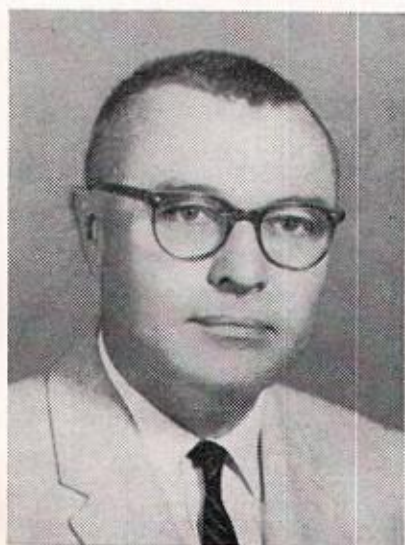

This year marked the introduction of the Distributive Education program. On-the-job training at local firms replaced afternoon classes for these students. While they learned about commercial merchandising and displaying, they earned both pay and a full credit.

"Speak" was the key word in the Foreign Language Department. Traditional grammar and translation gave way to contemporary emphasis on speech and comprehension. Frequent visits to the language laboratory composed an important phase of classroom work. Rapid tape recordings confused both new language students and advanced students, as they struggled to comprehend the foreign language as spoken by a native. Stories, dialogues, basic sentences, and drills acquainted students with correct pronunciation and customs of various countries. Especially interested students also kept teachers hopping in the language laboratory after school.

Increased enrollment brought about a rise in the number of advanced language classes. Third and fourth year classes in French, German, Latin, and Spanish presented a new challenge to faculty members. They encouraged extra reading of novels and stories. Film strips and movies added variety to classroom pursuits.

If our young men and women are to attain the social, scientific, and economic goals of which they are capable, they must all possess the strength, the energy, and good health to pursue them vigorously."

Physical fitness for American youth was carried on in the Pulaski tradition. Exuberant yells and cheers from the gymnasium and pool echoed throughout the Physical Education Department. In the pursuit of physical fitness, spirited Pulaskians exercised, danced, and swam. Energetic teachers directed extra curricular activities such as G.A.A., Natate, Orchesis, Lettermen's Club, Booster Girls, and Cheerleading. Sore muscles, bruises, bumps, and tired feet attested to many strenuous activities.

Tantalizing, hunger-inciting aromas escaped from foods classes in the Home Economics Department. Future homemakers learned the basics of food preparation with focus on management of time, energy, and money. Through actual practice, girls gained valuable skills in the use of kitchen equipment and in cooking. Humming sewing machines and snipping scissors identified clothing classes. Clothing students sidelighted construction of garments with lessons in wardrobe planning and personal grooming.

Family care and the family aspects of homemaking composed the family living courses. Also included in the three semester course were topics such as home planning and home management. The course was supplemented by the study of home furnishing and decorating, and the organization of housekeeping in the "Model Home." Pulaski girls strove to establish values which give meaning to personal, family, and community life.

"Work experience" echoed the goals of the Special Education Department. Faculty members and students combined forces to realize their goal. All of the learning did not occur in the classroom. Seniors gained actual experience by working at local firms. Full credit and a salary supplemented valuable knowledge of a useful trade. When training was completed and graduation arrived, the students were guaranteed employment.

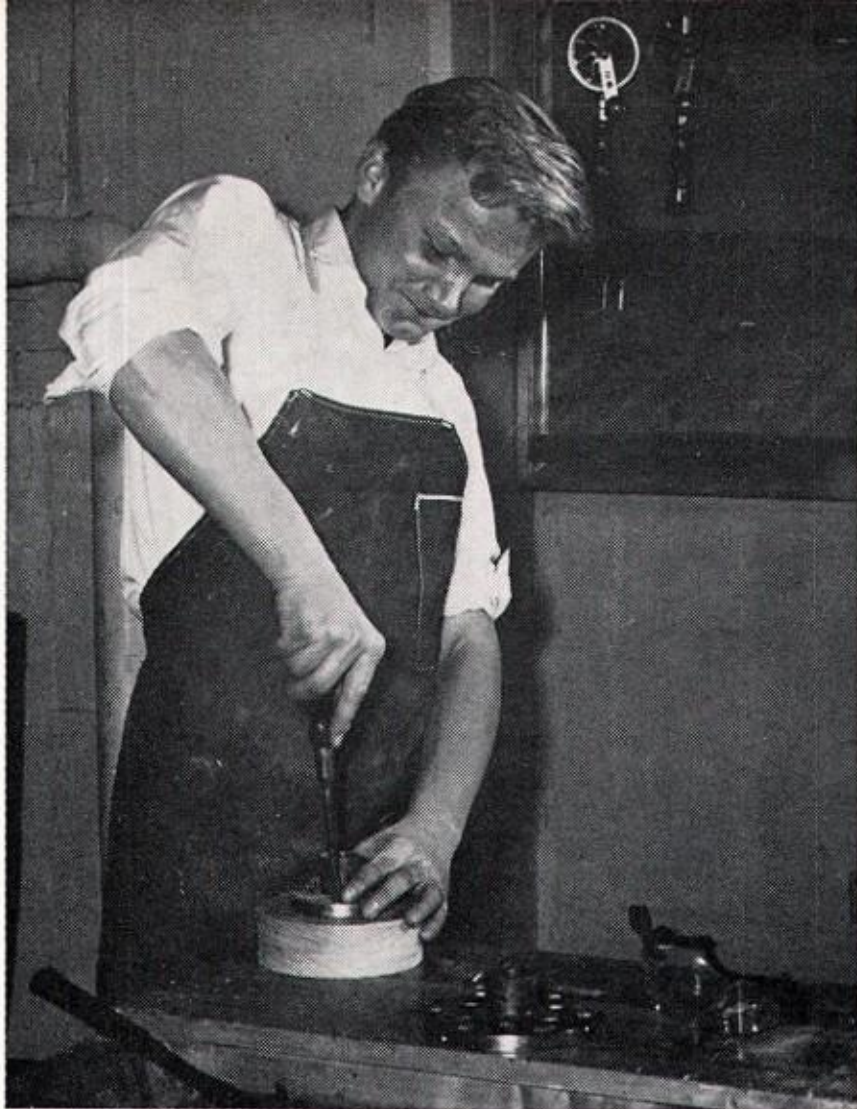

The Special Education Department set high academic standards. Awards for exceptional academic achievement provided worthwhile goals for hard-working students. This year two January graduates were the first recipients of these awards. Mr. Daniel Yesko, Department Chairman, made the presentation at the Honor Day program. Throughout the Special Education program, faculty members geared studies to the level of the students.

Pounding hammers, knocking engines, and buzzing saws livened the tempo in the Industrial Arts Department. Faculty members encouraged the practical use of nails, hammers, blueprints, and T-squares in various shop classes. New equipment in the shops, such as an engine analyzer, a distributor tester, a variety of electrical testing equipment, a milling machine, a floor drill press, and a surface grinder, helped to broaden the fields of study.

Pulaski graduates obtained employment in the technical areas of engine tune-up, machine shop, and industrial drafting through the Vocational Program. Under the direction of Mr. Otto Northquest, Pulaski boys were encouraged to train in this program during their junior and senior year. The School Board, the State Education Department, and the Federal Government brought about the addition of auto engine tune-up to this year's curriculum.

"Clink, clatter, shuffle, mumble . . ." were a few of the sounds that came from a well known place at Pulaski — the office. The members of the office staff, a vital group at Pulaski, produced the conglomeration of noise. Clinks and clatters rang out from typewriters as secretaries typed letters and records. The secretaries kept in touch with the outside world by operating the switchboard. Their duties also included sorting mail and keeping students' records up to date.

At times the office was "busier than a beehive." Hurried teachers, harried parents, and bewildered students often came to the office staff for necessary information and directions. An invaluable member of the office staff was the accountant. His behind-the-scenes work kept the financial records of Pulaski and its organizations in order.

In Memoriam

Miss Marie E. Poundstone

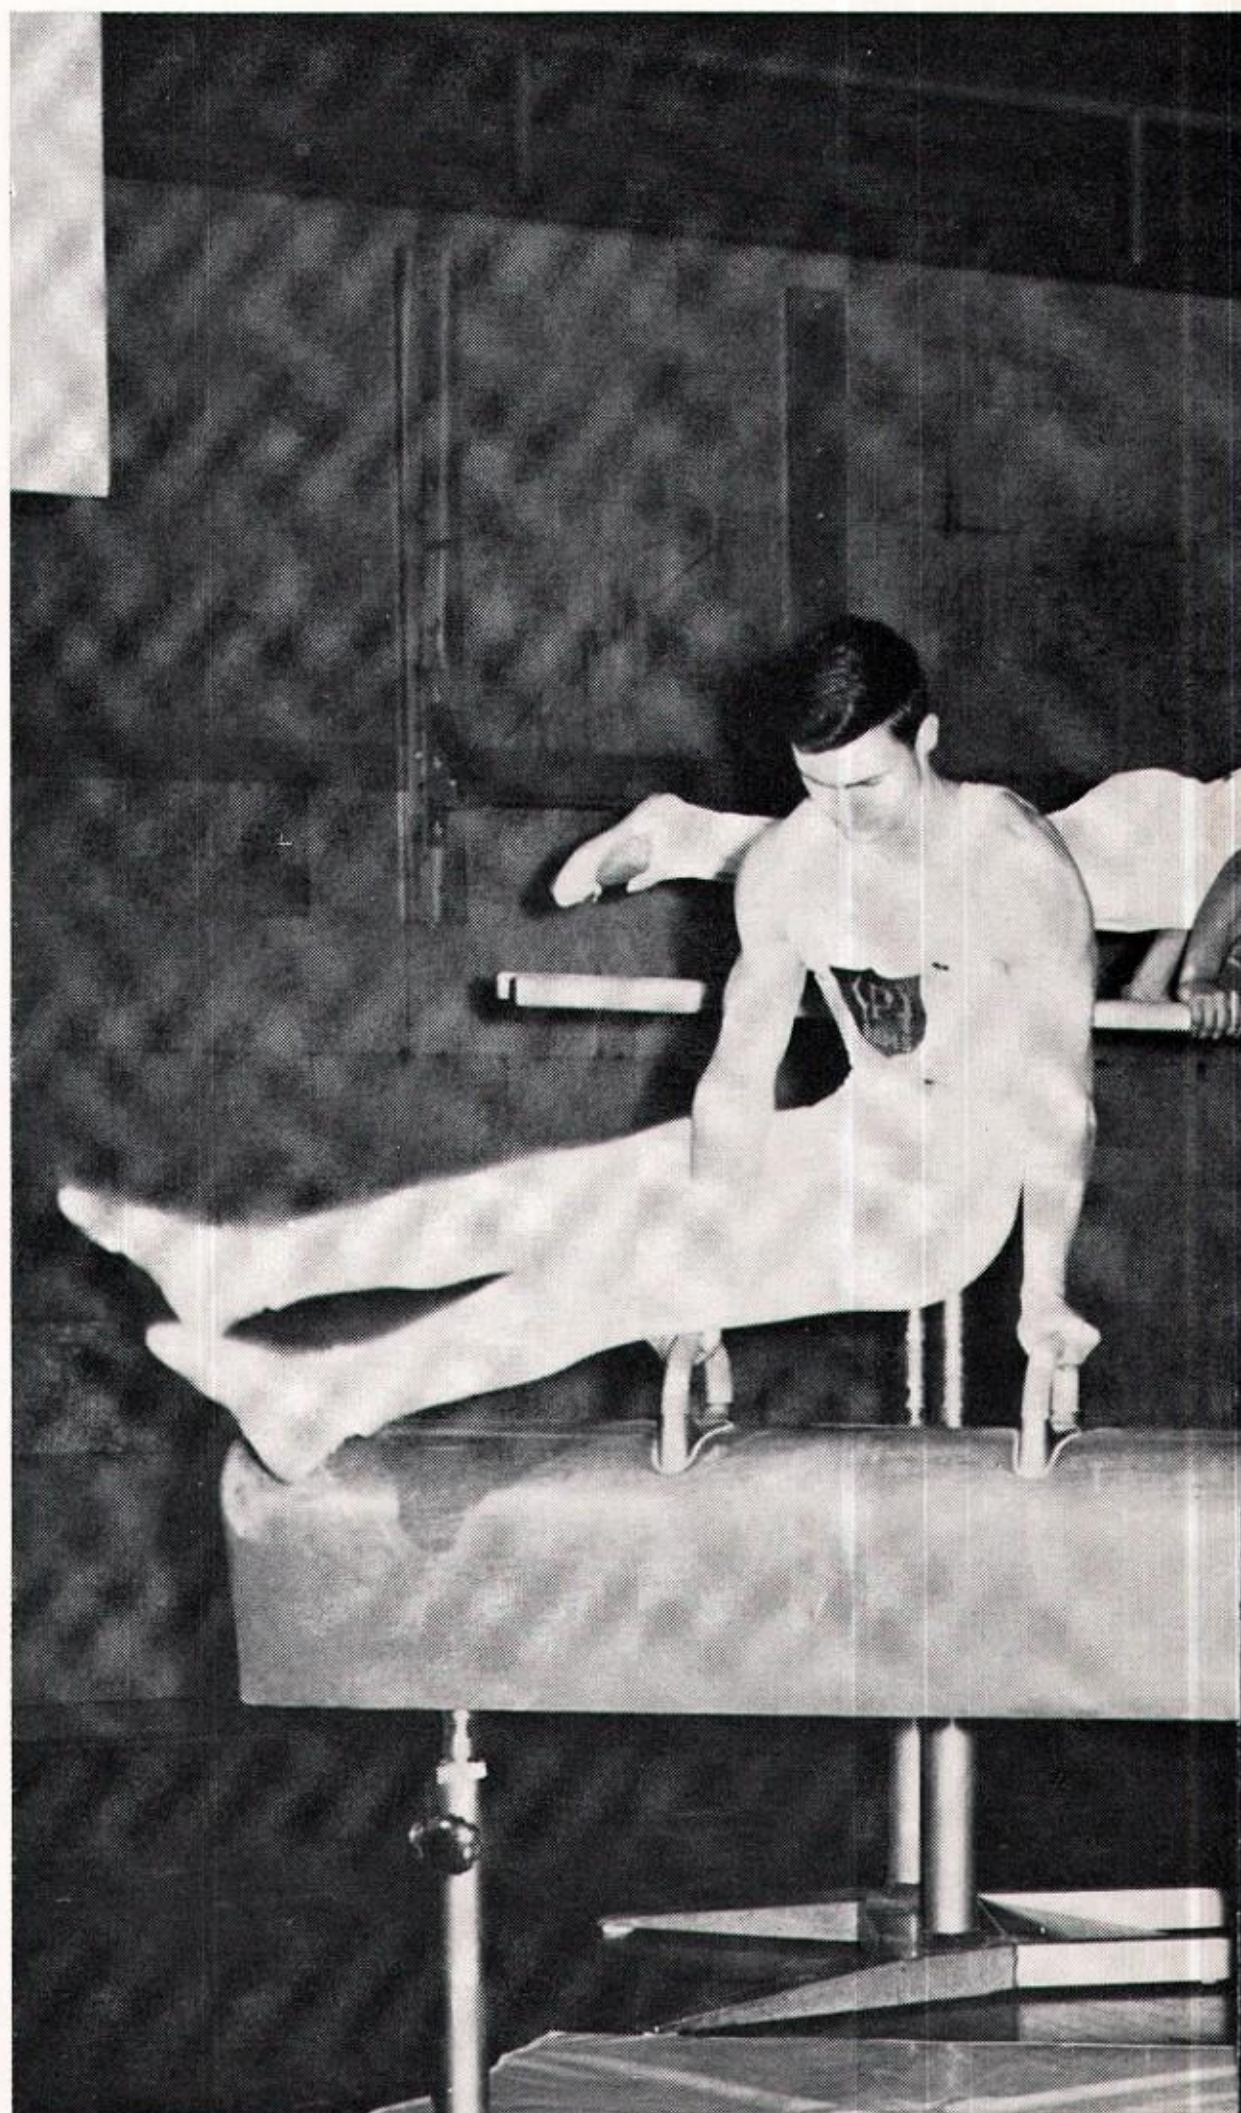

Faculty, students and friends mourn the loss of Miss Marie E. Poundstone, a teacher at Pulaski for 22 years. In his expression of sorrow, Principal Edward C. DeBriac spoke for all of Pulaski:

Miss Poundstone, in her long and dedicated career as a teacher, gave of herself unstintingly. She was a teacher who loved the young people with whom she worked — and she never ceased to try to bring out the best in each. She had a deep and abiding faith in her students — she wanted them to be good citizens and a credit to the society in which they lived. She assisted those who faltered — encouraged many to seek higher goals. She cheerfully assisted not only students, but also her colleagues on the faculty. I know that I not only speak for her many students but for every member of the faculty when I say that we will miss her cheery smile, and we deeply mourn her loss. (November 1, 1965)

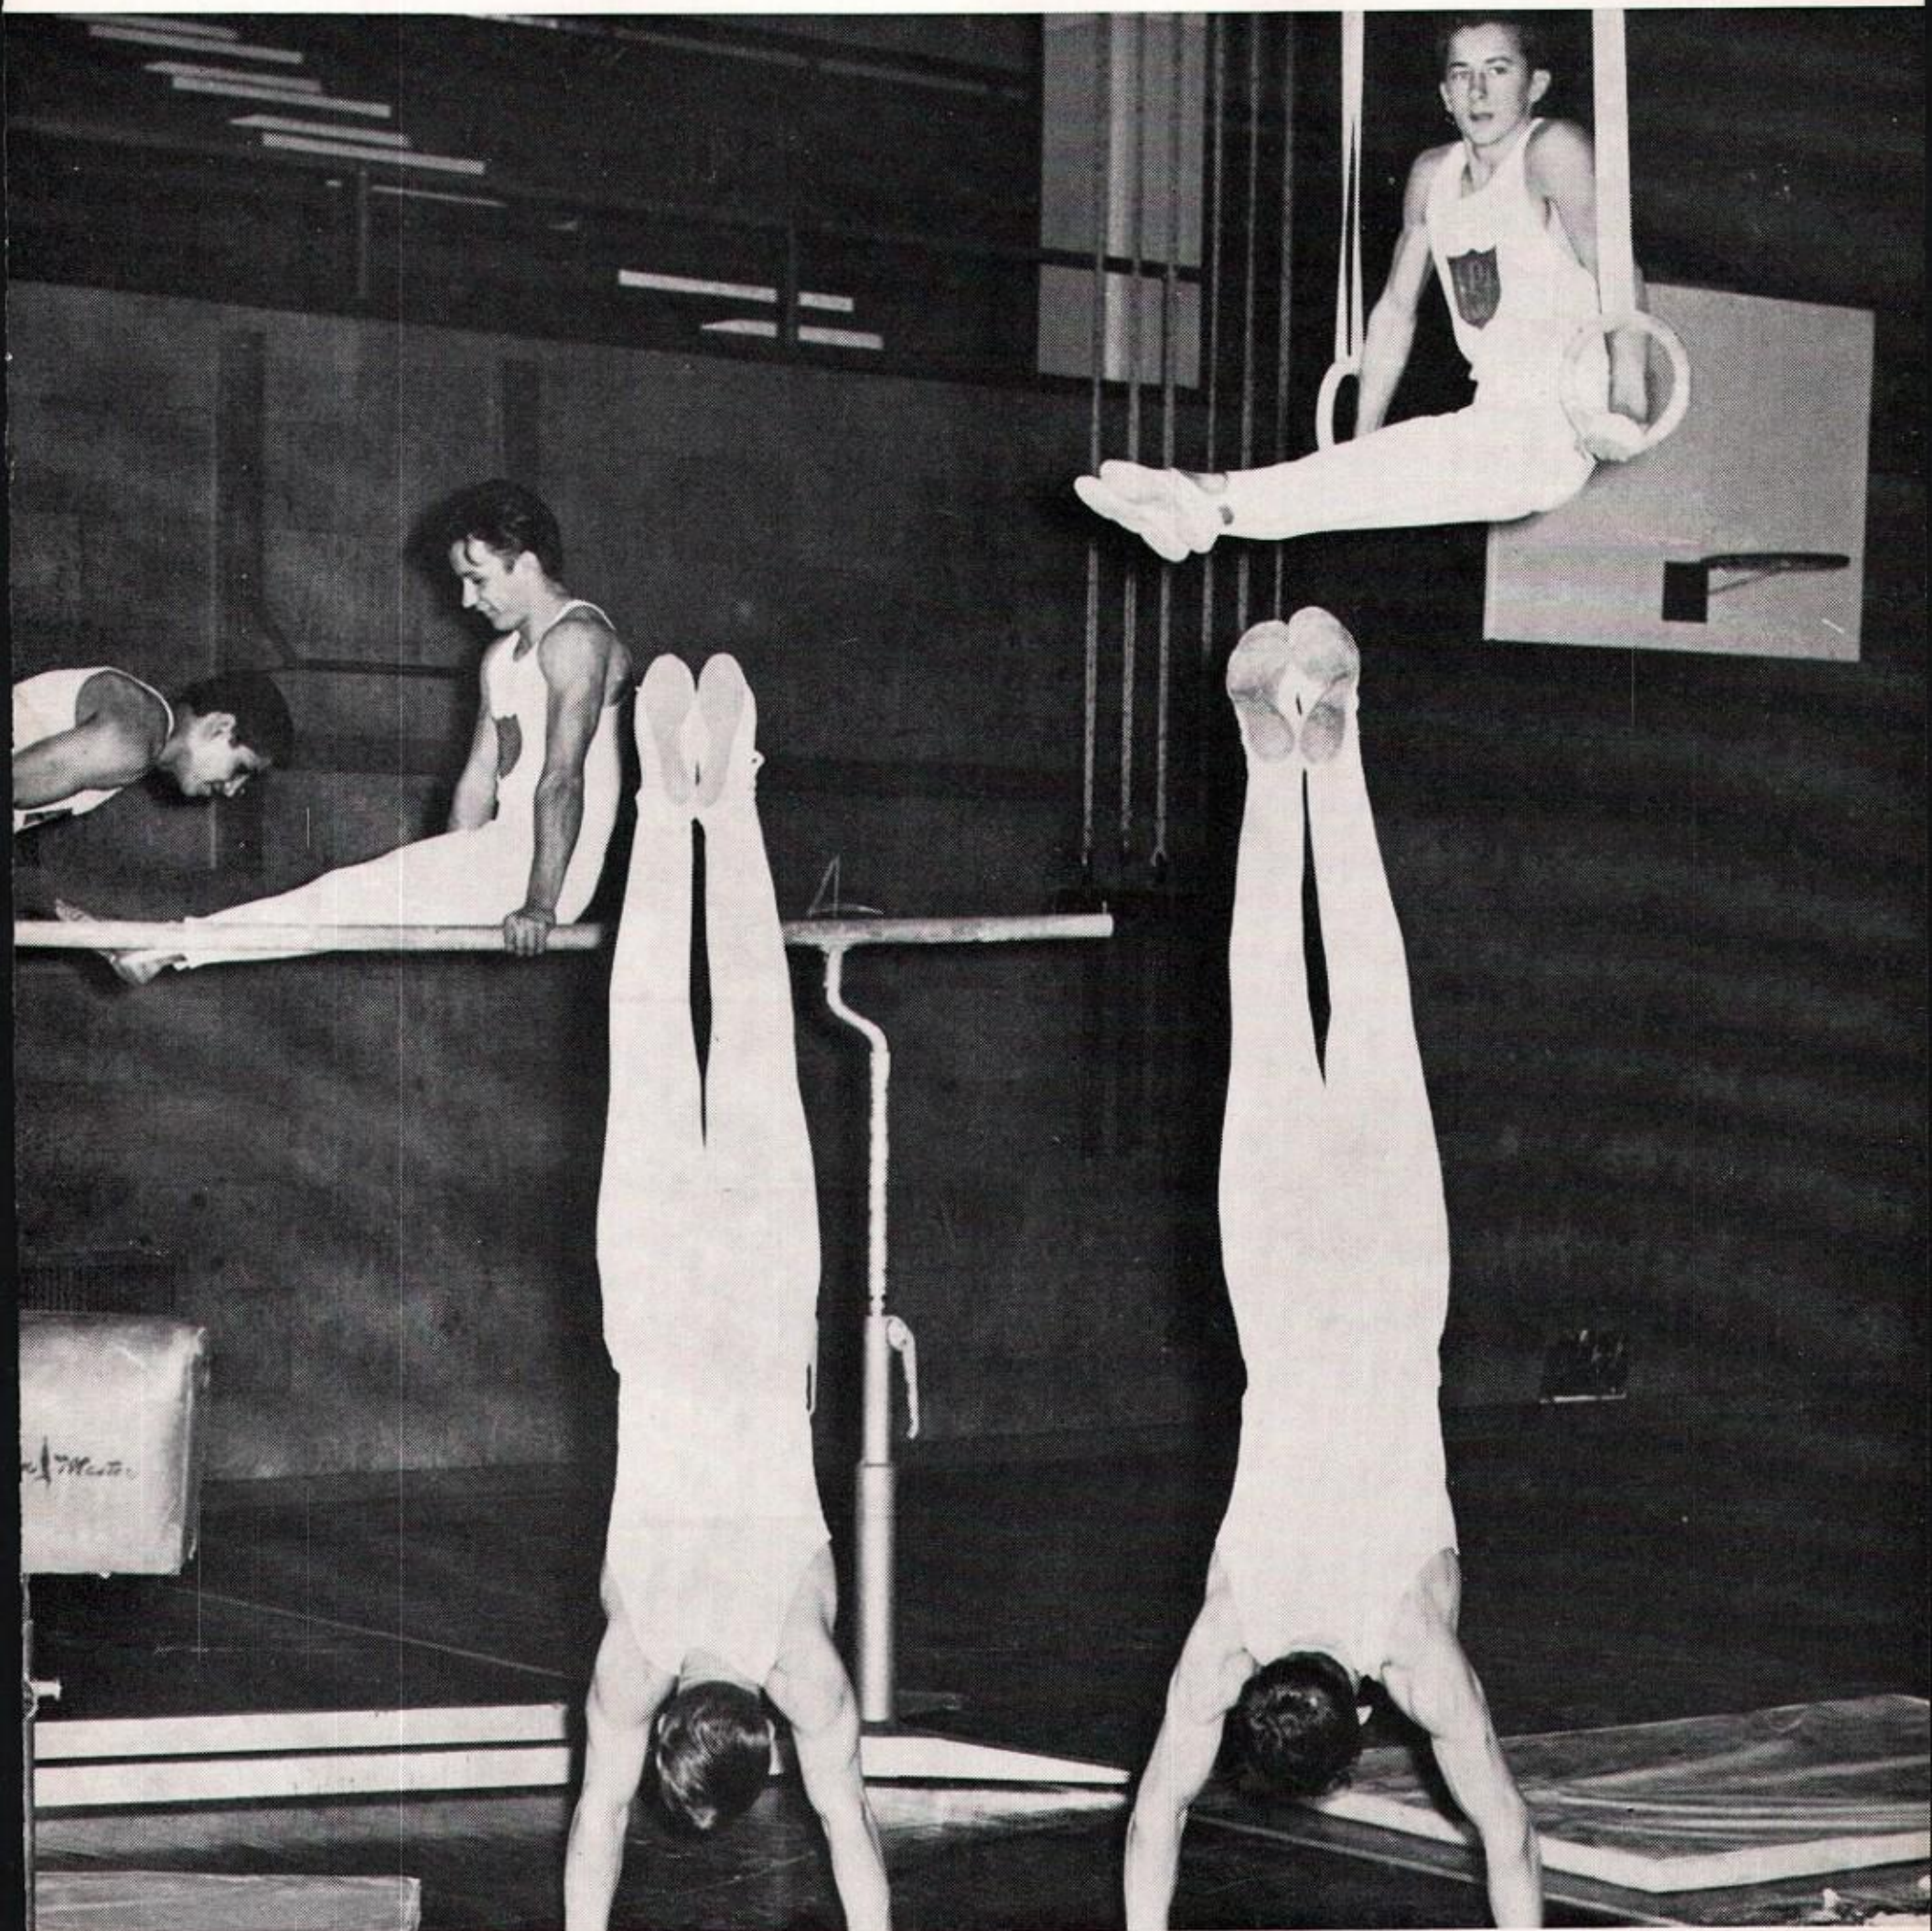

Sports Fade Into

As minds are improved through study, bodies become healthy through physical activity. One reinforces the other to develop alertness, energy, and stamina. Through the competition of a wide variety of sports students escape daily school routine for brief intervals of fun and excitement, sometimes even disappointment. In any case all involved benefit from the strenuous activity.

From 8:00 until 3:30 each day emphasis is on concentrated study. Then the action begins. Sports bugs quickly fade into energetic activity. The sports picture flashes to field, to pool, to court, to track, to gym as both boys and girls release tensions and develop physical dexterity through individual and team competition. Those who do not enjoy active participation share in the excitement as cheering spectators. Their enthusiasm, varying with the degree of the competition, adds thrill and furor to the rivalry. Throughout the year this athletic competition develops strong sportsmanship and school loyalty.

Year Of Competition

Sports Stir Strength and Strategy

With an extra burst of energy, Tom Yapundich spurts ahead of opponents to win an important event at a swimming meet.

Striving hard to score victories, Pulaski Ramblers ran into tough competition this year. In individual sports, the few returning varsity players formed the lead with many promising juniors backing them up.

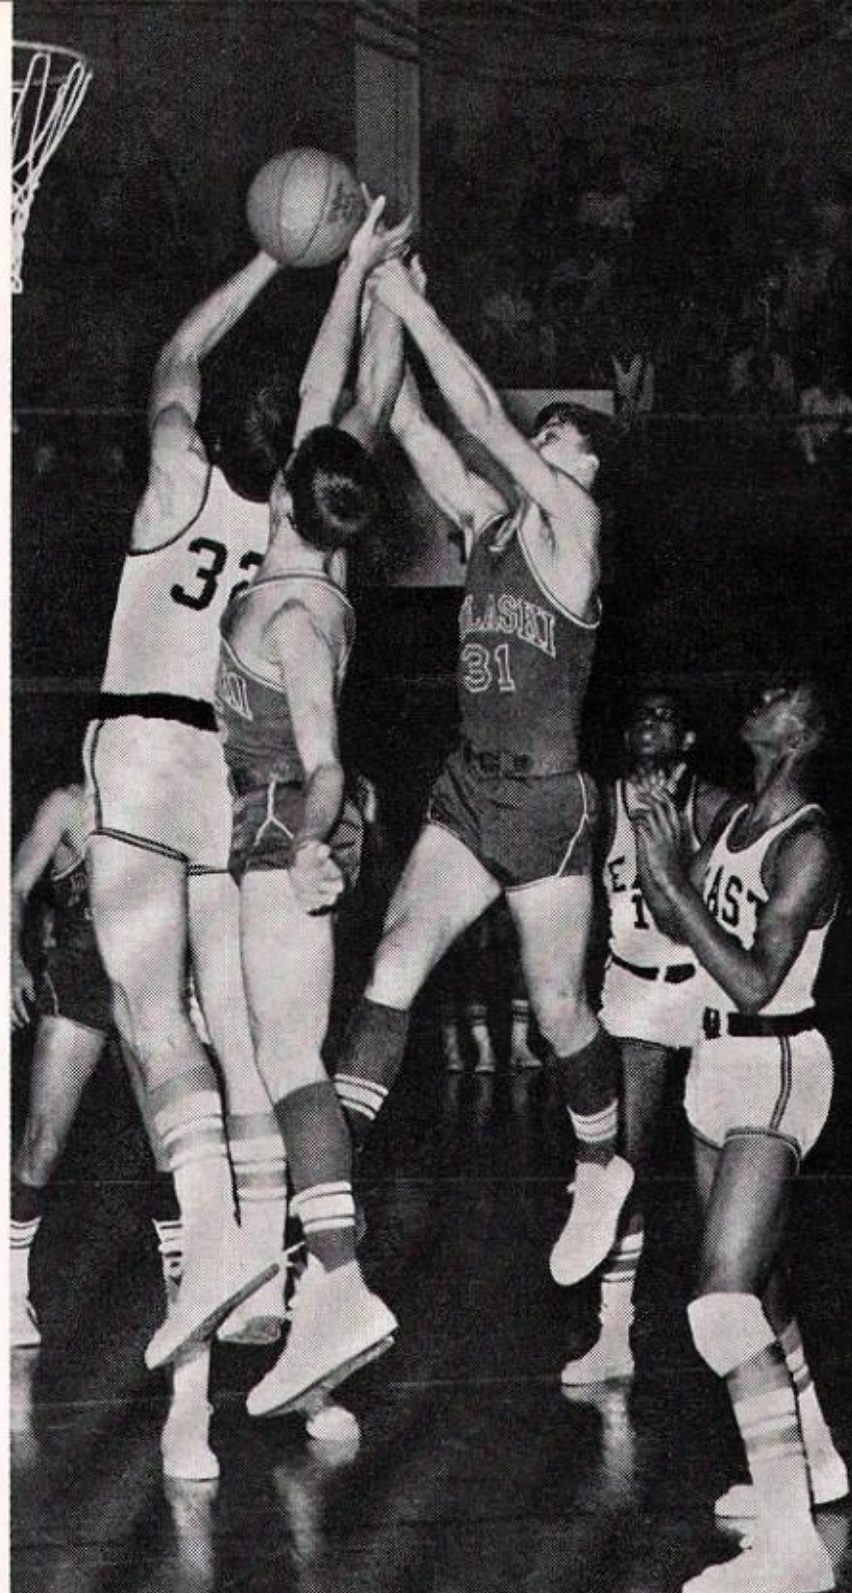

Pulaski's football squad, playing in a rough field, ended the season with only two victories. The cross country team was caught short with no returning major lettermen. With a lot of steam, the harriers ran to fourth place in the South Side Championships. In spite of spirited individual and team effort, the basketball squad sank only one victory. The wrestling team was also in the process of rebuilding. Swimmers stroked through their season and right into third place in the City Championships. Vaulting and swinging in good form, Pulaski gymnasts achieved third place in the All-City Gymnastic Meet and tenth place in the State Meet. Pulaski's racket squad swung gracefully into a successful season. "Batmen" hit homeruns and "short-stopped" their opponents to score victories. Trackmen started racing, sprinting, and hurdling long before their season began. "Maxmen" swung through the fairways with their best drives "fore-ward."

The resounding bang of the gun breaks the silence and marks the start of the first race of the city cross-country meet.

Pulaski's Rams pooled their efforts while ganging up on a Riverside cager in an attempt to block his shot.

During an eighth hour gymnastics practice, Carey Meier demonstrates the correct form in performing a handstand on the rings.

As two guards rush to the aid of a fellow Ram, an opposing tackle struggles to gain possession of the ball.

Football Maintains

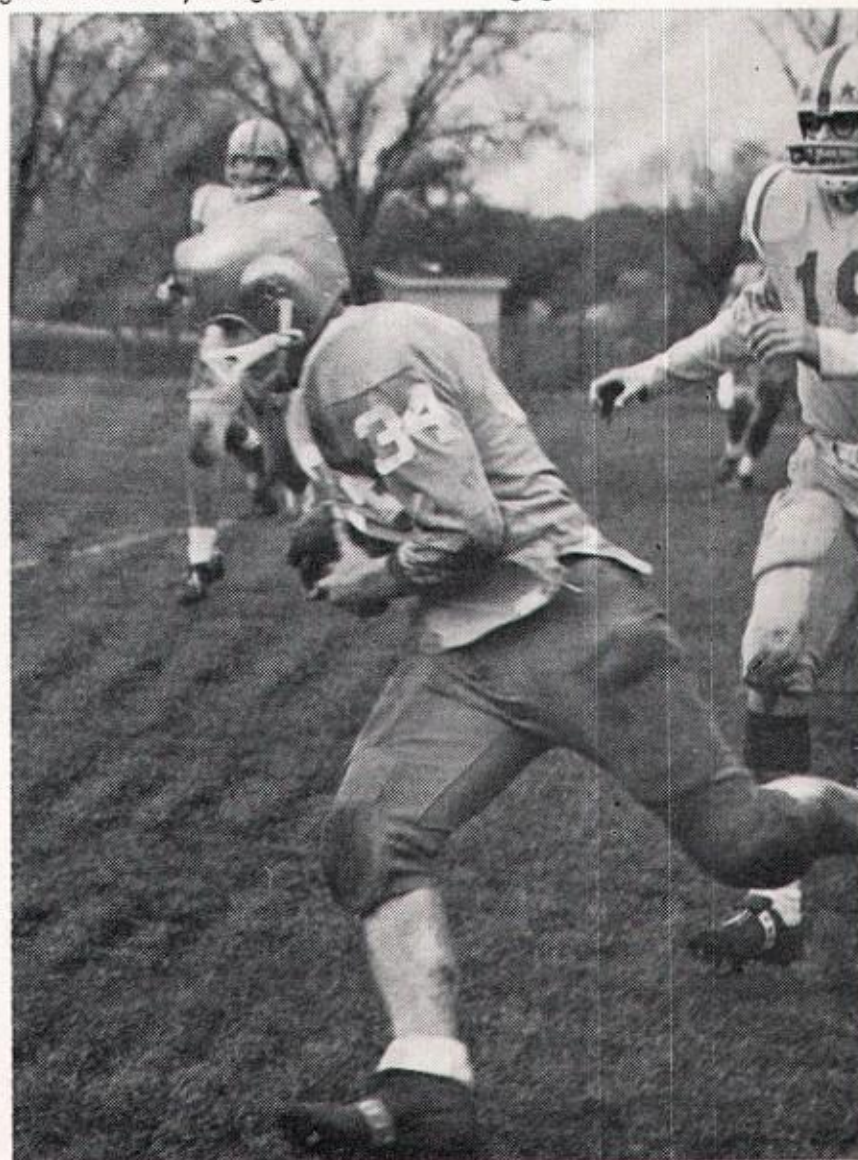

With one eye on next year's squad, head coach Greg Dufek, defensive back coaches Neil Hoepfner and Wallace Chute, and end coach Clarence Lewandowski prepared Pulaski's gridders for their first conference game against Bay View. Hampered by a few key injuries to end Brian Schenk and kicking specialist Richard Kay, the Rams got off to a slow start with a defeat by Bay View, 13-6. Hard work and determination paid off in the Rams' next two games. Mike Albright's illustrious 100-yard run put Pulaski on top of South 7-0. The Rams' famed "block the punt" team went into action with two blocked punts by Jim Perla and John Surges.

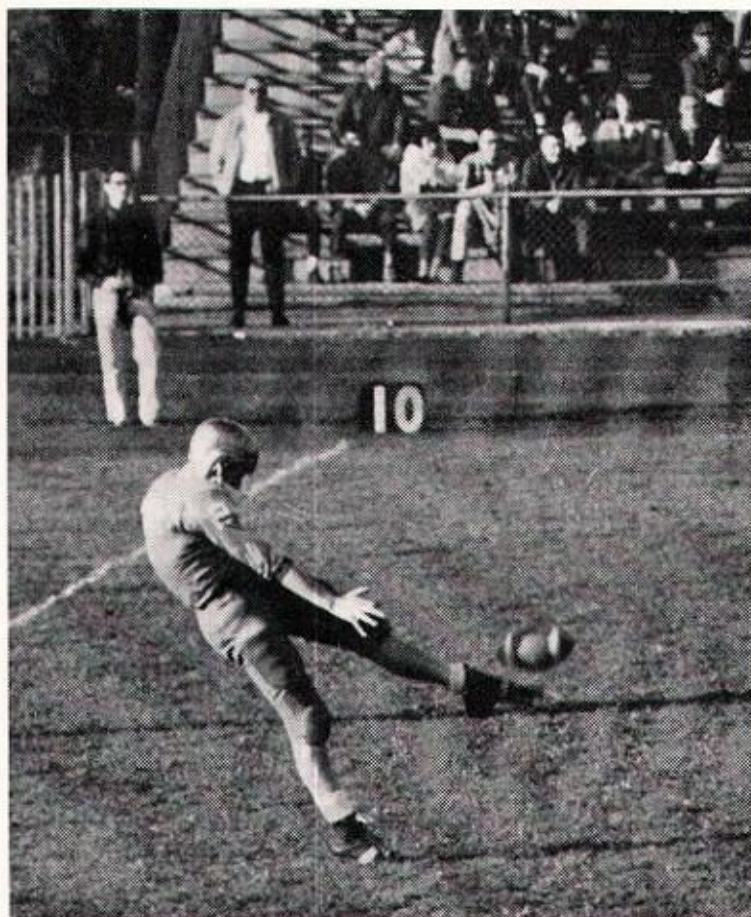

With victories over South Division and North Division, the gridders prepared to face the three league leaders. The Lincoln Comets proved to be too much for the Rams, who were defeated. Pulaski's homecoming hit a sad note with a loss to the league leaders, Boy's Tech. After being doused by Tech, the Rams fought hard, but suffered defeat to King. Losses to West and Juneau closed the season for the Rams, with a two and six record.

Teamwork is an important part in football and Mike Albright makes use of it to gain extra yardage while Ram guards block the way.

Ram Terry Wilson jumps in a last-minute attempt to tackle a King runner just inches short of the goal line.

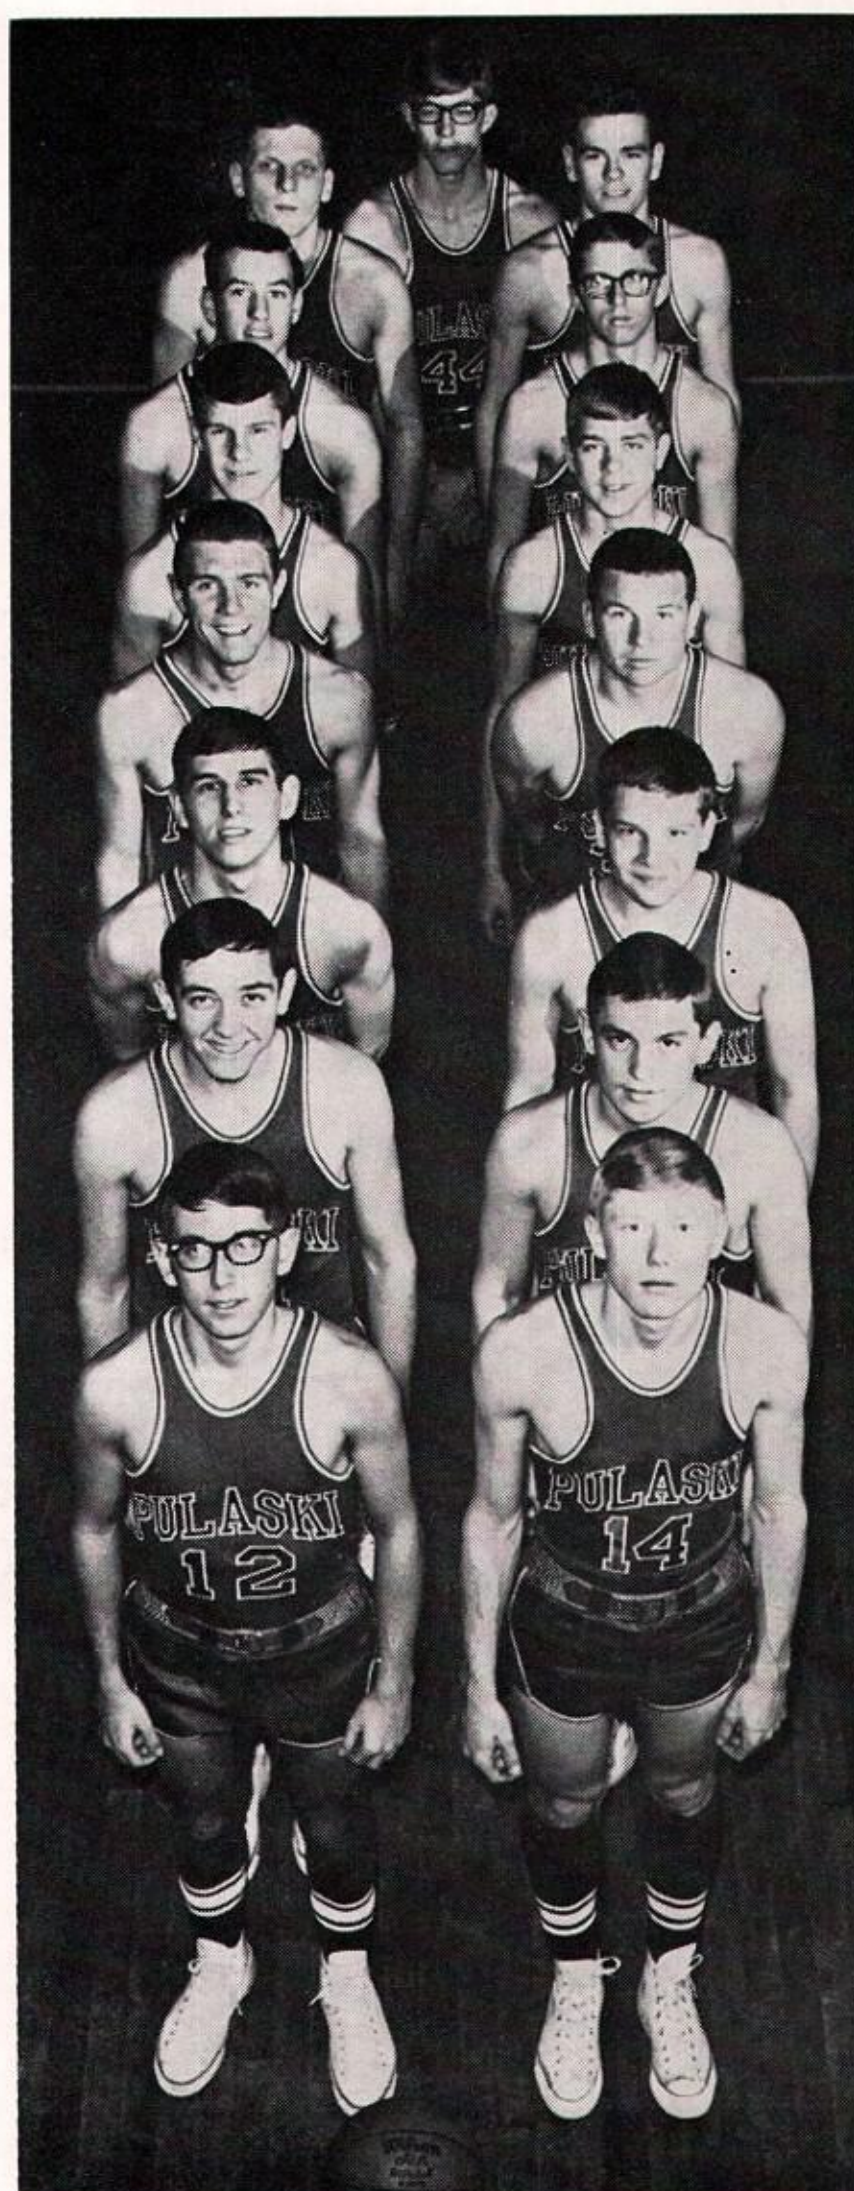

Cagers Encounter Difficulties

Ram Cagers put in many hard and tedious hours of practice this year. Coach Norman Gradecki worked with his boys every night to make sure that every shot, step, and play was in control. With the assistance of Coach Darwin Romberg, the Cagers tried their best. Although they had a tough season with many bad breaks and close games, there were many individuals who earned recognition. Leading the Rams in high scoring were Bob Polka and Doug Czaplewski with a total of 371 and 252 points respectively. Bob Polka was rated in seventh place in city standings for his tremendous number of points. A few of the other dedicated players were Jack Duelge, John Roy, Tom Stauder, Terry Kotlarek, and Mike Murawski. Three outstanding sophomores, Randy Foeckler, Jim Radke, and Bob Zydowicz, added to the team's scoring.

Despite the Rams' several close losses, they gave first place Washington two very good games which were not easily won. The Tech game was one of the best of the season. The game was fairly close but Pulaski was always in the lead. At half time the Rams were ahead 40-24. After that the game was in full stride ending with a 71-67 victory for Pulaski.

Sophs Struggle With Ups and Downs

The sophomore basketball team, under the leadership of Coach Wallace Chute, started the season with three key players: Jim Radke, Bob Zydowicz, and Randy Foeckler. They formed the lead of the future Ram cagers. Then, in mid-season, the team was crippled. Its three outstanding high-scorers were drafted into the varsity squad. The sophomores had a tough job on their hands, but Mike Mills, Eric Hermann, and Jim Brozek rose to meet the challenge and helped the team to overcome its handicap.

Coach Chute is proud of the team's accomplishments. The boys came a long way despite the loss of the three top players. Their last game was won from Juneau, a team to whom they had lost at the beginning of the season.

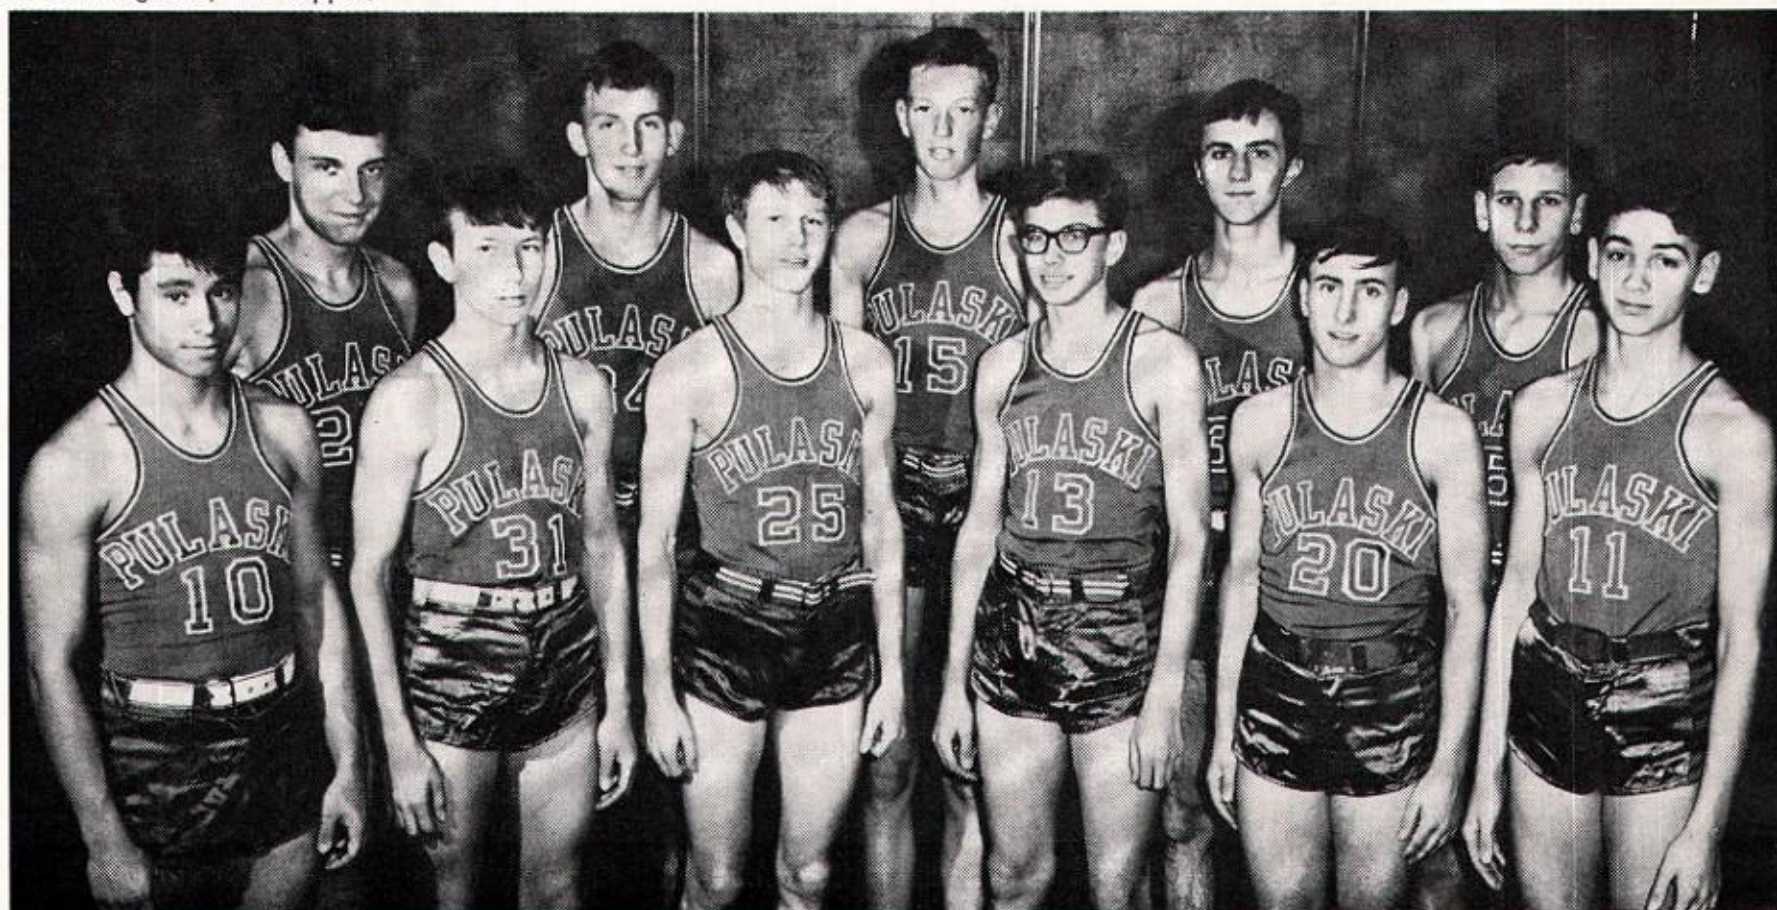

Trying to stop opposing cagers from scoring points, two Ramblers rush to cover an elusive ball carrier.

Cross Country Whips Around Campus

Coach Perez gives some last minute "do's and don'ts" to members of Pulaski's cross country team before an important meet.

Pulaski's cross-country team strived to rebuild itself with seven arduous weeks of workouts, after losing all of last year's lettermen. Running consistently each night after school on Kinnickinnic Parkway, the Harriers, guided by Coach Richard Perez, finished the season with a ninth place rating in the State Sectionals held at Humboldt Park. The team centered about a nucleus of five boys: Ken Witter, Mike Cowling, Mike Auer, Dave Hendrickson, and Eric Hermann. Rounding out the squad were Tom Yapundich, Leon Ols, and Jim Royten.

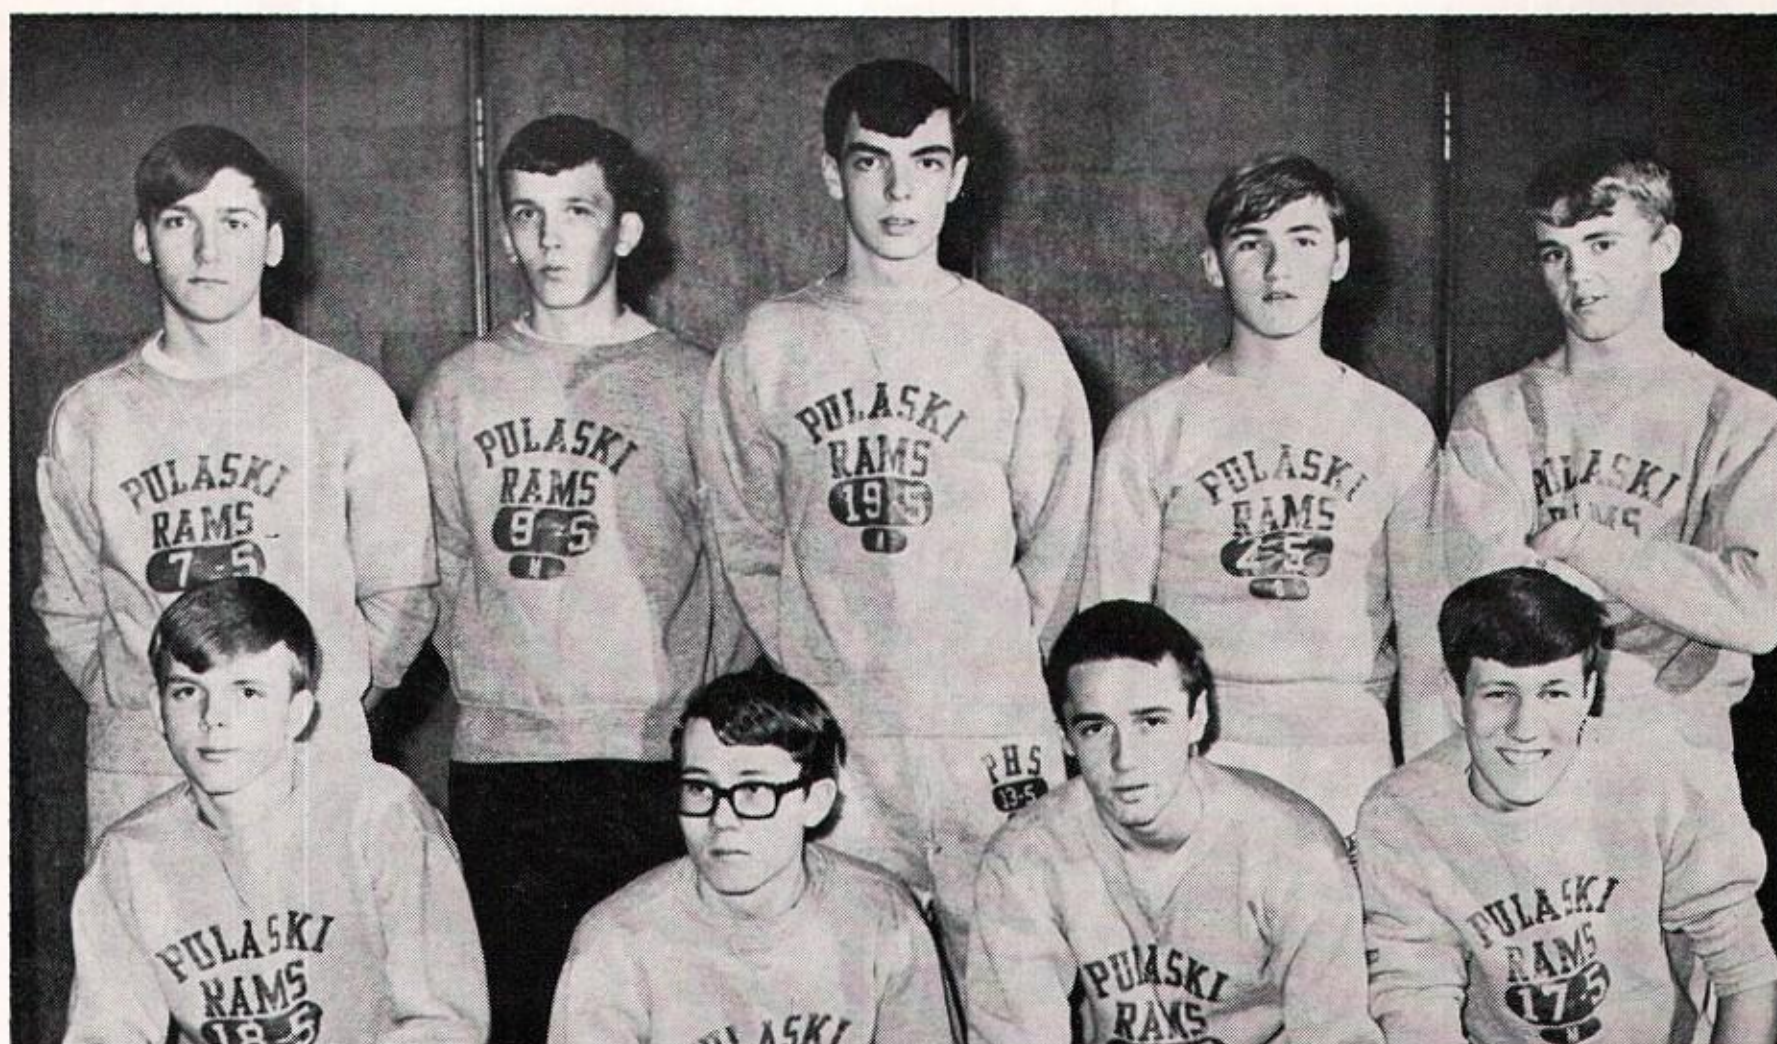

Highlighting the season was Ken Witter's seventh place individual rating in the City Meet. Witter, who is a Junior and will return next year, finished third in the South Side Championships held at Jackson Park, and finished second in the quadrangular meet. Pleasantly surprising results were turned in by Eric Hermann and Leon Ols, two Sophomores. Despite an earlier injury, Tom Yapundich's strong recovery, aided by his determination, carried him to first place in the State Sectionals.

Trackmen Surge on to Their Goal

"Runners to your mark . . . set . . . Bang!" . . . and they're off! With snow still on the ground Pulaski's trackmen got under way. Coach Jim Coady was assisted by coaches Greg Dufek, Neil Hoepfner, and Bruce Sonnenberg.

Pulaski's cindermen wound up the City Indoor Track Meet with a total of 4 points. The 18 lap relay team of Dave Hendrickson, Gary Moeller, George Dahlman, and Eric Hermann took fifth place, and John Surges took a third place in the shot put. This was the extent of point gathering in the first meet of the season. While the season was still in its early stages, the team stood a good chance of becoming one of the better teams in the city. Workouts were well under way for several big meets: the Shorewood Relays, the South Side Championship, and the City Relays.

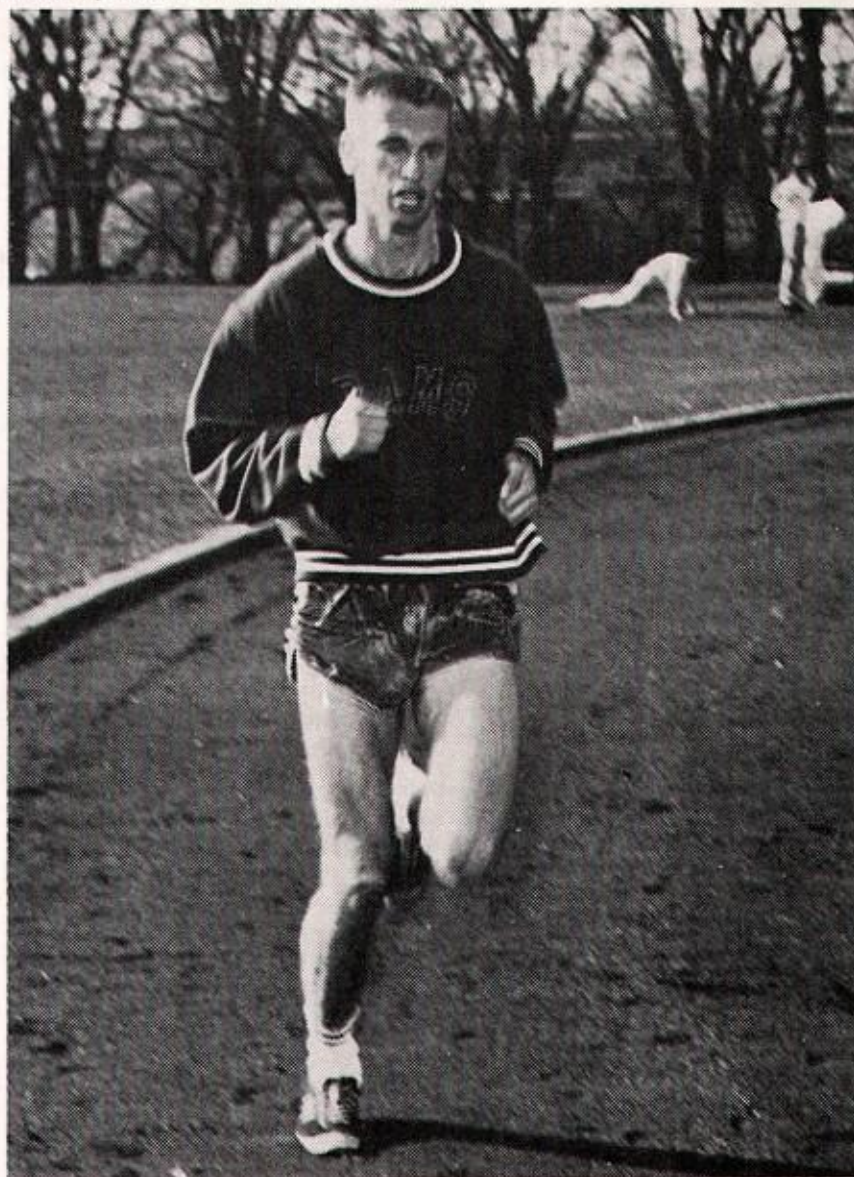

Coming around the west turn of Pulaski's track during a practice meet, Richard Sasek leaps over a low hurdle with form and speed.

Dave Budzien shows the strain that is involved in the shot put as he readies himself for a crucial meet.

With pride in his stride, Gary Moeller sprints out for Pulaski as he warms up before the start of a big meet.

Constantly striving for greater heights, the Pulaski pole vaulter is one trackman who gets up in the world.

Swimmers Start Off with a Bang

Coach Clarence Scherr led the mermen to a third place in the City Swimming and Diving Championships. After losing to Custer by one point, swimmers pushed off to end the dual competition with a win against Oak Creek.

The team participated in two invitational meets. In the first meet, which was held at Greenfield, the Rams stroked to fourth place in seven team competition. The second invitational was held at South Milwaukee. Again, the team placed fourth, but this time in a field of eight.

Mermen swam in three triangular meets. Helping to win all three meets were Mike Muelver and Ken Penkalski swimming the butterfly, Jim May winning in the back stroke, and Tom Shiroda and Tom Williamson doing the free style. Key divers were David Hendrickson and Carl Williams.

The height of the season for Thomas Schaetzke, Thomas Shiroda, Michael Muelver, and Cy Nelson, Pulaski's 400 yard free style relay team, was the breaking of the old school record. The relay team also sprinted to fill the number three spot among the Milwaukee area relay teams, thus qualifying for the State Meet Sectionals.

Swimmers Splash For Finish Line

The B-Team swimmers finished the season winning all of the meets except the first, which was lost to Tech by only seven points. One of the hardest and the closest meets was against Marshall. Going into the final minutes, the Pulaski men swam fast to beat Marshall by the necessary one point. In their last meet, the mermen sprinted ahead to leave a wide gap between them and the Oak Creek swimmers.

Some of Coach Scherr's more valuable B-Team swimmers were: Jim Schmidt and Robert Dancker, sprinting the fifty free style; Rich Zielinski and Kenneth Faucoult, swimming the breast stroke; Leon Ols, back stroke; and Mike Ullstrup, Bill Kneisler, and Rich Nowakowski, the four hundred yard free style. Ken Nolan swam a two-hundred yard individual medley.

G.A.A. Keeps the Ball Bouncing

With one objective in mind—to win—Mary Matyas and Diane Sinski get set to jump, hoping their teammates will intercept the ball.

Anticipating fun, the Girl's Athletic Association started its 1965-1966 season. G.A.A. is open to all girls at Pulaski who are willing to participate in a supervised and active sports program. Under the direction of Mrs. LaVerne Dougherty, the girls elected their own officers and referees, and competed against each other in such tournaments as tennis, softball, basketball, badminton, volleyball, and the annual inter-class swim meet. In the swim meet, girls from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes competed against each other in relays, diving, and other events, while in the audience each class cheered hopefully for its own team.

The officers for this year were: President, Mary Matyas; Vice-President, Mary Ellen Muth; Recording Secretary, Louise Brauer; Heads of sports, Marilyn Herman, Diane Sinski, Marilyn Seidler, Linda Piotrowski, and Sandra Stecher.

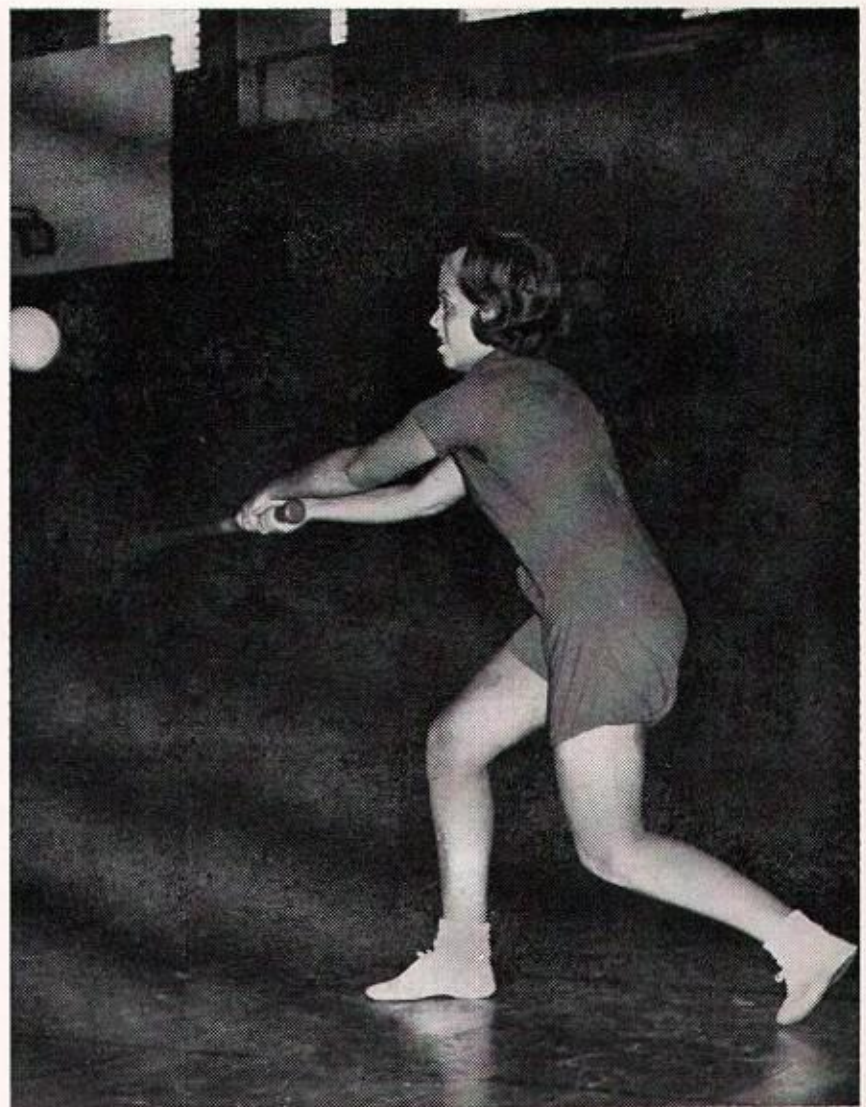

The highlight of the year, the G.A.A. banquet, was held in the spring. After a dinner, trophies and letters were awarded to winners of the sports tournaments.

With a strong, swift stroke, Mary Matyas sends the ball sailing into the opponents' court, volleying for a point.

Candy Larson practices one rule for good serving, "Watch the birdies," at the start of a match in the G.A.A. badminton tournament.

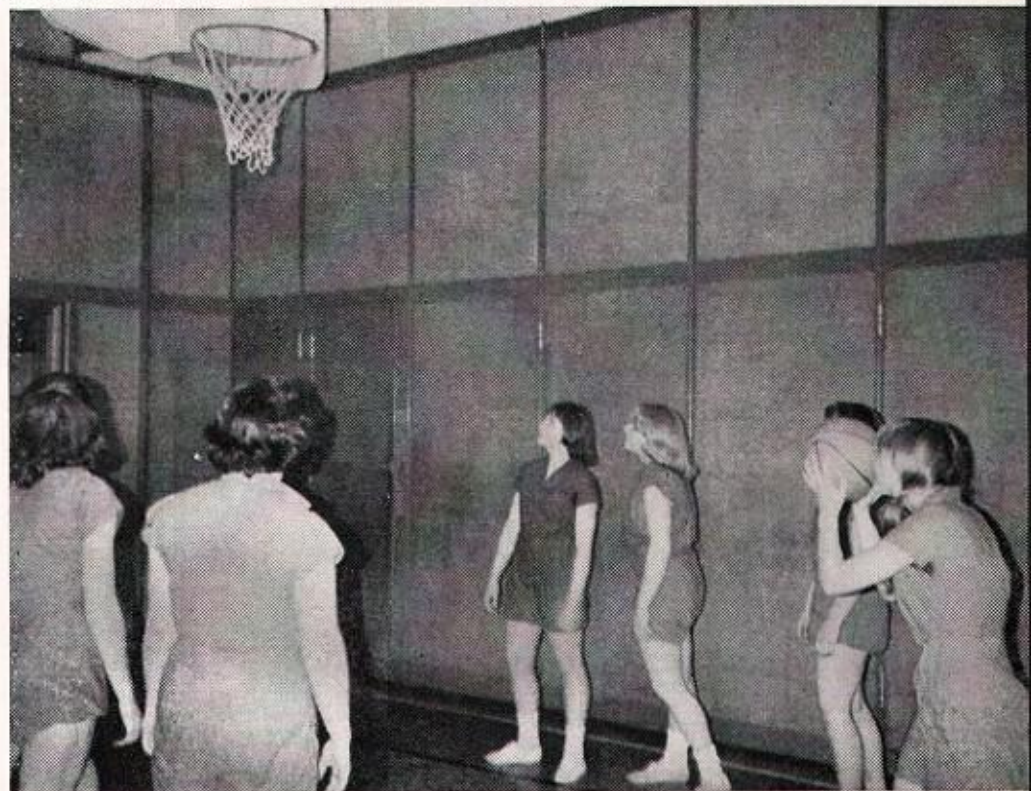

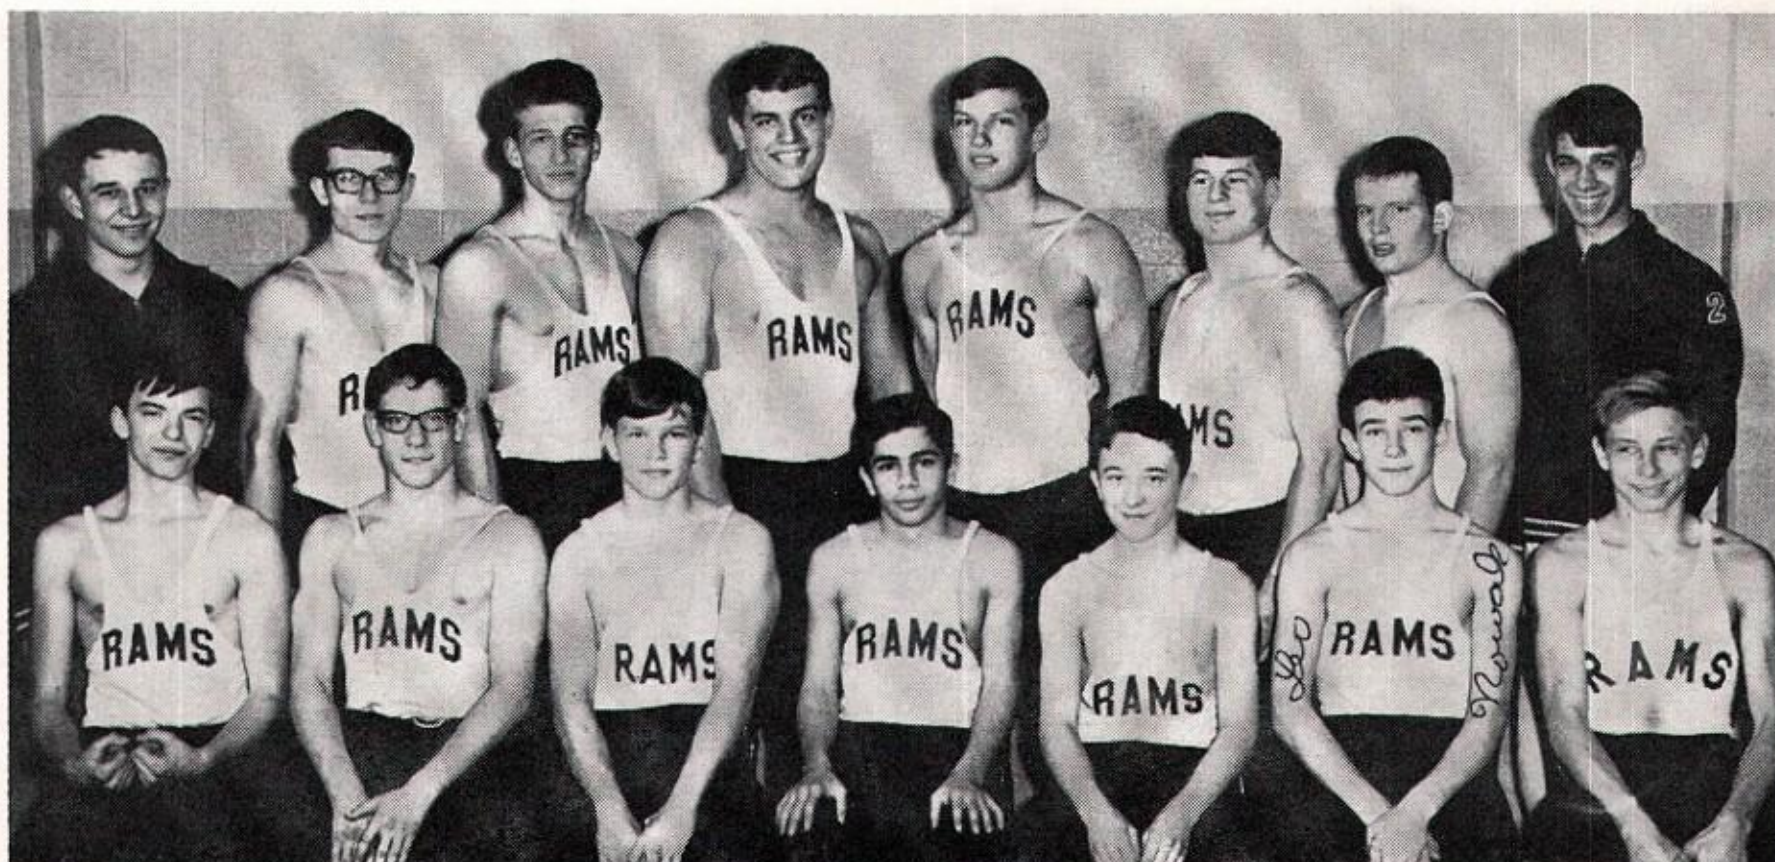

"One . . . Two . . . Three . . . And you're out!" Another G.A.A. baseball game comes to a gruelling end as Sandy Stecher strikes out.

Two zealous volleyball players jump up to hit the ball at the same time making sure it goes back over the net.

As her teammates watch apprehensively, Corinne Stelski makes a noble attempt at a basket and an extra point.

Grapplers Pinpoint Opponents

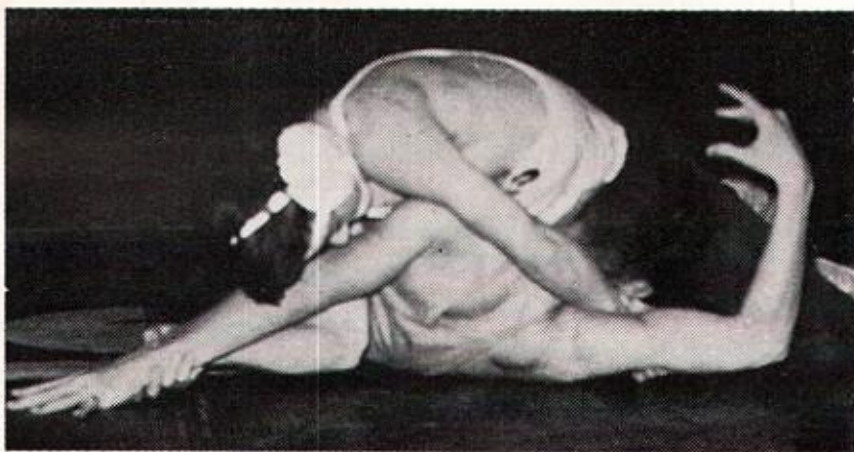

Pulaski's grapplers started the season under the direction of Coach Anthony Pauly. With only three seniors on the team, the Rams lacked depth in the first few meets. Later in the season, sophomore Ned Sahar, and juniors Phil Smith and Bob Korytkowski gained more experience on the mats and proved to be tough contenders. Midway through the season, Coach Pauly moved on to "greener mats" with the opening of the new Alexander Hamilton High School in January. He was replaced by assistant coach Bruce Sonnenberg, who led the squad to individual victories by matmen Ned Sahar, John Rost, Eric Sobczak, John Surges, and Dave Budzien. Pulaski held its annual invitational wrestling met on January 8. Many of the top schools in the state competed for the championship, which saw neighboring New Berlin withstand stiff competition and emerge as the victor.

Gymnasts Vault to Victory

Strenuous practice and concentration aided Jerry Bieck in winning a hard-earned third place in the State Gymnastics Meet.

With skill, the Pulaski gymnastic team muscled its way to four victories out of a possible six dual meets. In dual meet competition individual high scorers for the Rams were Tim Terrill, Frito Rivera, Carey Meier, and Jerry Bieck. Handicapped by the lack of the gym's availability the Rams practiced vigorously in the halls every night.

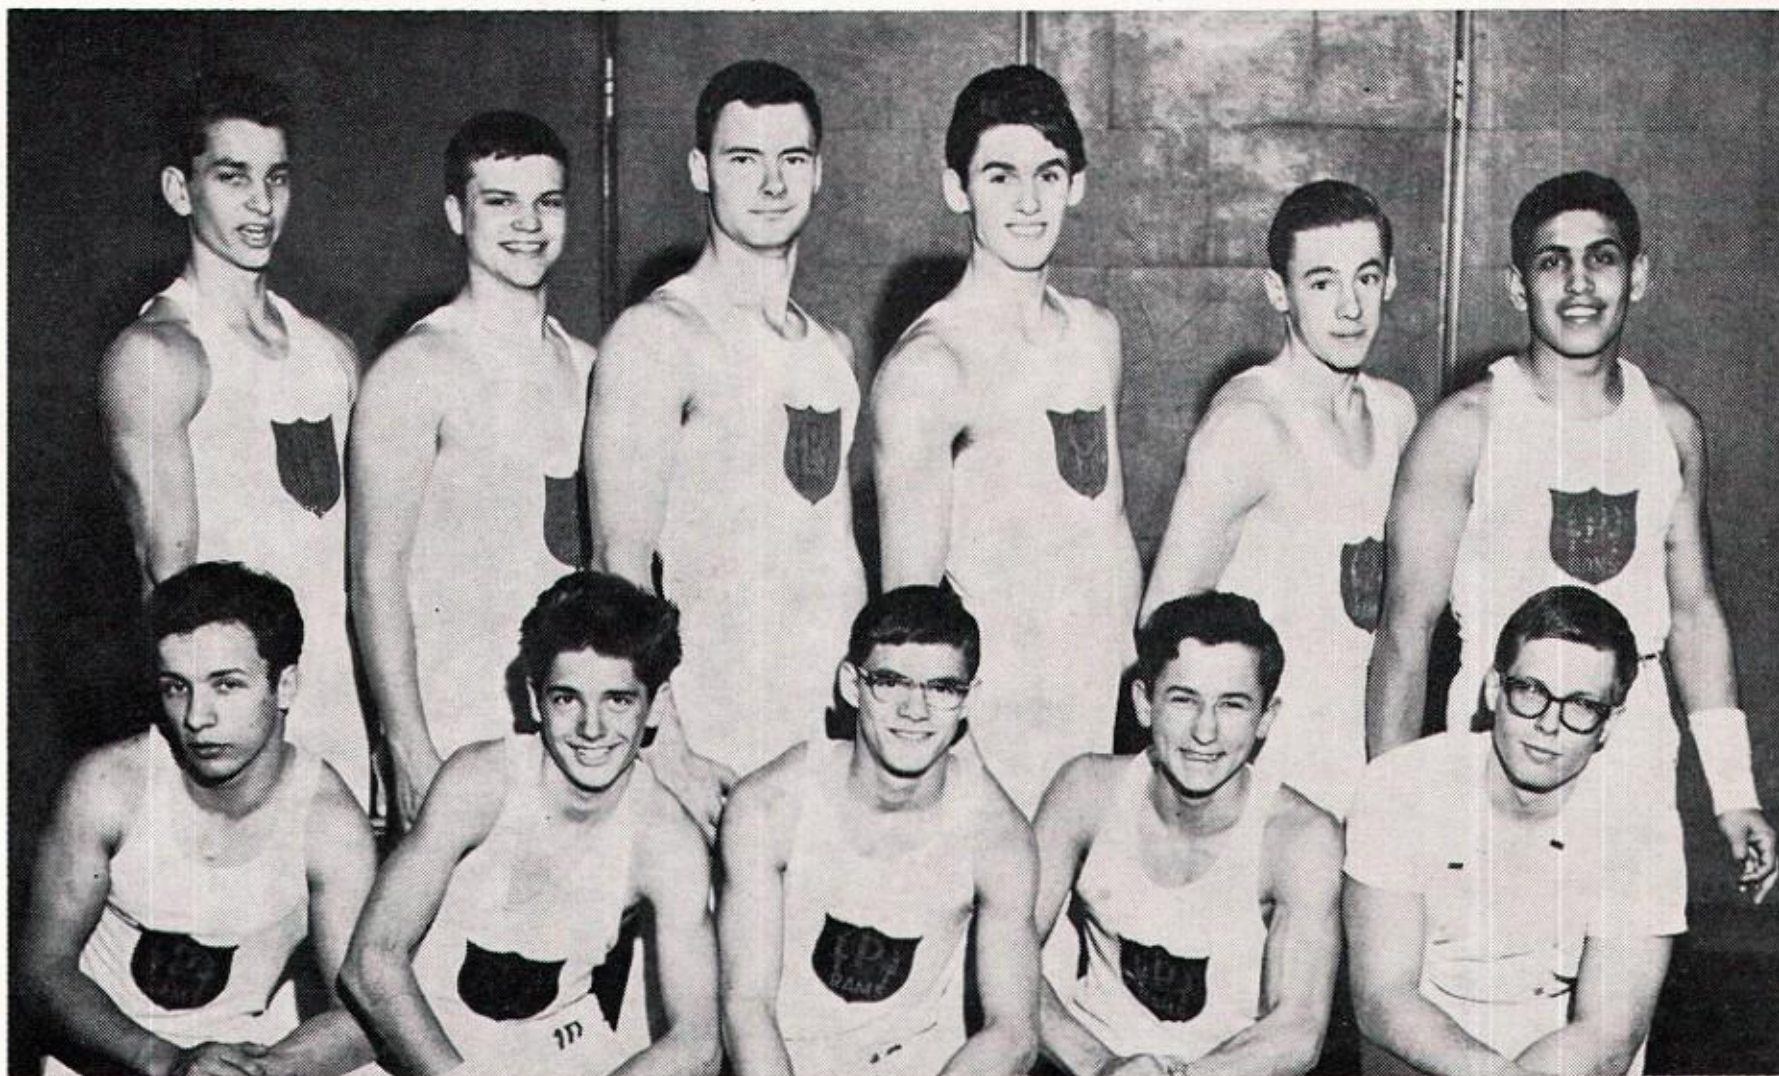

As the City meet approached, Coach Ronald Stram's prospects for a good team placing looked great. The result of the Rams high third place city rating was gained because of strenuous individual practice. Medal award winners in the City meet were Warren Burns and Jerry Bieck on the side horse, Frito Rivera and Clyde Peschl on the long horse, Jim Kachelmeyer on free exercise, and Carey Meier in "all around" competition.

Enthusiastically, the team entered the State meet and returned with a tenth place rating. Jerry Bieck's skill on the side horse earned third place and Carey Meier, a ninth in "all around" competition.

Netmen Rack Up Winning Scores

With no returning lettermen to service the squad with experience, Pulaski's tennis team consisted mostly of Juniors and Sophomores. Coach Wielgosz's netmen smashed their way to four team victories and two ties in city conference competition. After losing an exhausting 38 game match to top-seated Marshall, the Ram doubles team consisting of Jerry Runte and Greg Stromberg upset Boys Tech 6-1, 6-0, and retaliated against Juneau with a 6-0, 6-4 victory.

This year's team consisted of promising Juniors and returning lettermen John Roy, Dennis Juno, Jon Leninchek, Jerry Runte, and Greg Stromberg.

With the toss of a ball, the racquet becomes a blurr propelling the first serve of a tennis match, opening the 1966 season.

Playing a close net game, team captain John Roy punches for a point as his racquet follows through on a forehand volley.

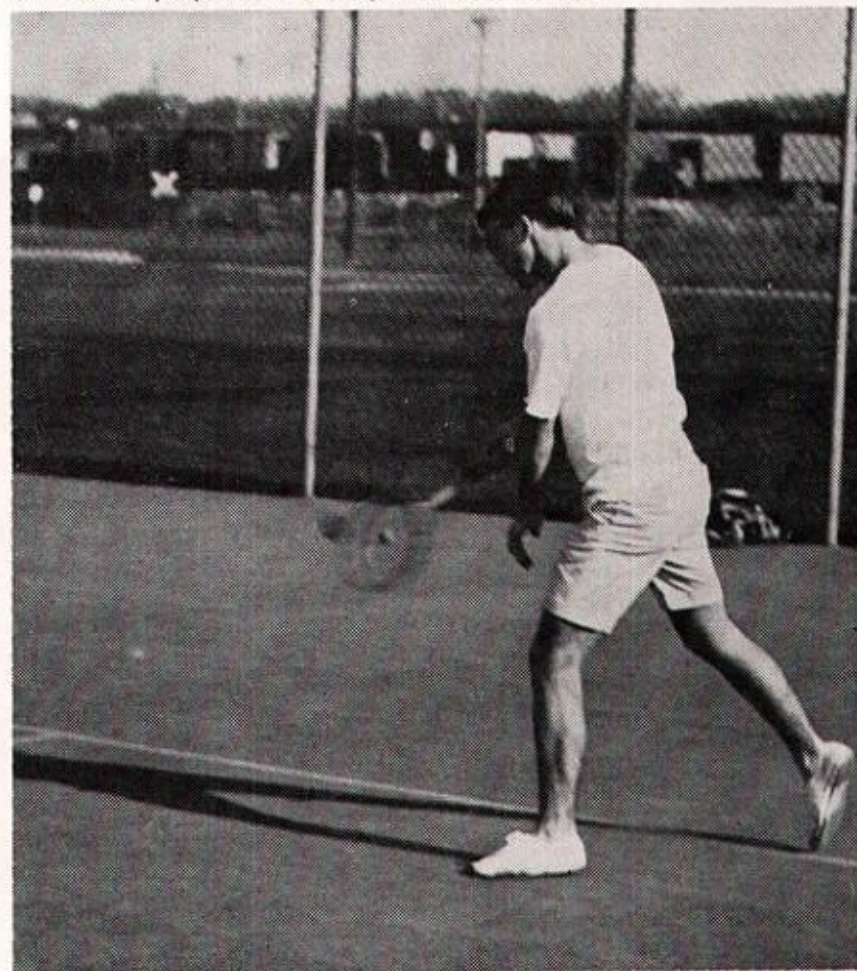

Joining forces to challenge the opposing team, Jon Lenichuk prepares to smash as Greg Stromberg backs him up.

All of the courts are occupied as a warm spring day affords a strenuous workout for the Ram Racquet Squad.

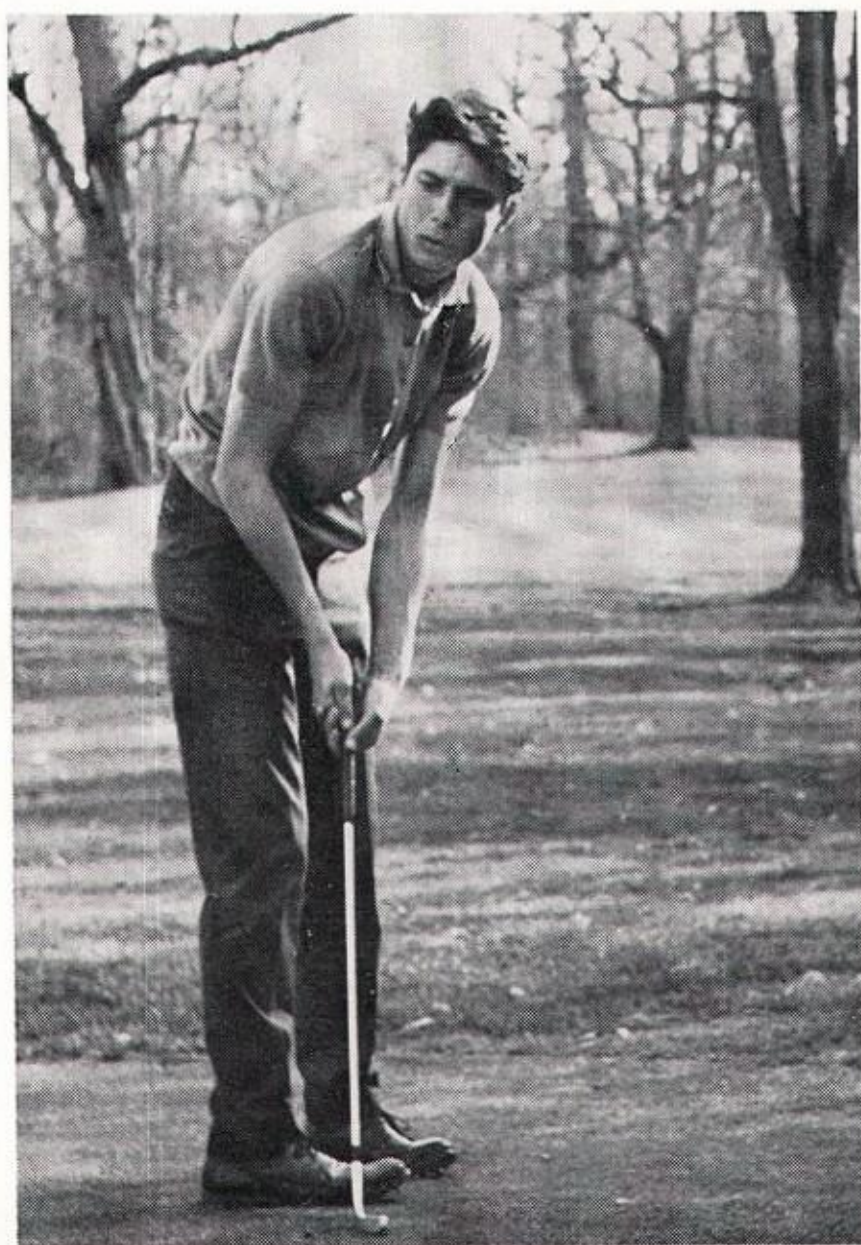

With eyes on the ball, back straight, and knees slightly bent, Jerry Runte shows proper form during a forehand drive.

Golfers Are Cool on the Green

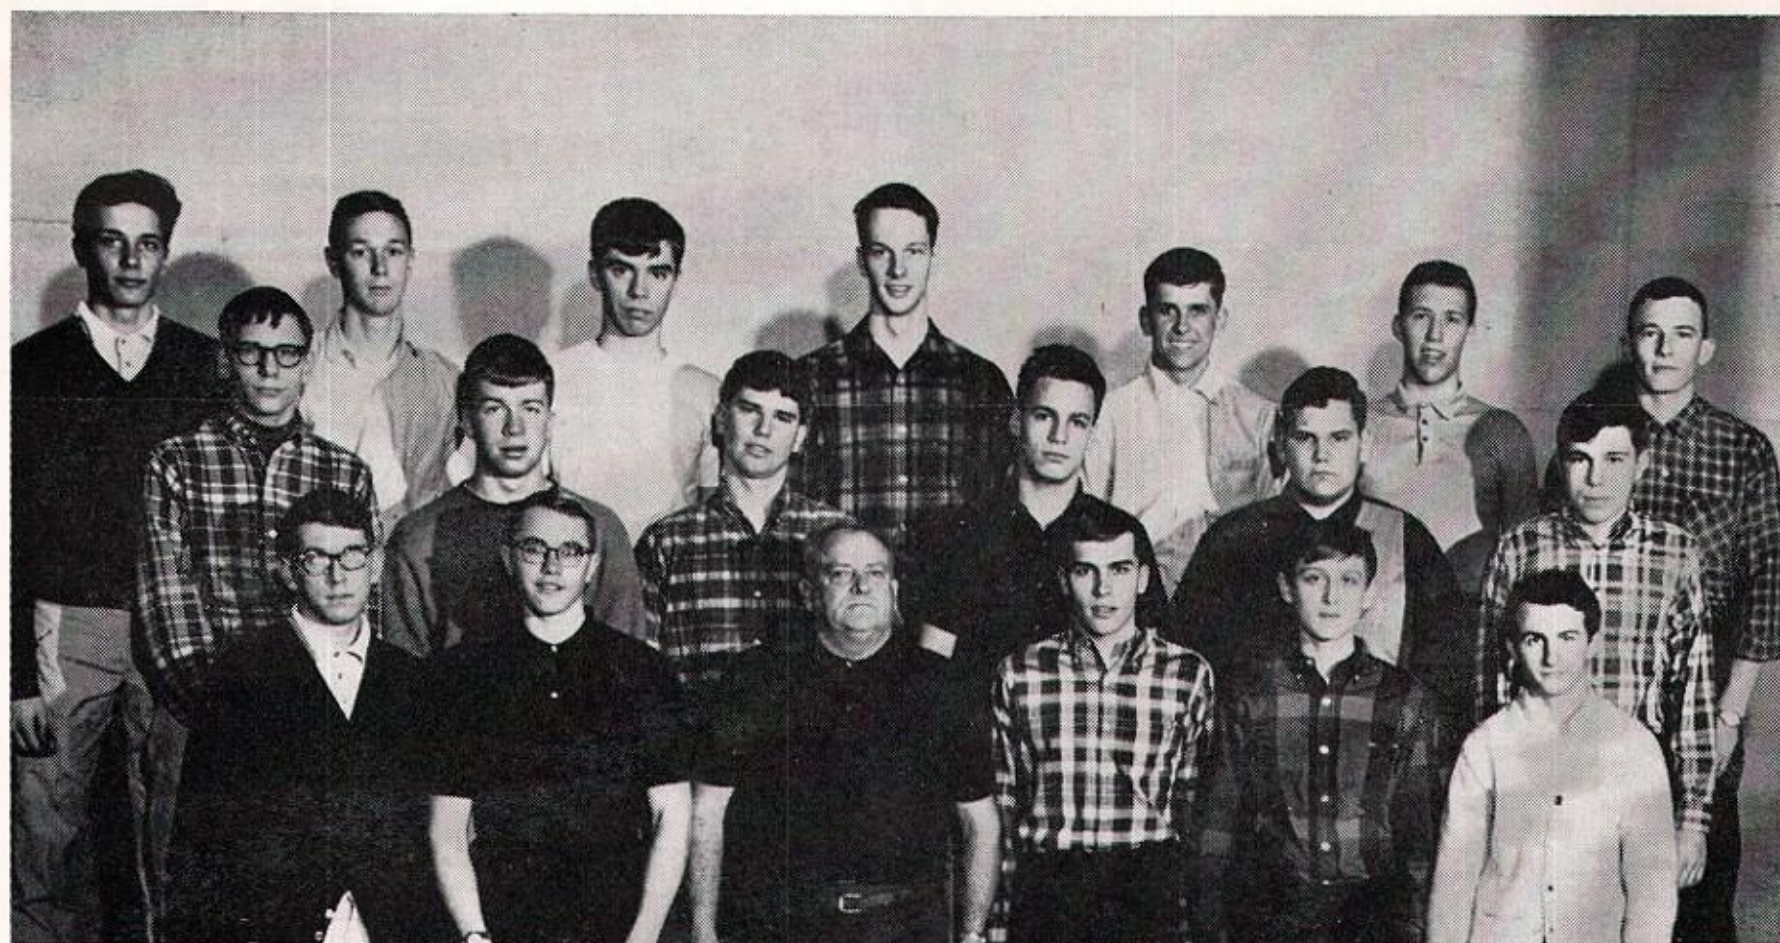

With disbelief written all over his face, Pulaski golfer Kurt Krueger watched his carefully calculated putt miss the hole.

Coach Harry Max and his Rams did it again! For the fourteenth time in the last fifteen years the Pulaski golf team won the undisputed City Conference high school golf title. Pulaski finished with twelve wins and no losses by defeating Juneau in the final match for both teams. Members of the title winning squad, Mike McGrew, Bill Baldewicz, Mike Taylor, and Larry Steppke, scored 163 while the Juneau team tallied a 176.

Larry Steppke led in the City Conference golf meet at North Shore Country Club in the B division with an 84. The meet was held one week before the title meet against Juneau. The other B-Team men in the meet, Daniel Koski scoring an 88, Thomas Kasper with a 90, and Kurt Krueger hitting 99, backed up the varsity squad. Rounding out the B squad during the beginning of the season were Orrin Allen, Thomas Alson, and Dick Niedziela.

Batmen Unfold on Baseball Field

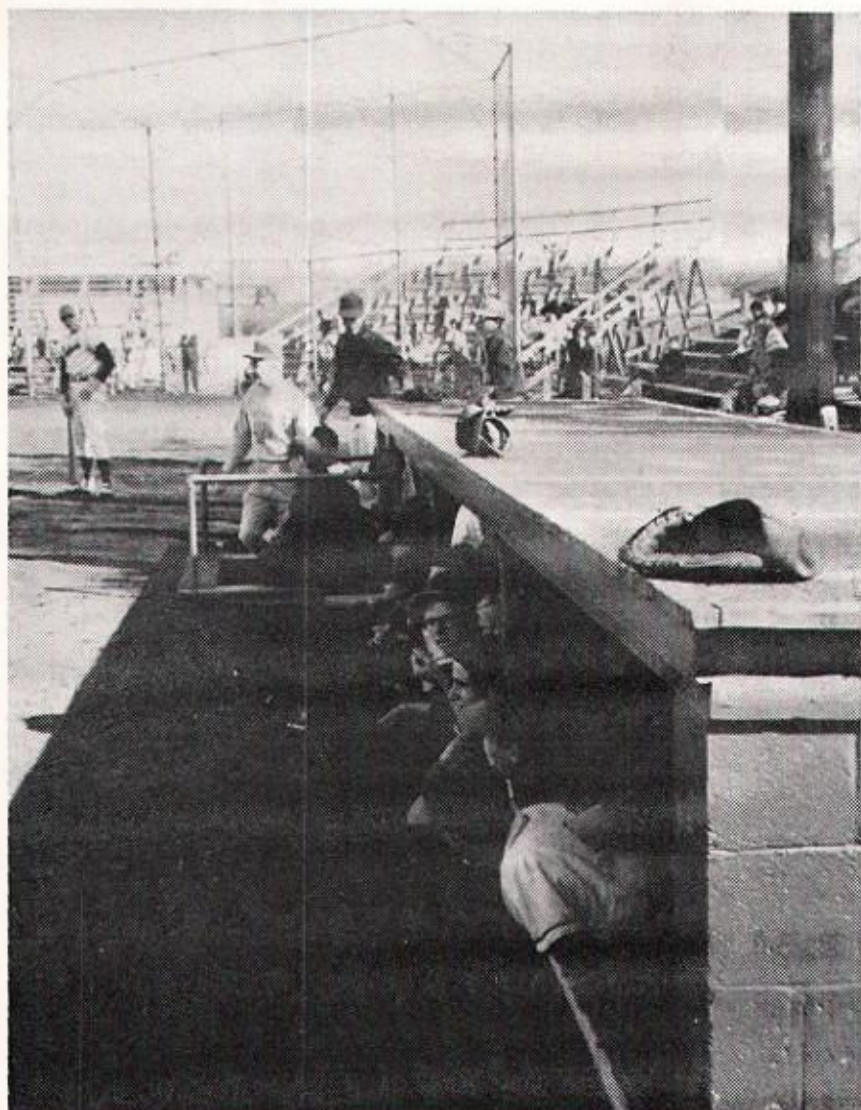

Under the coaching of Mr. Dominick Calabresa, the Ram's baseball team finished with 13 wins and 10 losses, resulting in a tie for fifth place with Bay View. The resourcefulness of Robert Grove, Mike Nickels, James Wolman, and Douglas Czaplewski helped the team to obtain a first place tie with Washington in fielding and a .942 average.

Robert Grove, leading the team in the number of runs, made a total of 17. James Wolman's runs-batted-in and Mike Nickels .240 batting average helped the team to attain eighth place in hitting.

Mike Nickels and Terry Kotlarek headed the team in pitching. Kotlarek pitched a hard fought win against Washington which lasted 15 innings. In the Pulaski-Tech game, Mike Nickels pitched a no-hit, no-run game, helping to chalk up a winning score of 2-0. For their outstanding teamwork, Nickels and Kotlarek were awarded berths on the All-City squad.

Seniors Fade Into

During an individual's lifetime, many challenges test his knowledge, ability, and strength. In the same way, each year of high school presents new challenges to be met and surpassed.

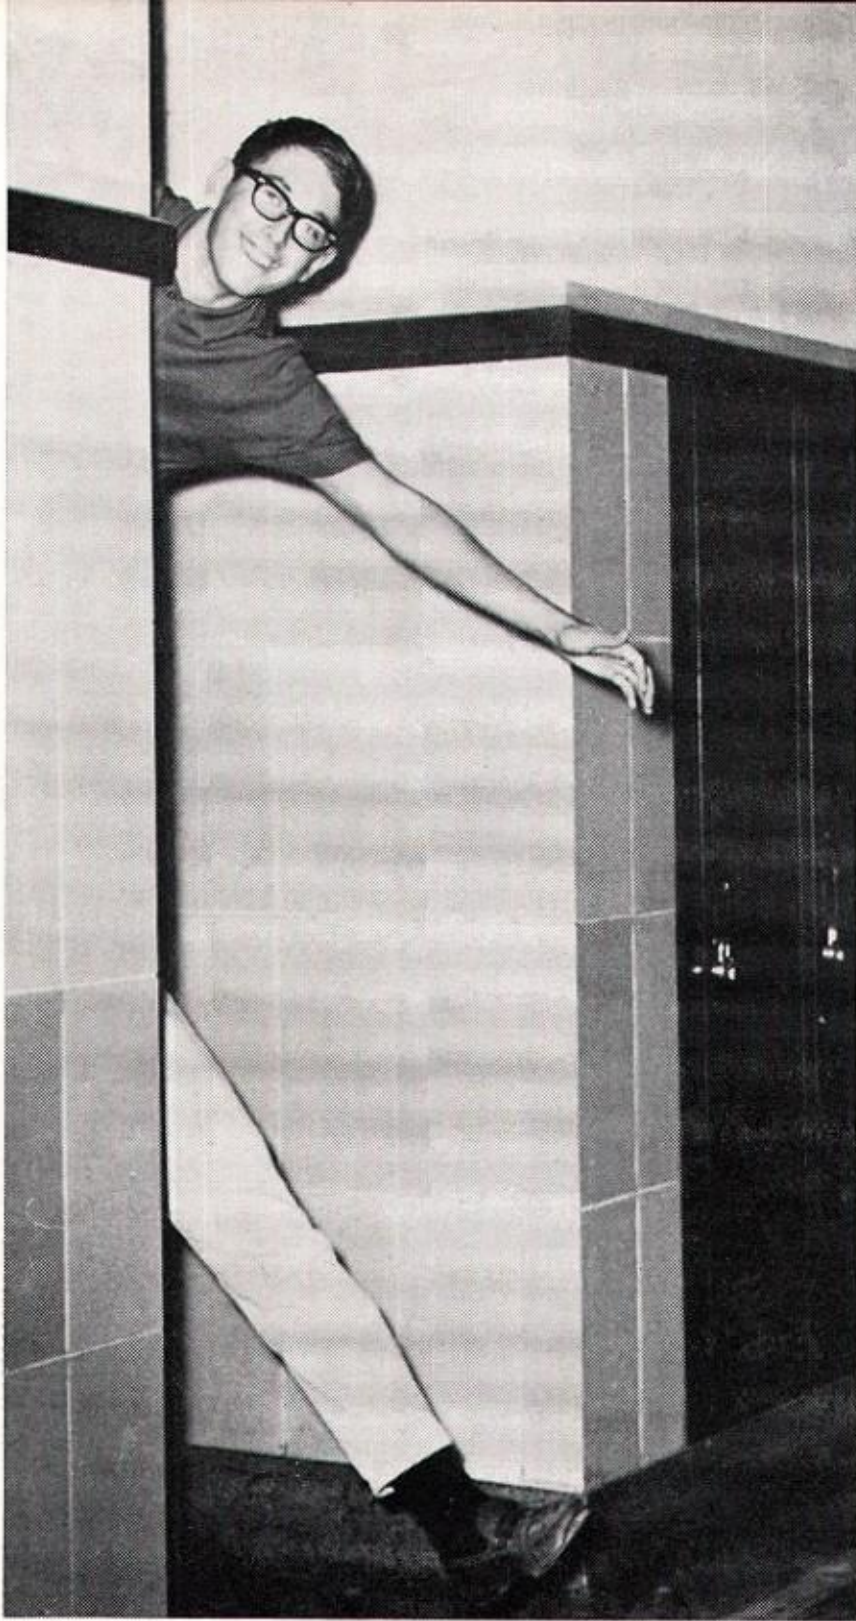

Seniors face many challenges. Setting an example of school spirit for underclassmen, they lead Pulaski's clubs and sports with confidence. Perhaps the greatest challenge is one they have known for many years — to learn. Now the future challenges them to choose an occupation for the coming years. While some decide to further their education, others accept the responsibility of a job. Summoning all of the knowledge and experience accumulated in their roles at Pulaski, upperclassmen plunge independently into the future.

Graduation marks the completion of the fade through high school. At that moment, when the total school experience culminates, seniors fade out of school into challenges of adult life.

Year Of Challenge

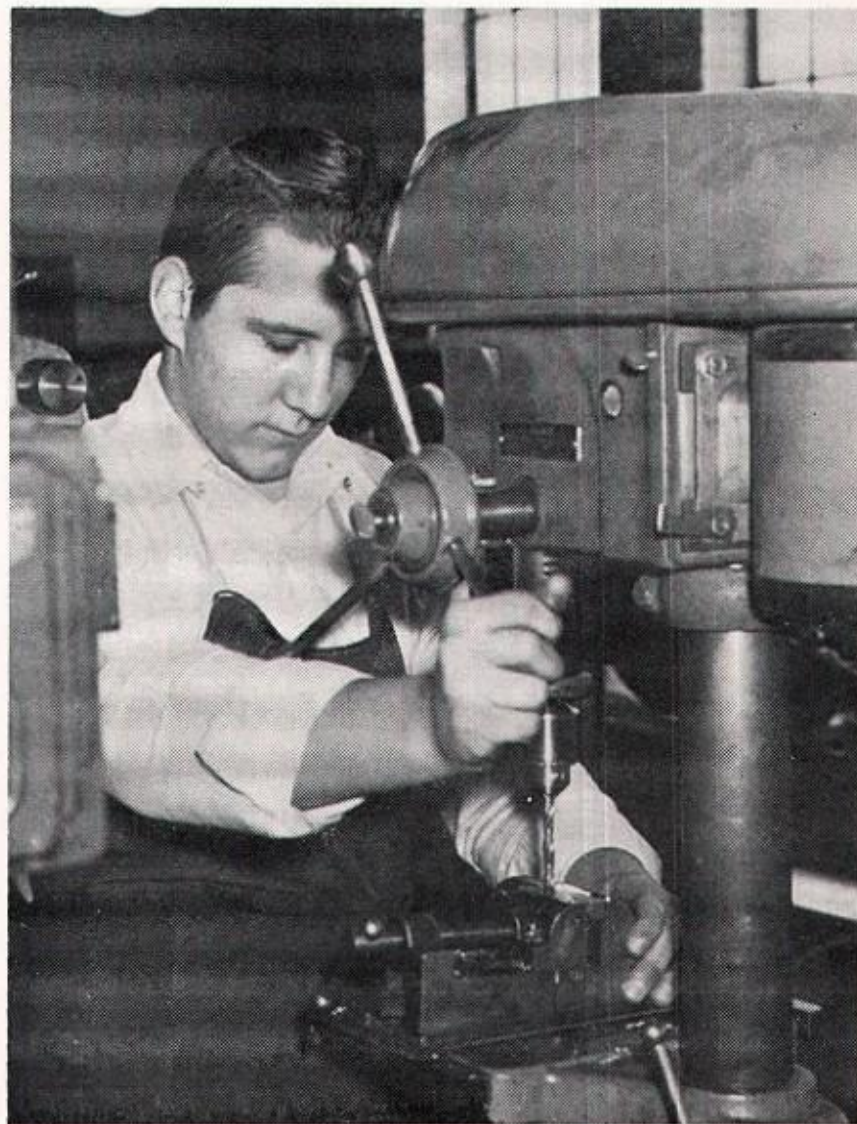

Yesterday, average in height, today, a giant, Mike McGrew "grew" astoundingly overnight to the surprise of his fellow Pulaskians.

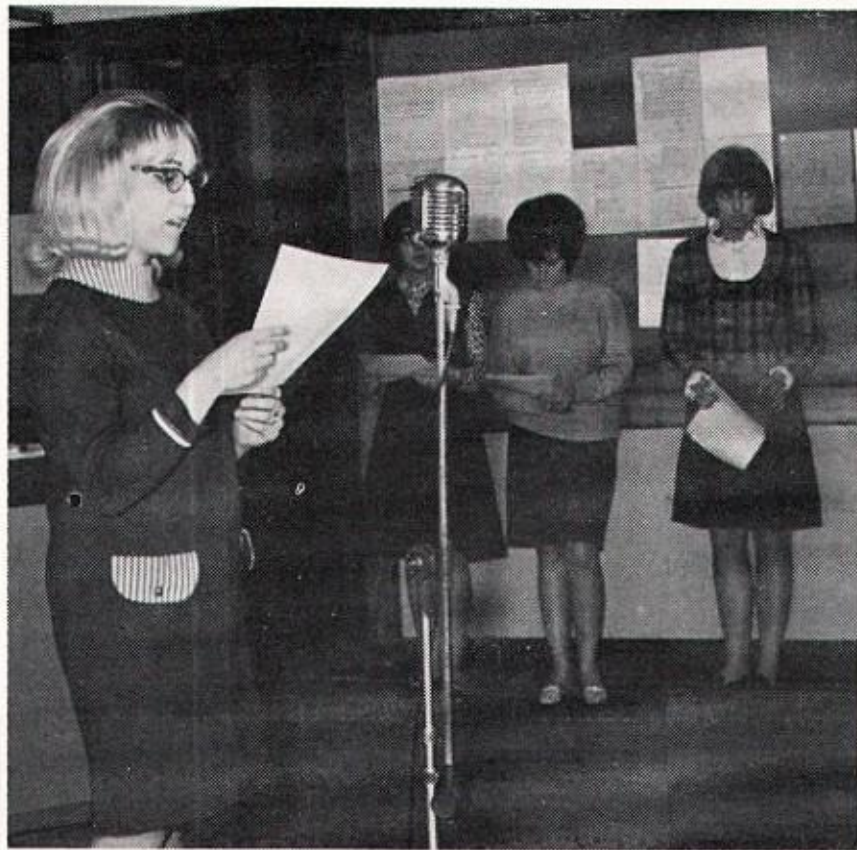

Andie Orlowski stops for a chat with Scott Wilson proving that the busy life of a monitor is not all work and no play.

Brian Bartz, a hard working industrial arts student, gains mechanical experience while operating a drill press.

As Pat Minder captures the attention of her speech class, others waiting their turn try to cure a mild case of butterflies.

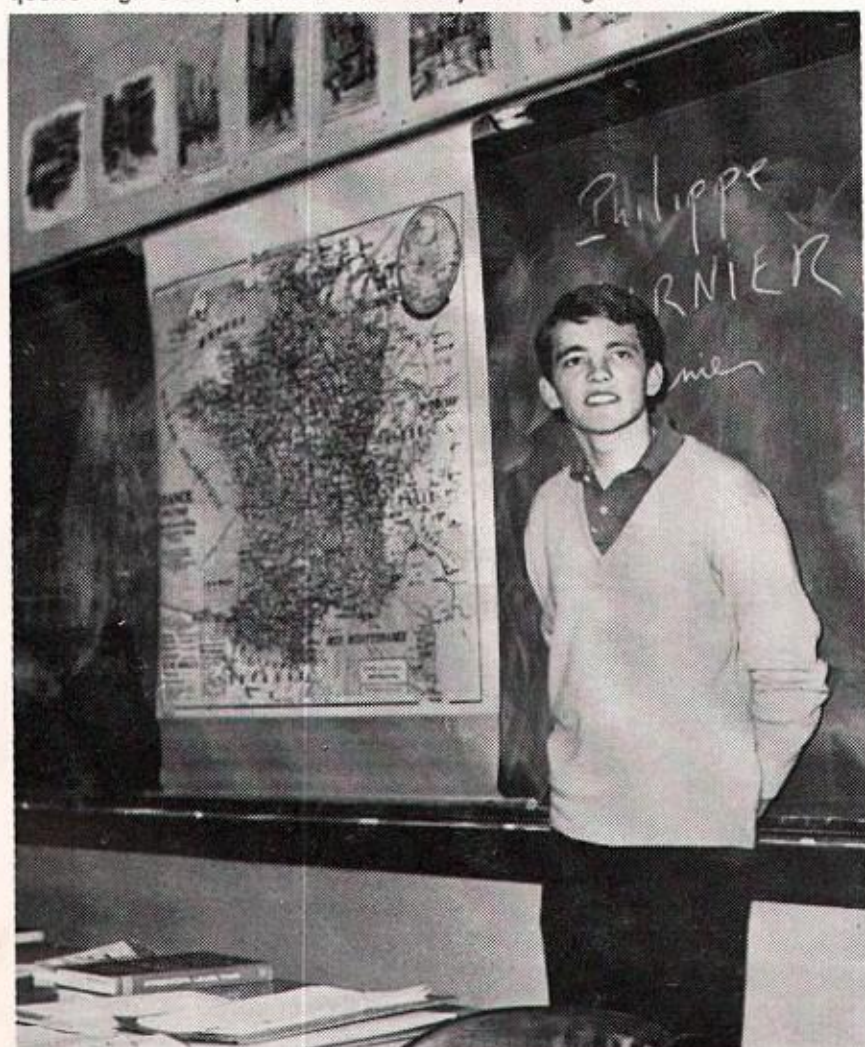

Seniors Form the Upper Crust

Sparkling with radiant enthusiasm, Pulaski's seniors continued to keep alive the old tradition of school spirit. Though busy filing job recommendations, choosing colleges, and filling out college applications, they displayed their zealous energy by actively participating in all school affairs.

Seniors could be distinguished by many outstanding characteristics. As Booster Girls and Lettermen they sold tickets to school functions. Throughout the year, they presided as officers of clubs and were leaders in extra-curricular activities. Easily recognized by their tarnished class rings and over-used slide rules, they were heard discussing memories of the past three years and plans for the future. Spare time was spent exchanging class pictures and preparing for the multitude of activities surrounding graduation.

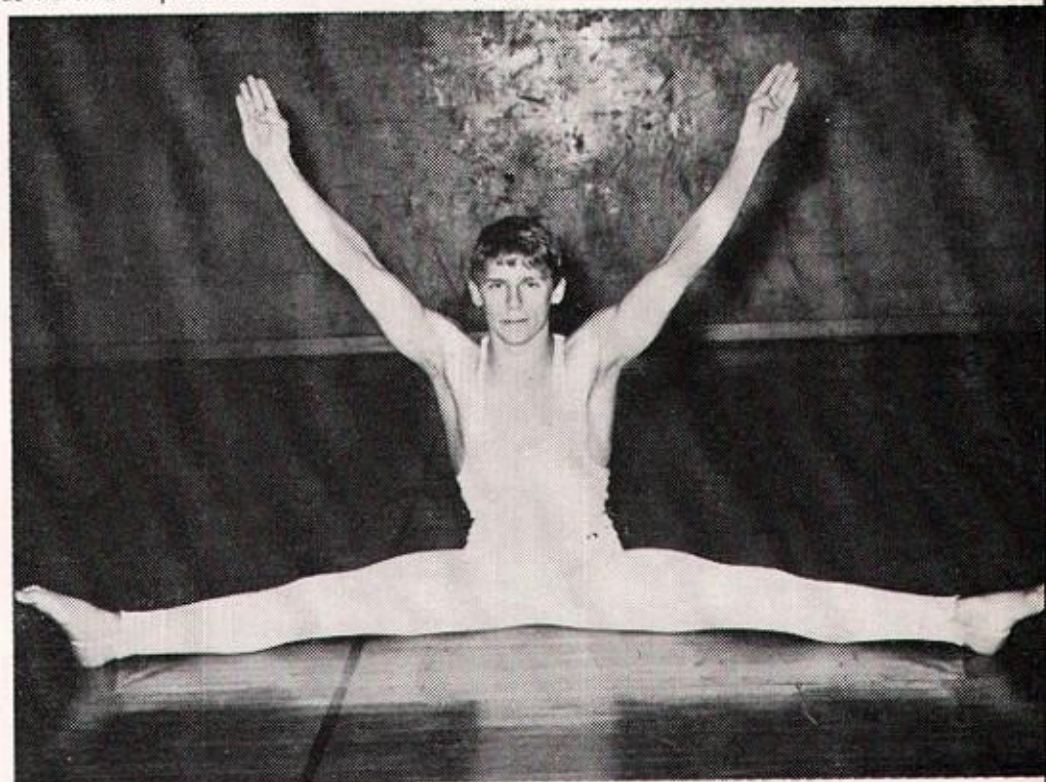

While working hard at times and enjoying themselves at others, they eagerly awaited graduation. Before they knew it their tassels were turned, their hard-earned diplomas were presented, and the proud graduates, leaving Pulaski for the last time, took an important step into the future.

Phillipe Garnier, a French foreign exchange student attending Marquette High School, smiled after a day of visiting Pulaski.

After three years of climbing up and down stairs between classes, this senior decides to give his feet a rest and use his hands.

Evidently Tim Terrill thought the photographer was carrying a gun as he threw up his arms in surrender saying, "Don't shoot!"

January Crowd Leaves the Scene

A flurry of activities led to the long-awaited day when Pulaski said good-bye to another group of seniors in January. Class officers were busy checking on last minute details under the guidance of the class sponsors, Mr. James Coady and Mr. Carlyle Sivesind. The senior planning committee formulated a full schedule for the graduates. Baccalaureate services and a breakfast were held on the Sunday preceding the important day. The traditional banquet was also held on graduation day in the cafeteria.

City Librarian Richard E. Krug was the guest speaker at the commencement exercises held in the auditorium. The class gift was presented to the school by Varis Grundmanis, class president. The presentation of diplomas marked the close of three colorful years at Pulaski.

June Graduates Reach Their Goal

Approximately 625 Pulaskians ended their high school careers on June 16. Commencement exercises marked the completion of three challenging years for the graduating seniors.

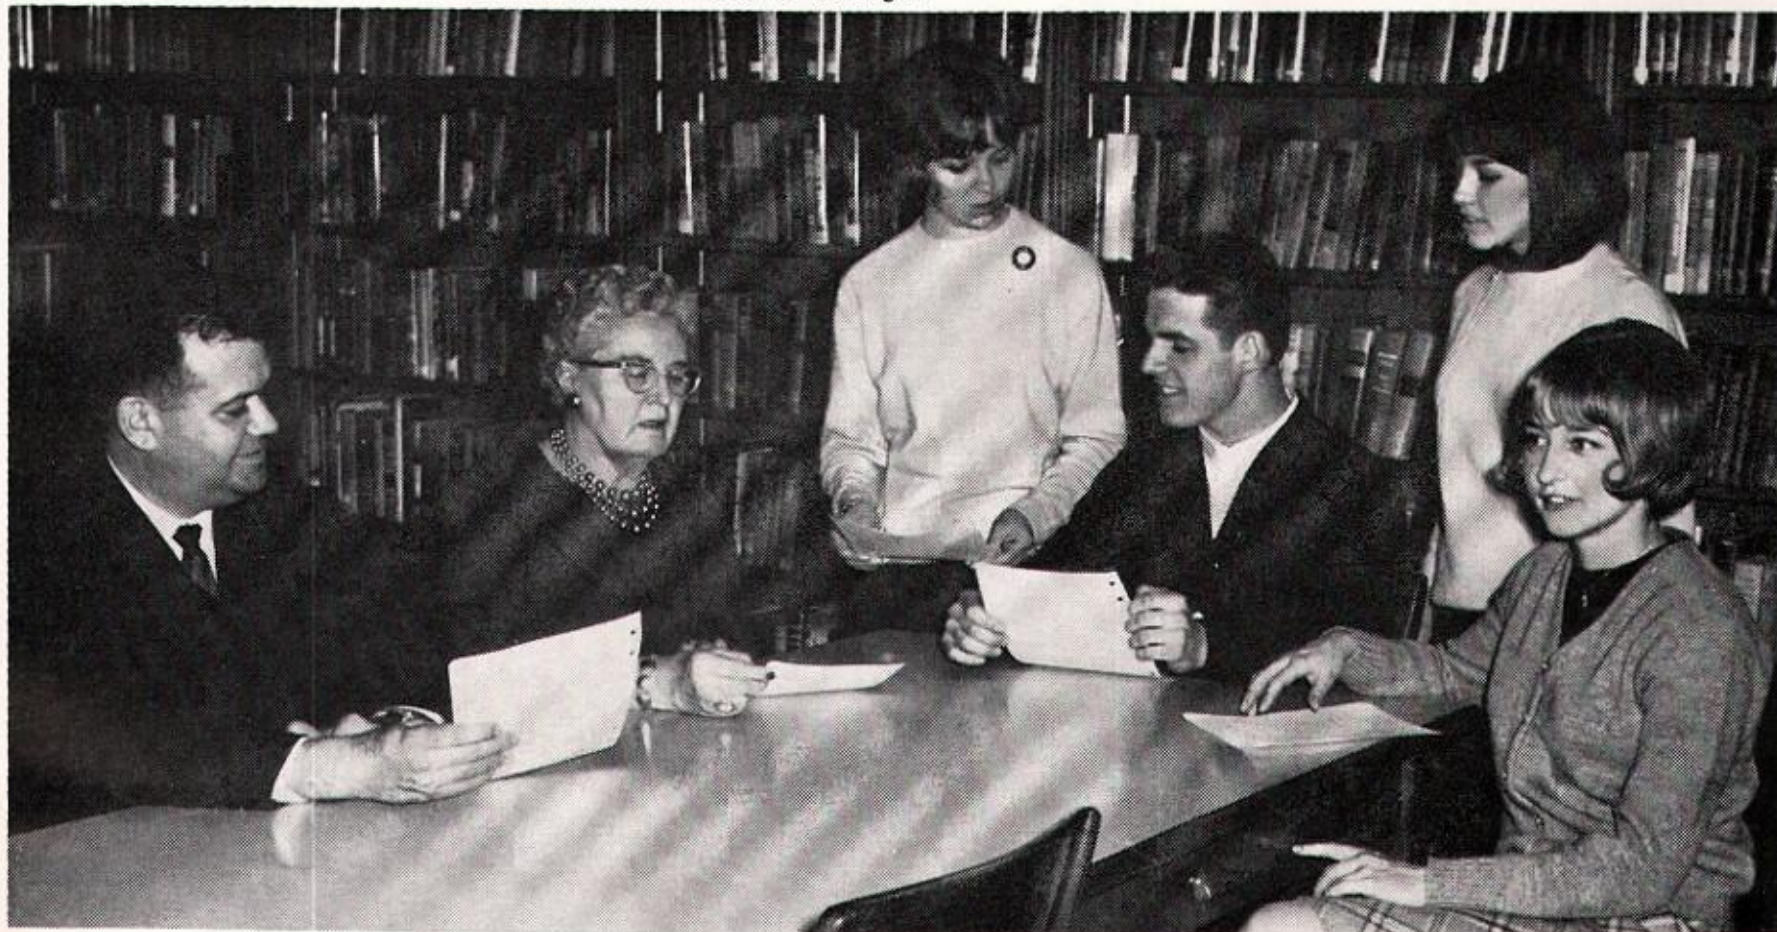

Class sponsors, Miss Dorothea Baumann and Mr. John Pratt, worked hand in hand with the senior planning committee and class officers while arranging the traditional banquet, breakfast, and baccalaureate services.

An address, given by former Mayor Frank P. Zeidler, highlighted the graduation ceremony. Class President Tim Zielinski presented the class gift to the school.

The culmination of high school education was realized with the presentation of hard-earned diplomas as another crop of young adults left Pulaski for the last time.

Faces Fade Out — Enlightened

Bob Gau endures a reprimand from Miss Doring with an indulging smile just before the bell rings, calling an end to the school year.

"Fade out" tends to strike a note of finality. But graduation is not an end; rather it is a transition, a fade from youth to adult life.

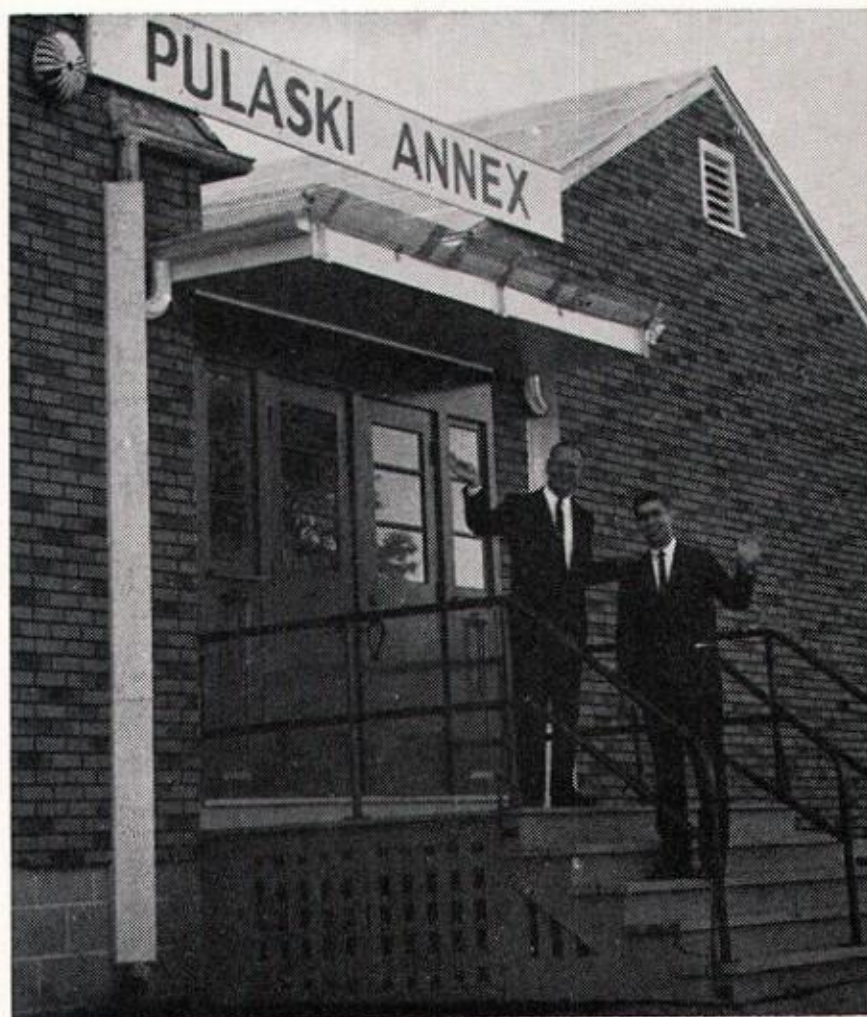

The spark ignited twelve years ago, when seniors entered school, was kindled with knowledge until it became a light in Pulaski's picture. As seniors' lights fade from high school, they must shine in society. The fading faces reflect the knowledge gained in a brief exposure in Pulaski's picture. At the same time, shadows of their contributions to high school life—fads they adopted, clubs they started, special activities they planned, recognition they received—linger in Pulaski's picture.

Underclassmen's "fade out" is short-lived. Next year thousands of faces will "fade in" again to continue the illumination which gives character to each face leaving Pulaski.

Final arrangements were made with a twinge of regret by the stage crew to close up shop for the year.

Mr. Francke and Mr. Jelinek waved god-bye as a busload of students left Pulaski's Annex for the last time. What was, is no more.

A certain finality and sadness could be felt in the auditorium as graduates listened to Pulaski's hymn for the last time.

The absence of slamming lockers and bustling students leaves Pulaski's hallways empty and still, silently waiting for the coming September to bring life back with a new and refreshed group of pupils.
